Oroonoko And Other Prose Narratives:

Oroonoko & Other Prose Narratives Aphra Behn, 1967 Oroonoko & Other Prose Narratives. Edited by Montague Summers Aphra Behn, Masquerade and Gender Catherine A. Craft-Fairchild, 2012-03-31

Terry Castle's recent study of masquerade follows Bakhtin's analysis of the carnivalesque to conclude that for women masquerade offered exciting possibilities for social and sexual freedom. Castle's interpretation conforms to the fears expressed by male writers during the period. Addison Steele and Fielding all insisted that masquerade allowed women to usurp the privileges of men. Female authors however often mistrusted these claims, perceiving that masquerade's apparent freedoms were frequently nothing more than sophisticated forms of oppression. Catherine Craft Fairchild's work provides a useful corrective to Castle's treatment of masquerade. She argues that in fictions by Aphra Behn, Mary Davys, Eliza Haywood, Elizabeth Inchbald, and Frances Burney, masquerade is double-sided. It is represented in some cases as a disempowering capitulation to patriarchal strictures that posit female subordination. Often within the same text, however, masquerade is also depicted as an empowering defiance of the dominant norms for female behavior. Heroines who attempt to separate themselves from the image of womanhood they consciously construct escape victimization. In both cases, masquerade is the condition of femininity; gender in the woman's novel is constructed rather than essential. Craft Fairchild examines the guises in which womanhood appears, analyzing the ways in which women writers both construct and deconstruct eighteenth-century cultural conceptions of femininity. She offers a careful and engaging textual analysis of both canonical and noncanonical eighteenth-century texts, thereby setting lesser-read fictions into a critical dialogue with more widely known novels. Detailed readings are informed throughout by the ideas of current feminist theorists, including Luce Irigaray, Julia Kristeva, Mary Ann Doane, and Kaja Silverman. Instead of assuming that fictions about women were based on biological fact, Craft Fairchild stresses the opposite: the domestic novel itself constructs the domestic woman.

British Literature and Print Culture Sandro Jung, 2013

The essays collected here offer examinations of bibliographical matters, publishing practices, the illustration of texts in a variety of engraved media, little-studied print culture genres, the critical and editorial fortunes of individual works, and the significance of the complex interrelationships that authors entertained with booksellers, publishers, and designers. They investigate how all these relationships affected the production of print commodities and how all the agents involved in the making of books contributed to the cultural literacy of readers and the formation of a canon of literary texts. Specific topics include a bibliographical study of Aphra Behn's Oroonoko and its editions from its first publication to the present day; the illustrations of John Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress and the ways in which the interpretive matrices of book illustration conditioned the afterlife and reception of Bunyan's work; the almanac and the subscription edition; publishing history; collecting, reading, and textual editing, especially of Robert Burns's poems and James Thomson's The Seasons; the printing for the author; practice, the illustrated, and material existence of Sir Walter Scott's Waverley novels; and the Victorian periodical The Athenaeum. Travel Narratives, the New Science, and Literary Discourse, 1569-1750 Judy A. Hayden, 2016-03-03 The focus of this volume is the intersection and the cross fertilization between the travel narrative literary discourse and the New Philosophy in the early modern to early eighteenth century historical periods Contributors examine how in an historical era which realized an emphasis on nation and during a time when exploration was laying the foundation for empire science and the literary discourse of the travel narrative become intrinsically linked Together the essays in this collection point out the way in which travel narratives reflect the anxiety from changes brought about through the discoveries of the new knowledge and the way this knowledge in turn provided a new and more complex understanding of the expanding world in which the writers lived The worlds in this text are many for no world is monomial from the antipodes to the New World from the heavens to the seas and from fictional worlds to the world which contains and or constructs one's nation and empire All of these essays demonstrate the manner in which the New Philosophy dramatically changed literary discourse

Quantitative Literary Analysis of the Works of Aphra Behn Laura L. Runge, 2023-05-09 Aphra Behn 1640-1689 prolific and popular playwright poet novelist translator has a fascinating and extensive corpus of literature that plays a key role in literary history Quantitative Literary Analysis of the Works of Aphra Behn Words of Passion offers what no book has done to date an analysis of all Behn's literary output It examines the author's use of words in terms of frequencies and distributions and stacks the words in context to read Behn's word usage synchronically Using this experimental method the book brings digital humanities into literary criticism to enhance our understanding and appreciation of literature beyond what is possible in diachronic reading and scholarship less supported by digital means The empirical approach works in collaboration with existing scholarship to understand Behn's distinct language of love and
