Kumar, 2022-12-10 Survival on earth is impossible without water and hence water is indispensable for one and all All forms of life depend on water for sustenance Availability of water is a challenging quotient for the existence of life on our planet Fiction writers even predict a world war in the distant future just for water Unless adequate measures are taken to conserve the available water resources the supply of this may be at a risk and soon may get exhausted Scientists say that overexploitation of water would impoverish underground water resources and that the world might in the future turn out to be become a desert soon In India the stress on the availability of water is increasing day by day primarily due to population explosion and the raise in the standards of living The World Bank Participation Sourcebook, 1996 Presents case studies resulting from participation in the World Bank by developing countries such as Chad Brazil and Nigeria Poverty and Development in China Caizhen Lu, 2013-03-01 China has made huge economic strides in recent decades but poverty is still a major issue on the agenda for rural China Poverty and Development in China analyses how poverty is recognized and measured and how people in poverty are identified literally asking who is poor in China Lu Caizhen's research compares four approaches to poverty assessment China's official poverty identification method the participatory approach to poverty assessment the monetary approach and use of multidimensional poverty indicators Each of these is applied to the same population of households to identify the poor in rural Wuding County Yunnan Province The analysis shows that there is in fact very little overlap of households identified as poor by the various means and that choice of approach does matter in the outcome of who is identified as poor This has implications at the theoretical methodological and policy levels Lu discusses these in detail concluding that at present there is a need to shift away from poverty reduction strategies that narrowly emphasize income generation activities as these are often short term efforts Instead the focus should move towards a broader combination of short term and long term strategies to break poverty's inter linked structural causes The
