Nurturing Young Black Males Ronald B. Mincy,1994 Examines mentoring programs aimed at helping young African American males Social Work With African American Males Waldo E. Johnson Jr.,2010-05-26 African American males have never fared as poorly as they do currently on a number of social indicators They are less likely to complete high school than their white male and female or African American female peers they are more likely to exhibit depressive symptoms and they have fewer sanctioned coping strategies Arguably no other group in American society has been more maligned regularly faced with tremendous odds that uniquely threaten their existence When they do receive education mental health and physical health services it is often in correctional settings They are marginalized in public policies on secondary and higher education attainment marriage and parental expectations public welfare health housing and community development Yet they remain overlooked in health and social science research and are stereotyped in the popular media Taking a step back from the traditionally myopic view of African American males as criminals and hustlers this groundbreaking book provides a more nuanced and realistic portrait of their experiences in the world Chapter authors both established and emerging scholars of social problems relevant to African Americans offer a comprehensive overview of the social and economic data on black males to date and the significant issues that affect them from adolescence to adulthood Via in depth qualitative interviews as well as comprehensive surveys and data sets their physical mental and spiritual health and emerging family roles are considered within both individual and communal contexts Chapters cover health issues such as HIV and depression fatherhood and family roles suicide violence academic achievement and incarceration With original research and a special eye toward enhancing social work and social welfare intervention practice with this often overlooked subpopulation of American society this volume will be of great interest to researchers interested in African American issues students practitioners and policy makers Resources in Education ,1995 Defining Salvation in the Context of Black Theology James T. Murphy, Jr.,2012-08 An initial introduction to the study of Christian theology is both exciting and invigorating for students of its discipline One can become enameled in the classic perspectives of theology without any consideration of a possible alternative Defining Salvation in the Context of Black Theology is an exit from the classic conviction that trumpets the doctrine of soteriology attributing its substance to the posture of eternity while ignoring the importance of salvation in the existential Careful not to reject the question of eternal life but examining the nuances of the term salvation empowers this work to present the like manner essential that having salvation is just as much about now than it is in the here after
