 Nineteenth-Century Britain, Ireland, and North America* David Atkinson, Steve Roud, 2016-04-01 In recent years the assumption that traditional songs originated from a primarily oral tradition has been challenged by research into street literature that is the cheap printed broadsides and chapbooks that poured from the presses of jobbing printers from the late sixteenth century until the beginning of the twentieth Not only are some traditional singers known to have learned songs from printed sources but most of the songs were composed by professional writers and reached the populace in printed form Street Ballads in Nineteenth Century Britain Ireland and North America engages with the long running debate over the fascinating story Viewing more than two hundred films from the period Michael Slowik launches the first comprehensive study of a long neglected phase in Hollywood s initial development recasting the history of film sound and its relationship to the Golden Age of film music 1935 1950 Slowik follows filmmakers shifting combinations of sound and image recapturing the volatility of this era and the variety of film music strategies that were tested abandoned and kept He explores early film music experiments and accompaniment practices in opera melodrama musicals radio and silent films and discusses the impact of the advent of synchronized dialogue He concludes with a reassessment of King Kong and its groundbreaking approach to film music challenging the film s place and importance in the timeline of sound achievement The Globalization of Irish Traditional Song Performance Susan H. Motherway, 2016-03-09 In The Globalization of Irish Traditional Song Performance Susan Motherway examines the ways in which performers mediate the divide between local and global markets by negotiating this dichotomy in performance practice In so doing she discusses the globalizing processes that exert transformative influences upon traditional musics and examines the response to these influences by Irish traditional song performers In developing this thesis the book provides an overview of the genre and its subgenres illustrates patterns of musical change extant within the tradition as a result of globalization and acknowledges music as a medium for re negotiating an Irish cultural identity within the global Given Ireland s long history of emigration and colonisation globalization is recognised as both a synchronic and a diachronic phenomenon Motherway thus examines Anglo Irish song and songs of the Irish Diaspora Her analysis reaches beyond essentialist definitions of the tradition to examine evolving sub genres such as Country Irish Celtic and World Music She also recognizes the singing traditions of other ethnic groups on the island of Ireland including Orange Order Ulster Scots and Traveller song In so doing she shows the disparity between native conceptions and native realities in respect to Irish cultural Identity

Opera in the Jazz Age Alexandra Wilson, 2019 Opera in the Jazz Age Cultural Politics in 1920s Britain explores the interaction between opera and popular culture at a moment when there was a growing imperative to categorize art forms as highbrow middlebrow or lowbrow In this provocative and timely study Alexandra Wilson considers how the opera debate of the 1920s continues to shape the ways in which we discuss the art form and draws connections between the battle of the brows and present day discussions about elitism
