BOOK JACKET

Depopulation, Aging, and Living Environments Kenji Tsutsumi,2020-11-23 This book provides perspectives on depopulated areas and regional social capital from positivistic field surveys Among the developed countries of the world Japan has a very small amount of national land with almost 70% of it being in mountainous locations Concentration of populations and economic capital into large metropolitan areas along with many depopulated and population aged regions in the mountainous parts can be seen in the country A very clear regional disparity has arisen in Japan especially since the era of its high economic growth This book also offers critical suggestions for the shrinking societies of the developed world in the era of Society 5.0 the fifth stage of society where economic development is achieved and social issues are resolved by the fusion of cyber and physical space To begin the book refers to an outline of depopulation and depopulated areas in Japan Then it deals with issues of depopulation out migration from a mountainous village revitalization of local industries and maintenance of daily living functions in these areas This book is suitable for students and scholars of the social sciences regional planners staffs of government offices members of NPOs general citizens and the many other people who are interested in sustainability of a region and a community in a shrinking social environment

Environmental Science

Methods Robin Haynes, 2012-12-06 This book is an introduction to a range of methods and techniques used in the scientific study of the rocks soils atmosphere waters and living organisms of the Earth and of the relationships of these environmental factors with human activities It is intended to provide a selection of methods for students taking university courses in geography geology meteorology hydrology soil science ecology and other allied environmental sciences The contributors are all members of the School of Environmental Sciences at the University of East Anglia Norwich UK and the book has developed from part of our course for first year students It reflects our belief that students of vast complex environmental systems should begin their work with a panoramic view whatever their ultimate specialization The emphasis is therefore on breadth of treatment and on the connections between the various sciences We have summarized and simplified in order to supply a collection of methods that can be managed by a beginning student We start from basic principles and do not assume that the reader already has a strong scientific background Eleven chapters follow each dealing with a group of closely related methods and techniques They may be taken in any order although there are many cross references which demonstrate that the subjects covered are not eleven isolated techniques but a web of related principles The first three topics illustrate the point
