Rural Process-Pattern Relationships David Grossman,1992-03-19 This volume examines the relationships between rural settlement processes and the spatial patterns they produce by mapping past and present patterns and tracing the historical processes which generated them Using the historical records of Palestine Eretz Israel David Grossman reviews the settlement processes of bedouins sedentarization and nomadization Arab peasants settlement fixation migration and frontier expansion of fallahin and early Jewish settlers Past records are traced back to the biblical period and a survey of the literature dealing with British evidence of rural processes and settlement in medieval times is presented for comparison sharpening Grossman s particular approach to the subject The introduction provides a review of the literature and a discussion of the various approaches to the interpretation of rural spatial processes It evaluates theoretical models and concludes with a simple model functioning as a hypothetical basis for the rest of the book The following two chapters are devoted to the British colonization process which unlike the Palestinian one can be traced in a fairly uninterrupted manner to its Anglo Saxon roots Next are chapters detailing the settlement processes and process patterns in Palestine concluding with a reexamination of theoretical models in light of empirical evidence Rural Process Pattern Relationships considers subjects central to both historical geography and rural geography representing a unique approach of interest to a wide range of scholars

Rural Settlement Structure And African Development Marilyn Silberfein,2019-09-16 This volume is the result of a group of researchers applying their insights and experience to a common theme All the authors are concerned with rural development in Africa and all have focused on the connection between the development process and the arrangement of people and their built environment in rural space Both anthropologists and geo graphers have contributed to the dialogue on this subject and represen tatives of the two disciplines are included in this volume The members of this group have never all been in the same place at the same time and so have utilized various electronic modes of commu nication to link their locations around the world Two conferences were organized however among a subset of the whole in order to generate a group discussion One of these meetings was a symposium on African rural development held at Temple University while a second was orga nized at the African Studies Association Meetings in Toronto Both opportunities helped raise issues that found their way into individual chapters The audience in each case further stimulated our thinking Rural Arab

Demography and Early Jewish Settlement in Palestine David Grossman,2017-09-08 This volume explores the distribution of the rural population in Palestine from the late Ottoman period 1870 1917 to the British Mandate period 1917 1948 The book focuses on demography specifically migrations population size density growth and the pattern of distribution in rural Palestine before the inception of Jewish settlement 1882 Grossman traces little known Muslim ethnic groups who settled in Palestine s rural areas primarily Egyptians but also Algerians Bosnians and Circassians The author argues that the Arab population in the zones occupied by Jews after 1882 was about one third that of the Arab core areas in the period studied the decline in per capita rural Arab farmland was mainly due to overall population growth not displacement of Arabs economic development suffered largely because of violent disturbances and natural disasters the pattern of growth of Egyptian and other Muslim groups was similar to that of the Jews The main conclusions of this study note that the size of the rural Arab population in the zones occupied by Jews after 1882 was about one tenth of that which occupied the Arab core zones most Egyptian settlement areas coincided with those of the Jewish zones between 1870 and 1945 the decline of Arab farmland was mainly due to Arab population growth rather than Jewish land acquisitions and most migrants Jewish and Muslim settlement zones were leftovers characterized by some form of resource disability As Nomadism Ends Avinoam Meir,2019-06-03 As pastoral nomads become settled they face social spatial and ecological change in the shift from herding to farming toward integration into the market economy This book analyzes the socio spatial changes that follow the end of nomadism especially in the unique case of the Bedouin of the Negev The culture of the Negev Bedouin stands in shar

