Choosing to Become a Nurse in Saudi Arabia and the Lived Experience of New Graduates Mohammed Alboliteeh, 2015 Saudi Arabia has undergone rapid social and economic change in recent years As one of the largest employers in the country these changes have had a significant impact on the healthcare sector in particular on the nursing workforce In the past Saudi Arabia relied almost exclusively upon expatriate nurses to meet the healthcare needs of its growing population However an increase in the Saudi population high levels of Saudi unemployment and a desire to redress the country's reliance on an expatriate workforce led the Saudi government to implement a Saudisation program an initiative to recruit train and employ Saudi nationals throughout the workforce As a result approximately 50% of nurses are now of Saudi nationality This research is a mixed methods study A quantitative study was undertaken to gain a description of the Saudi nursing workforce in Riyadh city in particular their motivations views of the profession and future plans The initial aim of the quantitative study was to ascertain why high numbers of Saudi males were entering the nursing workforce in Saudi Arabia however female nurses were also surveyed in order to understand if there was a relationship between gender and motivations to undertake nursing views of the profession and future plans In this component of the study a self administered survey was distributed to all Saudi nurses working as registered nurses in Ministry of Health MOH hospitals in Riyadh The results indicated that the Saudi Arabia nurses surveyed were young and inexperienced with a mean age of 27 years and with 80% having less than five years experience in the nursing field Other important issues emerged in this study such as the nurses desire for educational and professional development poor working conditions in the sector the low social status of the profession difficulties associated with working in a mixed gender environment and cultural and communication problems Significantly just below half of all respondents intended leaving the profession This study offers important insights into a segment of the Saudi nursing workforce which has not been the subject of intensive study This new emerging nursing workforce is making a mark on the Saudi healthcare sector In order to prevent attrition in the nursing field Saudi nurses need to be provided with appropriate education training respect and working conditions This study offers important recommendations and insights for the future of Saudi nursing

Between Conflict and Collegiality Asaf Darr, 2023-07-15

Between Conflict and Collegiality explores how ethnonational religious struggle between Jews and Palestinians affects relations in ethnically mixed work teams in Israel Asaf Darr documents the tensions that permeate the workplace and reveals when such tensions threaten the cohesion of the work environment Darr chronicles the grassroots coping strategies employed by both Jewish and Palestinian through field studies conducted with workers in various sectors in Israel adopting a comparative method that identifies the differences in how ethnonational religious tensions play out Between Conflict and Collegiality asks how workers deal with external ethnonational and religious pressures and whether the broader ethnonational conflict is reflected in the career expectations and trajectories of minority group members Darr examines whether minority group members use of their own language at work become a point of contestation how religion is manifested in the workplace whether co workers from different ethnonational groups form amicable relations that extend beyond the workplace and whether positive experiences working in ethnically mixed workplaces have the potential to
