Distance Learning Alfred Bork, Sigrun Gunnarsdottir, 2001-10-31 Learning is a critical worldwide problem for humans essential to create a peaceful and happy world We have serious problems in learning in both wealthy and poor areas New approaches to learning are needed as the current system may not rise to the new challenges This book proposes a new strategy for learning worldwide and for all ages of students Computer based distance learning would be the major delivery mechanism with very large numbers of students The very frequent interactions between the student and the computer would be like that with a skilled human teacher These interactions would take place in the student's native language in both directions A typical interaction would be a question to a student and a free form student response Both voice and keyboard student input would be possible The learning programs would work with each student until mastery is achieved adapting to the needs of each Students would be active learners The book begins with the problems and goals of learning It considers possible forms of distance learning looking at the variables involved current examples of distance learning and possible future forms including examples from science fiction It then investigates student interactions considering both frequency of interactions and the quality of each interaction Programs developed in the Educational Technology Center at the University of California Irvine illustrate the critical idea of tutorial learning with computers Production of tutorial learning material and costs for a student hour of learning is discussed The book ends with suggestions for future progress Current hardware and software is fully adequate for the tasks described Development of all required learning units is a major activity After this development both better quality of learning and lower costs are very likely Further experimental work is essential to understand the possibilities

Freedom from Toxic Relationships Avril Carruthers,2013-12-26 A guide to leaving painful destructive relationships behind both at home and at work Toxic relationships often come disguised as seemingly normal ones These subtly destructive relationships are characterized by the slow erosion of self esteem a loss of personal identity or a growing desire to please friends partners and family members who are impossible to please In this uplifting and informative book transpersonal psychotherapist Avril Carruthers will take a close look at adult relationships to show why we get involved in toxic relationships in the first place and instruct the reader on how to recognize if they re involved in one Once the toxic relationship is identified the author shows the reader how to begin their journey toward healing and how to meet the world with a new kind of confidence so that the cycle of toxic relationships can be broken once and for all What Carruthers teaches is just how possible it can be to learn how to recognize the manipulative or sweetly corrosive partner the family dynamics that make Christmas and other get togethers seem like hell or the nightmare boss who causes daily torment and that we can learn to leave these painful destructive patterns behind forever
