Rural Livelihoods And Poverty Reduction Policies:

Rural Livelihoods and Poverty Reduction Policies Frank Ellis, H. Ade Freeman, 2004-08-02 This important new collection of contributions brings together current thinking on poverty reduction and rural livelihoods in developing countries. As well as leading economists in the field such as Frank Ellis and Chris Barrett, there are a number of contributors from developing countries themselves. The book examines both macroeconomic and microeconomic phenomena and contains a wide range of case studies. Skilfully exposing the gap that exists between the rhetoric of poverty reduction strategies in capital cities and the practice of public sector delivery in rural areas, this key text will be essential reading for advanced students and researchers in the fields of rural development, rural livelihoods, poverty reduction strategies and Sub-Saharan Africa development, as well as advisors and practitioners in international organizations.

Rural Livelihoods and Diversity in Developing Countries Frank Ellis, 2000-06-29 Rural families in developing countries make a living by engaging in diverse activities. These range from farming to rural trade to migration to distant cities and even abroad. This book explores the implications of rural livelihood diversity for key topics in development studies and for poverty reduction policies. The livelihoods approach is gaining momentum and this is the first book to set it out in detail.

Collective Action and Property Rights for Poverty Reduction Esther Mwangi, Helen Markelova, Ruth Meinzen-Dick, 2012-05-22 To improve their well-being, the poor in developing countries have used both collective action through formal and informal groups and property rights to natural resources. Collective Action and Property Rights for Poverty Reduction: Insights from Africa and Asia examines how these two types of institutions separately and together influence quality of life and how they can be strengthened to improve the livelihoods of the rural poor. The product of a global research study by the Systemwide Program on Collective Action and Property Rights (CAPRI) of the Consultative Group on International Agricultural Research, this book draws on case studies from East Africa and South and Southeast Asia to investigate how collective action and property rights have contributed to poverty reduction. The book extends the analysis of these institutions beyond their frequently studied role in natural resource management by also examining how they can reduce vulnerability to different types of shocks. Essays in the volume identify opportunities and risks present in the institutions of collective action and property rights. For example, property rights to natural resources can offer a variety of advantages, providing individuals and groups not only with benefits and incomes but also with assets that can counter the negative effects of shocks such as drought and can make collective action easier. The authors also demonstrate that collective action has the potential to reduce poverty if it includes more vulnerable groups such as women, ethnic minorities and the very poor. Preventing exclusion of these often marginalized groups and guaranteeing genuinely inclusive collective action might require special rules and policies. Another danger to the poor is the capture of property rights by elites, which can be the result of privatization and decentralization policies. Case studies and analysis identify actions to prevent such elite capture.

The Comparative Political Economy of Development Barbara Harriss-White, Judith Heyer, 2009-12-21 Illustrates the enduring relevance and vitality of the comparative political economy of development approach and presents the relation between theory and empirical material in an interactive way This title offers an explanation of what is happening in the continent of Africa and the sub continent of South Asia

Climate Change Adaptation and Development Tor Håkon Inderberg, Siri Eriksen, Karen O'Brien, Linda Sygna, 2014-11-20 Climate change poses multiple challenges to development It affects lives and livelihoods infrastructure and institutions as well as beliefs cultures and identities There is a growing recognition that the social dimensions of vulnerability and adaptation now need to move to the forefront of development policies and practices This book presents case studies showing that climate change is as much a problem of development as for development with many of the risks closely linked to past present and future development pathways Development policies and practices can play a key role in addressing climate change but it is critical to question to what extent such actions and interventions reproduce rather than address the social and political structures and development pathways driving vulnerability The chapters emphasise that adaptation is about much more than a set of projects or interventions to reduce specific impacts of climate change it is about living with change while also transforming the processes that contribute to vulnerability in the first place This book will help students in the field of climate change and development to make sense of adaptation as a social process and it will provide practitioners policymakers and researchers working at the interface between climate change and development with useful insights for approaching adaptation as part of a larger transformation to sustainability

Who Owns the Sea? Paul Hart, Magnus Johnson,

Sustainable Agriculture and Food Security Walter Leal Filho, Marina Kovaleva, Elena Popkova, 2022-07-28 This book describes initiatives and concrete examples on sustainable food production worldwide In the current world scenario where nations all over the world are struggling to accomplish the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals and to ensure sustainable patterns for all this book provides a contribution towards a more comprehensive and interdisciplinary understanding of the cross cutting issues related to Sustainable Agriculture and Food Security This interdisciplinary book supports the efforts to engage a commitment from all fields of science to work together to provide knowledge that could help to address SDG2 No hunger and lead to the promotion of quality of life by means of a more sustainable food production and improved food security This book is expected to fill the gap of publications in this field It gives a special emphasis to a state of the art descriptions of approaches methods initiatives and projects from universities stakeholders organizations and civil society across the world regarding cross cutting issues in sustainable food production It includes examples of policies and practices case studies examples of projects institutional policies innovative methods and tools and research outputs which highlight the interdependence between sustainable agriculture and food security issues It is expected that the Sustainable Agriculture and Food Security will make the many benefits of sustainable food production clearer and inter alia lead to an increase in the emphasis provided to this central theme

