man, and not wanting to be an example, was minded to be last.

20 But while he was saying these things, behold, an angel appeared to him in a dream, saying, Thou son of David, do not be afraid: for thou art with me. I am with thee, and will keep thee from all them that would hurt thee: for many are the days which I will give thee, and thou shalt save Israel.

And when he had said these things, he departed from them, and was taken up to heaven. And which was spoken by the Lord through the prophet, saying,

Reading Matthew as the Climactic Fulfillment of the Hebrew Story Martin Spadaro, 2015-09-09 This book is a reading of Matthew's Gospel as though it were written to integrate with and conclude the existing body of Scriptures. Matthew is read as though John was the last prophet of God and Israel's last chance for repentance and that Jesus was YHWH who had come to judge the Temple priesthood and covenant nation according to the terms of the covenant God made with Moses at Sinai. Through this lens, new interpretations are given to the infancy narrative, the Sermon on the Mount, the mission, the parables, and Jesus' arrival in Jerusalem along with the events that followed. By reading Matthew this way, a greater appreciation can be gained for its necessary place in the canon, and many of Matthew's well-known conundrums can be meaningfully addressed. As a Hebrew document, Matthew understood the necessity to record the crimes against YHWH, Jesus in Israel and Jerusalem, as the ultimate cause for the termination of the ethnically and geographically bound covenant which could then be replaced by the cross-cultural and international covenant that Christians now enjoy.

Reading Matthew for the First Time Wilfrid J. Harrington, 2014 Following in the same insightful and popular style as Reading Mark for the First Time, noted scripture scholar and teacher Wilfrid Harrington provides a useful road map to guide us through the Gospel of Matthew. He explains the context for Matthew's writing and community and his focus on Jesus' teaching, which is gathered into five major discourses. Reading Matthew for the First Time is a valuable and indispensable guide to understanding the gospel.

journaling and prayer This Dynamic Bible Reading as I call it involves reading a small Bible passage and journaling the believer's interaction with that passage through three distinct sections 1 Scripture Insight the meaning of the passage 2 Application how to apply the meaning to life and 3 Prayer seeking God's guidance in living out what the passage teaches To best draw the meaning of Scripture into our lives we must read it work through its meaning and begin to practice it in life This book helps to develop these skills Once gained I hope each reader will pass this book on to someone else who might benefit from it

A Transformative Reading of the Bible Yung Suk Kim, 2013-04-17 In A Transformative Reading of the Bible Yung Suk Kim raises critical questions about human transformation in biblical studies What is transformation How are we transformed when we read biblical stories Are all transformative aspects equally valid What kind of relationships exists between self neighbor and God if transformation is involved in these three Who or what is being changed or who or what are we changing What degree of change might be considered transformative Kim explores a dynamic cyclical process of human transformation and argues that healthy transformation involves three kinds of transformation psycho theological ontological theological and political theological transformation With insights gained from phenomenological studies political theology and psychotheology Kim proposes a new model for how to read the Bible transformatively as he dares to read Hannah Psalm 13 the Gospel of Mark and Paul as stories of transformation The author invites Christian readers theological educators and scholars to reexamine

Charles Nathan Ridlehoover, 2019-12-26 Charles Nathan Ridlehoover examines the Lord's Prayer in Matthew's Gospel focusing on the prayer's centrality and showing how this centrality affects our reading of the Sermon on the Mount and subsequently the prayer itself Ridlehoover argues that the Lord's Prayer is structurally lexically and thematically central to the Sermon on the Mount and the means through which disciples of Jesus are empowered to live out the kingdom righteousness it defines In turn the Sermon on the Mount clarifies what the answer to the petitions of the Lord's Prayer might look like in the life of the disciple of Jesus Whilst the centrality of the Lord's Prayer has been noted by previous commentators this centrality and its intended purpose has not hitherto been defined or examined in great depth Ridlehoover fills this gap with a closely argued and in depth study ranging from methodology and the structure of the prayer itself to examining the Father will forgiveness and evil petitions and the relevance of word and deed for hearers and doers Ridlehoover's examination of the relationship between the Sermon and Prayer advances studies in compositional criticism and intratextuality Unexpected New Life Matthew J. Marohl, 2012-01-18 from expected death comes unexpected new life The Gospel of Matthew does not shy away from the realities of struggle suffering doubt and death Yet from the first names in the genealogy to the last words spoken by Jesus the Gospel testifies to the promise that from expected death comes unexpected new life Through the actions of Tamar Rahab Ruth and Bathsheba we experience the expectation of death and the promise of unexpected new life In the birth story of Jesus Joseph suspects Mary of committing adultery It is this dilemma that is the focus of the narrative If he reveals her pregnancy she could be killed If he conceals her pregnancy he will be going against the law of the Lord What is a righteous man to do In Joseph's dilemma this experience of expected death the Gospel of Matthew proclaims the promise of unexpected new life The promise of unexpected new life is a theme that continues throughout Matthew's Gospel in the life and ministry of Jesus The call of his disciples is a call from death to new life The teaching of Jesus focuses on the experience of death and the promise of new life In both healing and curing Jesus brings unexpected new life to those who face death But it is the death and resurrection of Jesus that is the climax of unexpected new life in the Gospel of Matthew Even as Jesus experiences a most horrific and humiliating death in the crucifixion death and the

