Rural Environment And Social Development Strategies For The Europe And Central Asia Region:

Rural, Environment, and Social Development Strategies for the Europe and Central Asia Region, 2000-01-01

This report proposes a World Bank strategy for assisting the rural environmental and social development of Eastern Europe and Central Asia. It has been produced for a general audience partly for consultation purposes and is therefore a work in progress. Each of the three areas of development is examined in separate chapters and each summarises the World Bank assistance strategy in that area. The conclusion is that the challenge posed by the objectives of this report are far beyond the World Bank's abilities to achieve on its own.

Livestock Farming Systems in Central and Eastern Europe A. Gibon, S. Mihina, 2023-08-28 This book examines the potential of Livestock Farming Systems (LFS) research to assess and understand the diversity of livestock farming systems in Central and Eastern Europe. CEE LFS research based on systemic modelling has improved the understanding of livestock production realities at farm level and influenced agricultural development strategies in Western Europe. Researchers from both Western and Eastern Europe carried out this initial study which was coordinated and sponsored under a collaborative agreement between EAAP and FAO and was run in selected regions in Bulgaria, the Czech Republic, Hungary, Poland and the Slovak Republic. The results and conclusions of the study are reported in the book together with the other contributions of interest with respect to the sustainable development of livestock production in CEE presented and discussed during a workshop in Budapest in August 2001. The results of the study demonstrate the adaptability of LFS research to systems predominantly based on large scale private corporate and co-operative farms in the CEE countries.

The World Bank Research Program 2001 World Bank, World Bank Staff, 2001-01-01 This publication is a compilation of reports on research projects initiated under way or completed in fiscal year 2001 (July 1 2000 through June 30 2001). The abstracts cover 150 research projects from the World Bank and grouped under 11 major headings including poverty and social development, health and population, education, labor and employment, environment, infrastructure and urban development and agriculture and rural development. The abstracts detail the questions addressed, the analytical methods used, the findings to date and their policy implications. Each abstract identifies the expected completion date of each project, the research team and reports or publications produced.

Central Asia's Second Chance Martha Brill Olcott, 2010-03-01 A leading authority on Central Asia offers a sweeping review of the region's path from independence to the post 9/11 world. The first decade of Central Asian independence was disappointing for those who envisioned a straightforward transition from Soviet republics to independent states with market economies and democratic political systems. Leaders excused political failures by pointing to security risks including the presence of terrorist training camps in Afghanistan. The situation changed dramatically after 9/11 when the camps were largely destroyed and the United States introduced a military presence. More importantly, the international community engaged with these states to give them a second chance to address social and economic problems. But neither the aid givers nor the recipients were willing to approach problems in new ways Now terrorists groups are once again making their presence felt and some states may be becoming global security risks This book explores how the region squandered its second chance and what might happen next

Black Sea and Central Asia Promoting Work and Well-Being OECD,2008-06-11 This book analyses the opportunities and conditions of employment throughout the Black Sea region and Central Asia It examines how different countries deal with social issues affecting well being Europe and Central Asia - Regional Overview of Food Security and Nutrition 2022 Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,International Fund for Agricultural Development,United Nations Children's Fund,United Nations,United Nations Development Programme,World Food Programme,World Health Organization,World Meteorological Organization,2023-03-14 This report presents the latest updates related to food security and nutrition in Europe and Central Asia including estimates on the cost and affordability of healthy diets It also explores how governments are supporting the food and agriculture sector and how to repurpose policies and incentives to make healthy diets more affordable and agrifood systems more environmentally sustainable The new estimates confirm that the prevalence of hunger at chronic or severe levels is relatively low in the ECA region through the prevalence of food insecurity at moderate or severe levels can be quite high The region is seeing alarmingly high and rising rates of overweight and obesity The COVID 19 pandemic has added 25.5 million people in the region to the ranks of the moderately or severely food insecure leaving them without access to safe nutritious and adequate food The war in Ukraine has made the situation worse Almost all ECA subregions are experiencing increased costs and reduced affordability of healthy diets because of higher food prices and lower incomes This report contains an in depth analysis of the repurposing of food and agricultural policies to ensure the food systems transformation is better suited to addressing the triple challenge of achieving food security and good nutrition for better health providing livelihoods to farmers and others connected to the sector and reducing the nature and climate footprint of the sector This report also reviews complementing policies within and outside of agrifood systems to assess whether repurposing efforts are impactful in the ECA region World Bank Annual Report 2003 ,2003-01-01 Annotation The World Bank Annual Report 2003 offers a concise look at Rural Areas Stephan van Gasselt,2024-11-27 This Edited Volume Rural Areas Development and Transformations is a collection of reviewed and relevant research chapters offering a comprehensive overview of recent developments in the field of Geography The book comprises single chapters authored by various researchers and edited by an expert active in this research area All chapters are complete in themselves but united under a common research study topic This publication aims at providing a thorough overview of the latest research efforts by international authors in this field of study and open new possible research paths for further novel developments Rural Well-being Ismail Serageldin,David R. Evaluation of FAO's country programme in Armenia 2016-2020 Food and Agriculture Organization for the United Nations,2020-10-06 Armenia s agriculture represents the main economic source in rural areas and significantly contributes to the country s GDP employing about 30 percent of the working population Aligned with Armenia s national development priorities FAO s programme has been well aligned with national priorities focusing on provision of highly specialized technical expertise towards the development of national policies institutions and also offering innovative approaches and solutions The evaluation concluded that FAO should continue offering its advisory services and technical support in thematic areas within its competence focusing on longer term sustainability of results achieved and taking into consideration vulnerability of food and agriculture systems to climate change The Country Office needs to expand its support in areas where FAO has clear comparative advantages and respond to the new demands in the context of the upcoming United Nations Sustainable Development Cooperation Framework Guidance UNSDCF for the period 2021 2025

