Rural Industry and Rural Industrialisation Ajit Kumar Sinha, 1988 The Study Based On Fieldwork Reveals That In Spite Of Planned Development Efforts Rural Industries Continue To Be An Insignificant And Inefficient Activity In The Rural Area

Rural Industrialisation T. M. Dak, 1989 Viewed mainly as the growth of manufacturing sector as opposed to agriculture and the increased use of inanimate sources of power in the production of goods and services rural industrialization offers the greatest scope for absorbing the existing and growing labour force outside the field of agriculture However rural industrial scene continues to be characterised by the concentration of labour force in agriculture predominance of traditional crafts low levels of technology hereditary mode of production poor productivity and returns and low labour efficiency and utilisation Besides glorification of traditional crafts and self employment caste industry nexus and above all policy bias in favour of agriculture as against industry and large and medium capital intensive industries as against small village and cottage industries also worked as strong impediments to the development of rural crafts Drawing from the nationwide experiences this book examines the problems of the growth and modernisation of rural industries from socio economic perspectives and probes into the organisational and technology system underlying their production structure with all its implications and ramifications The reversal of the policy favouring large modern industry sector and the spread of tiny small industries throughout the country with full package of organisational technical financial and marketing support in adequate measure have been strongly advocated In addition the integration of the development of rural industries with the overall programme of industrialisation was emphasized

Rural Industrialisation in Backward Areas S. Giriappa, 1994 Fulfillment of basic needs has rather sidetracked in the face of breath taking and competitive modernisation process The primary rural sector for which the conception of basic needs becomes very appropriate when caught in the process of development is unable to give due priority to its different sectors owing to constraints ranging from cyclical to management of resources As such rural industrialisation hitherto an appendage of agriculture or industry is faced with not only crises in speedy growth but also being lost in importance as a basic need This book attempts to view the differing prospects of rural industrialisation in a coastal region The performance of industry service and business units evaluation of female participation in rural industrialisation and different artisanal units are attempted Also industries like tile manufacturing and cashew processing are considered as to their impact on the particular rural environment The emerging role of bidi industry is assessed taking into account the contribution of the cooperative sector In providing a modest initiation to reemphasize the industrial potentiality of backward areas this book would serve the interests of policy planners researchers and laymen alike Contents Chapter 1 Introduction Chapter 2 Rural Industrialisation in a Backward Region Chapter 3 Women and Development Chapter 4 Cashewnut Processing Chapter 5 Tile Manufacturing Chapter 6 Artisanal Development Chapter 7 Comparison of Bellmetal Artisanry with Others Chapter 8 Bidi Industry Chapter 9 Conclusion

Rural Industries ,1925 The Industrialization of Rural China Chris Bramall,2006-12-21 The growth of rural industry in China since 1978 has been explosive Much of the existing literature explains its growth in terms of changes in economic policy By means of a combination of privatization liberalization and fiscal decentralization it is argued rural industrialization has taken off This book takes issue with such claims Using a newly constructed dataset covering all of China s 2000 plus counties and complemented by a detailed econometric study of county level industrialization in the provinces of Sichuan Guangdong and Jiangsu the author demonstrates that history mattered More precisely it is argued that the development of rural industry in the Maoist period set in motion a process of learning by doing whereby China s rural workforce gradually acquired an array of skills and competencies As a result ruralindustrialization was accelerating well before the 1978 climacteric The growth of the 1980s and 1990s is therefore likely to be a continuation of this process Without prior Maoist development of skills the growth of the post 1978 era would have been much slower and perhaps would not have occurred at all as has been the case in countries such as India and Vietnam This is not to say that the Maoist legacy was without flaw Many of the rural industries created under Mao were geared towards meeting defence related objectives resulting in inefficiencies and there can be no question that post 1978 policy changes facilitated the growth process But without the Maoist inheritance rural industrialization across China would have been unsuccessful Rural