This work critically engages the hermeneutical methods used to analyse the New Testament writings so that the lenses through which studies of the texts have been traditionally viewed can be revised Jeremy Hultin contributes an article on the rhetorical use of the chosen citations by Jewish rabbis in their commentary on scripture while Mark Gignilliat writes on the potential implications for viewing Old Testament Scripture in the manner of the early Church exegetes and theologians With these two contributions providing a frame for the other chapters the essays explore a range of topics including the significance of the number 42 in Matthew the study of Wisdom in Matthew the extent to which the four gospels are underlined by Hebrew material if any the use of Hebrew material in shaping New Testament writings and the uses of Scripture in the letters of Paul and the letters to the Hebrews Read separately these articles provide fascinating insights and revisions to established ideas on intertextuality between the Old Hebrew Bible and the New Testament writings Taken together the collection presents a solid argument for the fundamental revision of our current hermeneutical practice in

Breen,2024-10-03 Jerry D Breen argues that reading Matthew and all the Gospels as ancient biography is the necessary next step for Gospel studies In particular Breen contends that more specific comparisons should be made between the Gospels and ancient literature Breen stresses that this reading invites narrative critics to place more emphasis on examining the use of sources and the importance of intertextual and historical information that the author introduces to the text Breen places emphasis on the relationship between Jews and non Jews in ancient Galilee and Palestine and challenges the long supported theory that Jesus did not minister to non Jews beyond two or three exceptions Demonstrating that Jesus is inclusive of everyone who comes to him even though he was sent primarily to the Jews Breen argues that the portrait which Matthew creates is one of a Jewish Messiah who is on a mission to restore Israel so that the restored people of God can bless the nations Concluding that rather than two conflicting missions the audience of the gospel is encouraged to view the healing of non Jews during Jesus s ministry as further proof that the Jewish Messiah is bringing restoration to Israel Assessment of Disorders in Childhood and Adolescence Eric A. Piotrowski,2016-09-07 Matthew crowds more Old Testament quotations and allusions into the prologue than anywhere else in his gospel In this volume Nicholas G

Piotrowski demonstrates the narratological and rhetorical effects of such frontloading. Particularly seven formula quotations constellate to establish a redemptive historical setting inside of which the rest of the narrative operates. This setting is defined by Old Testament expectations for David's great son to end Israel's exile and rule the nations. Piotrowski contends that the rhetorical effect of this intertextual storytelling was to provide the Matthean community with an identity in a contentious atmosphere in terms of God's historical design for the ages now fulfilled in Jesus and his followers.

Mothers on the Margin? E. Anne Clements, 2014-05-01

The Gospel of Matthew opens with a patrilineal genealogy of Jesus that intriguingly includes five women: Tamar, Rahab, Ruth, the wife of Uriah, and Mary. In a gospel that has a strongly Jewish and male orientated outlook, why are women incorporated? In particular, why include these four Old Testament women alongside Mary? Rejecting traditional as well as feminist views, Anne Clements undertakes a close literary reading of the narratives to discern how each woman is characterized and presented. All are significant scriptural figures on the margins of Israelite society. From this intertextual world established by Matthew, Clements explores why Matthew may have named these women in the opening genealogy and what implications their inclusion may have for the ongoing gospel narrative. Mothers on the Margin argues that Matthew's Gospel contains a counter narrative focused on women. The presence of the five women in the genealogy indicates that the birth of the Messiah will bring about a crisis in Israel's identity in terms of ethnicity, marginality, and gender. The women signal that Matthew's Gospel is concerned with the construal of a new identity for the people of God.