National gender profile of agriculture and rural livelihoods Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,UN Women,2021-09-10 Despite the legal and policy foundation of BiH gender considerations have only marginally been mainstreamed in state and entity policies on rural development or other sectors related to agriculture At the state level the Strategic Plan for Rural Development of Bosnia and Herzegovina 2018 2021 addresses support for women as a cross cutting initiative but fails to fully mainstream gender Rather the strategy includes a stand alone sub section on gender equality that presents rather superficial analysis of gender disparities in rural areas and includes no strategic guidance Measures are suggested for young people women in combination and for improving access to business grants rural loans and agricultural associations One monitoring indicator measures women s participation in investment programs for agricultural holdings and diversification of rural economy Strategic Plan for Rural Development of Bosnia and Herzegovina 2018 2021 The inconsistent application of gender mainstreaming to policy development and the very limited capacity of most line ministries to include a gender perspective in their core work contribute to a situation in which gender equality is poorly reflected in state policies that concern agriculture and rural development. Meanwhile rural areas are marked by women's poverty which is linked to their economic dependence over representation in informal and unpaid work and the fact that elderly rural women in particular tend not to be covered by the pension system and are often living alone because they are widowed.

A Guide to the World Bank, 2003. The World Bank Group works in more than 100 developing economies and is one of the world's largest sources of development assistance. In 2002 the institution provided US 19.5 billion in loans to its client countries. This guide reviews the organisation's history, objectives and operations and looks at the five institutions that make up the World Bank Group: the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development (IBRD), the International Development Association (IDA), the International Finance Corporation (IFC), the Multilateral Investment Guarantee Agency (MIGA) and the International Centre for Settlement of Investment Disputes (ICSID).

Reaching the Rural Poor, 2003. Despite the fact that three quarters of the world's poor live in rural areas, the level of international development aid directed at rural areas has continued to decline over the last decade, particularly in terms of the agricultural sector. In 2001, lending for agricultural projects was the lowest in the World Bank's history. This publication presents the World Bank's new rural development strategy based upon a results-oriented approach which stresses practice, implementation, monitoring and empowerment aspects. The strategy seeks to highlight rural development efforts focusing on the needs of the rural poor, fostering a broad-based economic growth and addressing the impact of global developments on client countries.

Sustaining Forests World Bank, 2004-05-01. The World Bank's Forests Strategy adopted in October 2002 charts a path for the Bank's proactive engagement in the sector to help attain the goal of poverty reduction without jeopardizing the environmental values intrinsic to sustainability. This strategy replaces the Bank's 1991 Forestry Strategy and was developed on the basis of the findings of an independent review of the 1991 strategy and a two-year consultative process with development partners and stakeholders around the world. The revised strategy, Sustaining Forests, is built on three guiding pillars: harnessing the potential of forests to reduce poverty, integrating forests into sustainable economic development and protecting global forest values. Recognizing the key role forests play in contributing to the livelihoods of people living in extreme poverty, government and local ownership of forest policies and interventions are emphasized along with the development of appropriate institutions to ensure good governance and the mainstreaming of forests into national development planning. The strategy also aims to support ecologically, socially and economically sound management of production forests by ensuring good management practices through application of safeguard procedures and independent monitoring and certification. Implementation of the strategy will center on building and strengthening partnerships with the private sector, non-governmental organizations and other donor agencies to promote better forest conservation and management at country and global levels.
