Stories, Identities, and Political Change Charles Tilly, 2002-10-28 An award winning sociologist Charles Tilly has been equally influential in explaining politics history and how societies change Tilly's newest book tackles fundamental questions about the nature of personal political and national identities and their linkage to big events_ revolutions social movements democratization and other processes of political and social change Tilly focuses in this book on the role of stories as means of creating personal identity but also as explanations true or false of political tensions and realities He uses well known examples from around the world_ the Zapatista rebellion Hindu Muslim conflicts and other examples in which nationalism and other forms of group identity are politically pivotal Tilly writes with the immediacy of a journalist but the profound insight of a great theorist

Radical Islam Rising Quintan Wiktorowicz, 2005-07-21 Although the West denounces the spread of radical Islam in Saudi Arabia Pakistan and elsewhere in the Muslim world it tends to overlook the development of Islamic extremism in its own societies Over the past several decades groups like al Qaeda have been supported by thousands of citizens of the United States the United Kingdom and other Western democracies Rejecting their national identity they have heeded international calls to jihad and formed extremist groups to fight their own countries This groundbreaking book represents one of the first systematic attempts to explain why Westerners join radical Islamic groups Quintan Wiktorowicz details the mechanisms that attract potential recruits the instruments of persuasion that convince them that radical groups represent real Islam and the socialization process that prods them to engage in risky extremism Throughout he traces the subtle process that can turn seemingly unreligious people into supporters of religious violence The author's invaluable insights are based upon nearly unprecedented access to a radical Islamic group in the West His extraordinary fieldwork forms the basis of a detailed case study of al Muhajiroun a transnational movement based in London that supports Bin Laden and other Islamic terrorists Through its rich empirical detail this book explains why ordinary people join extremist movements

Cultures of Selling Laura Ugalini, 2018-12-07 The study of consumption and its relationship to cultural and social values has become a vibrant and important field in recent years Hitherto however relatively few detailed and full length works on this topic have been published In what will become a seminal volume this book examines retail selling in various historical contexts and locations as both an activity at once mundane and almost universal The book introduces the reader to the existing literature relevant to the subject and explores the widespread perceptions of moral ambiguity surrounding the practice of selling consumer goods ranging from concerns about the adulteration of goods to fears about sharp practice on the part of retailers and places such concerns in the context of wider societal values and ideas The ambivalence towards retail selling and sellers is also a central focus of the collection focussing on the attempts by retailers to develop selling techniques and successful practices of salesmanship and at the same time establish widely shared understandings of good retailing The book also delves into the more dubious practices of retail selling including practices on the margin of legality the issue of credit and changing attitudes towards debt Uniquely the book examines how sales techniques relate to the wider context of a whole shopping experience or shopping environment Taken as a whole this volume will provide a first port of call for students researchers and others interested in exploring consumer cultures and the cultural norms and practices involved in the sale of consumer goods in various historical periods and geographical contexts