Contemporary World Liam M. Brady,Paul S.C. Taçon,2016-12-01 Rock art has long been considered an archaeological artifact reflecting activities from the past yet it is also a phenomenon with present day meaning and relevance to both indigenous and non indigenous communities Relating to Rock Art in the Contemporary World challenges traditional ways of thinking about this highly recognizable form of visual heritage and provides insight into its contemporary significance One of the most visually striking forms of material culture embedded in landscapes rock art is ascribed different meanings by diverse groups of people including indigenous peoples governments tourism offices and the general public all of whom relate to images and sites in unique ways In this volume leading scholars from around the globe shift the discourse from a primarily archaeological basis to one that examines the myriad ways that symbolism meaning and significance in rock art are being renegotiated in various geographical and cultural settings from Australia to the British Isles They also consider how people manage the complex meanings emotions and cultural and political practices tied to rock art sites and how these factors impact processes relating to identity construction and reaffirmation today Richly illustrated and geographically diverse Relating to Rock Art in the Contemporary World connects archaeology anthropology and heritage studies The book will appeal to students and scholars of archaeology anthropology heritage heritage management identity studies art history indigenous studies and visual theory as well as professionals and amateurs who have vested or avocational interests in rock art Contributors Agust n Acevedo Manuel Bea Jutinach Bowonsachoti Gemma Boyle John J Bradley Noelene Cole In s Domingo Kurt E Dongoske Davida Eisenberg Degen D nae Fiore Ursula K Frederick Kelley Hays Gilpin Catherine Namono George H Nash John Norder Marianna Ocampo Joshua Schmidt Duangpond Singhaseni Benjamin W Smith Atthasit Sukkham Noel Hidalgo Tan Watinee Tanompolkrang Luke Taylor Dagmara Zawadzka Palestinian Rituals of Identity Awad Halabi, 2023-01-17 Members of Palestine s Muslim community have long honored al Nabi Musa or the Prophet Moses Since the thirteenth century they have celebrated at a shrine near Jericho believed to be the location of Moses s tomb in the mid nineteenth century they organized a civic festival in Jerusalem to honor this prophet Considered one of the most important occasions for Muslim pilgrims in Palestine the Prophet Moses festival yearly attracted thousands of people who assembled to pray conduct mystical forms of worship and hold folk celebrations Palestinian Rituals of Identity takes an innovative approach to the study of Palestine s modern history by focusing on the Prophet Moses festival from the late Ottoman period through the era of British rule Halabi explores how the festival served as an arena of competing discourses with various social groups attempting to control its symbols Tackling questions about modernity colonialism gender relations and identity Halabi recounts how peasants Bedouins rural women and Sufis sought to influence the festival even as Ottoman authorities British colonists Muslim clerics and Palestinian national leaders did the same Drawing on extensive research in Arabic newspapers and Islamic and colonial archives Halabi reveals how the festival has encapsulated Palestinians responses to modernity colonialism and the nation s growing national identity Roman Palmyra Andrew M. Smith II, 2013-01-02 In social economic and cultural terms the eastern frontier of the Roman Empire was vastly complex which has fueled considerable debate among scholars concerning the nature of the interactions between Romans and natives in the Near East Notions of imperialism specifically cultural imperialism frame much of the debate Through a detailed analysis of Palmyrene identity and community formation Andrew M Smith II presents a social and political history of Roman Palmyra the oasis city situated deep in the Syrian Desert midway between Damascus and the Euphrates river This city state is unique in the ancient world since it began as a humble community probably no more than an isolated village and grew due in part to its role in the caravan trade into an economically powerful cosmopolitan urban center of Graeco Roman character that operated outside of Roman rule yet under Roman patronage The book therefore focuses on two aspects of Palmyrene civilization during the first three centuries of the Common Era the emergence and subsequent development of Palmyra as a commercial and political center in the desert frontier between Rome and Parthia and later Persia and the making of Palmyrenes This study is thus concerned with the creation structure and maintenance of Palmyrene identity and that of Palmyra as an urban community in a volatile frontier zone The history of Palmyra s communal development would be wholly obscure were it not for the archaeological and epigraphic materials that testify to Palmyrene achievements and prosperity at home and abroad These complemented by the literary evidence also provide insight into the relatively obscure historical process of sedentarization and of the relationships between pastoral and sedentary communities in the Roman Near East In addition to examining Palmyra as a frontier community the book will move beyond Syria to explore the development and maintenance of Palmyrene identity in diaspora settings in Italy north Africa and Europe This study is thus concerned with the creation structure and maintenance of Palmyrene identity and that of Palmyra as an urban community in a volatile frontier zone “And in

The Religions of Ancient Israel Ziony Zevit, 2003-06-01 This is the most far reaching interdisciplinary investigation into the religion of ancient Israel ever attempted The author draws on textual readings archaeological and historical data and epigraphy to determine what is known about the Israelite religions during the Iron Age 1200-586 BCE The evidence is synthesized within the structure of an Israelite worldview and ethos involving kin tribes land traditional ways and places of worship and a national deity Professor Zevit has originated this interpretive matrix through insights ideas and models developed in the academic study of religion and history within the context of the humanities He is strikingly original for instance in his contention that much of the Psalter was composed in praise of deities other than Yahweh Through his book the author has set a precedent which should encourage dialogue and cooperative study between all ancient historians and archaeologists but particularly between Iron Age archaeologists and biblical scholars The work challenges many conclusions of previous scholarship about the nature of the Israelites religion

From Slumber to Awakening Mishael Caspi, Jerome David Weltsch, 1998 From Slumber to Awakening argues that when investigating the cultural and historical predicament of segments of any society a close examination of the literal expression of the people is necessary to understand their human condition better To accomplish this the individual psyches of authors and poets must be delved into and in this case was accessed through personal interviews This study approaches the unique social position of the Arab Israelis through an exploration of culture and history The examination of the literature itself begins with Israeli literature from the broad perspectives of both the prose and poetry forms and then moving into the literature and literati themselves one by one exploring the lives of the writers while superimposing their human experiences with the expressions and stories of their creative works This examination along with the interviews defines the Arab Israeli minority as a group while also comparing them to Jewish Israeli writers who are close to the Arab Israeli situation
