Michael Lipton, Martin Ravallion, 1993 The End of Slavery in Africa Suzanne Miers, 1988 This is the first comprehensive assessment of the end of slavery in Africa Editors Suzanne Miers and Richard Roberts with the distinguished contributors to the volume establish an agenda for the social history of the early colonial period when the end of slavery was one of the most significant historical and cultural processes The End of Slavery in Africa is a sequel to Slavery in Africa edited by Suzanne Miers and Igor Kopytoff and published by the University of Wisconsin Press in 1977 The contributors explore the historical experiences of slaves masters and colonials as they all confronted the end of slavery in fifteen sub Saharan African societies The essays demonstrate that it is impossible to generalize about whether the end of slavery was a relatively mild and nondisruptive process or whether it marked a significant change in the social and economic organization of a given society There was no common pattern and no uniform consequence of the end of slavery The results of this wide ranging inquiry will be of lasting value to Africanists and a variety of social and economic historians Development: Doctrines of development
Stuart Corbridge, 2000 Brings together more than one hundred articles dealing with the discipline of development in all its diversity Key topics include the transformation of peasant economies agribusiness rural urban relations markets industrialization workers trade aid and structural adjustment A unique set in its comprehensiveness and diversity it also considers four key challenges for development theory and practice relating to capabilities ethics sustainability and regulation

Muslim Modernity in Postcolonial Nigeria Ousmane Kane, 2003-01-01 This book deals with Muslim modernity in a country with the largest single Muslim population in Sub Saharan Africa It provides much needed new grounds for comparative study Until now virtually all socio anthropological works about any specific African country are either authored by nationals of that country or by Western scholars This book is an exception because its author is an Islamicist and a social scientist from Senegal trained in the French social science tradition Therefore his work does offer an original perspective in the study of Nigeria In addition the study of Islam south of the Sahara has so far focused on Sufi orders which form the mainstream of Islam but which by no means covers the whole Islamic field so called Islamic fundamentalist movements are also part of the religious landscape This book is devoted to the study of the largest single Muslim fundamentalist organization in postcolonial Sub Saharan Africa the Society for the Removal of Innovation and Reinstatement of Tradition Politics

Tropical Exports and Economic Development Barbara Ingham, 1981-06-18 African Food Systems in Crisis Rebecca Huss-Ashmore, Solomon H Katz, 2019-07-19 Originally published in 1991 Commissioned by the Task Force on African Famine of the American Anthropological Association this is the second part of a project examining the causes of food system failure in Africa and the effects of attempts to remedy the situation It evaluates the often retrogressive results of foreign aid to African nations and offers an anthropological perspective on how to reverse this trend The contributors emphasize integrating all development programs with the regional customs and traditions already in place that have thus far allowed its people to cope with food and water shortages In the past various strategies have failed due to misunderstandings and incorrect assumptions concerning gender roles food consumption habits social relations kinship networks land use and government function New understanding of the culture must be complemented with multifaceted programs incorporating education a concern for grass roots opinion and control attention to production and consumption patterns and various forms of broad spectrum integrated development The uniqueness research is recommended for all who are concerned about worldwide malnutrition and those who understand the need to recognize local traditions as resources that must be included in any successful development program

Slavery in Africa Suzanne Miers, Igor Kopytoff, 1977 This collection of sixteen short papers together with a complex and very much longer introductory essay by the editors on African Slavery as an Institution of Marginality constitutes an impressive attempt by anthropologists and historians to explore describe and analyze some of the various kinds of human bondage within a number of precolonial African societies It is important to note that in spite of the precolonial emphasis of the volume all of the essays are based at least partly on anthropological or ethnohistorical field research carried out since 1959 All but one have been augmented greatly by more conventional historical research in published as well as archival sources And although the volume s focus is upon the structures and conditions of servitude within the several African societies described many of the essays illustrate and some discuss the conceptual as well as the practical difficulties of separating the institutions and customs of domestic African slavery from those of the European dominated commercial slave trade in which many of the societies participated from JSTOR <http://www.jstor.org> May 24 2013