Communities and Livelihood

Strategies in Developing Countries Keshav Lall Maharjan,2014-05-29 Sustainability of rural communities is threatened by a plethora of factors including climate change and disasters which interact in an intricate manner in making rural people vulnerable and poor This book is the output of empirical research on communities and livelihood strategies in developing countries It reveals how rural communities are functioning and earning their livelihoods by making the best use of the resources local internal or external new and the combination of the two to counteract the various challenges they face with the ultimate goal of becoming resilient to local or global shocks and sustaining that resilience Local governance is identified as crucial in ensuring sustainable livelihoods as it ensures healthy collaboration between communities on the one hand and civil society and those communities on the other hand in promoting self sustaining development trajectories Similarly the role of social capital is not ignored as it brings in community drive and a sense of purpose direction and solidarity among community members which facilitates problem solving in periods of crises and disasters Forest, Foods and Nutrition

Alessandra Durazzo,Massimo Lucarini,Massimo Zaccardelli,Antonello Santini,2021-03-04 The Special Issue entitled Forest Food and Nutrition is focused on understanding of the intersection and linking existing between forests food and nutrition Forest ecosystems are an important biodiversity environment resource for many species Forests and trees play a key role in food production and have a relevant impact also on nutrition Plants and animals in the forests enable nutrient rich food sources to be available and can provide important contributions to dietary diversity quality and quantity What drives input subsidy policy reform?

Resnick, Danielle,Mason, Nicole, M.,2016-11-24 When and why do suboptimal agricultural policies persist despite technical evidence highlighting alternatives And what explains episodes of reform after prolonged periods of policy inertia This paper addresses these questions by applying the Kaleidoscope Model for agricultural and food security policy change to the specific case of agricultural input policy in Zambia Since 2002 the Farmer Input Support Program formerly the Fertilizer Support Program has been a cornerstone of Zambia s agricultural policy Over the years however many researchers have highlighted weaknesses in the program and proposed other options Based on semistructured interviews with key stakeholders and intensive process tracing using media donor parliamentary and research reports this paper examines how the program initially began in 2002 and during subsequent periods of reform in 2009 and 2015 Based on the findings here periods of reform for input support programs are most likely when there is a confluence of multiple factors These include the emergence of a window of opportunity in the form of either a focusing event for example a food crisis or an institutional shift for example a new president or new ruling party that coincides with broad stakeholder support for empirically grounded alternatives available material resources and sustained commitment from politically important policy makers Higher Education for Sustainable Development and Millennium Development Goals

Vinod Singh,2018-10-01 With increasing concern of human being on the issue sustainability the interpretation has also become a fanciful exercise The issue sustainability can be understood from two perspectives the first one is reductive approach second is the holistic approach Renewing innovation systems in agriculture and food E. Coudel,H. Devautour,C.T. Soulard,G. Faure,B. Hubert,2013-03-15 Present day society asks more from agriculture than just the production of food Agriculture is now required to be concerned with the quality of food ecosystem services inclusion of marginalized populations revitalization of rural territories energy production etc This opening up of the future of agriculture encourages rural actors to experiment with new farming systems using imagination creativity and determination to replace dominant models At the same time low cost mass production systems continue on their way with promises of a future based on green technologies In this discussion it is important to consider what kind of sustainable development societies really want Which innovations will help in achieving these developments What role can research and public policies play in supporting the emergence of these innovations This book takes the debate beyond the purely technical options and considers social and institutional innovations as well It demonstrates that innovation is the result of a confrontation between visions of actors who often have divergent interests There is no single path towards sustainable development and we must find ways to encourage the emergence and co existence of different types of agriculture and food systems The success of transitions will not only depend on our capacity to rethink existing models but especially on our willingness to embark on a creative learning process from which we will inevitably emerge transformed Afrocentric Approaches to Community Development in the 21st Century Ndwakhulu Tshishonga,Eve D. Mafema,2025-06-22 This collection of chapters takes a departure from western prescripts to community development It sheds light on adopting tested and tried Afrocentric methods to community development The book draws lessons from African methods of communal unity for the common good It gives details of African models of community development and how they were used before modernisation The book also provides an overview of how these models are essential for governments to incorporate them into their development models The importance of this book thus lies in the fact that it focuses on traditional African models of community development to enhance government led models Afrocentric theories models are applied in the hope that policymakers academics and practitioners will find arguments and conclusions of the book useful for better policy formulation to reduce poverty and unemployment Ideas, Policies and Economic Development in the Americas Esteban Pérez-Caldentey,Matias Vernengo,2007-03-29 The interplay of ideas and policies is central to understanding the historical evolution of economies Ideas shape economic institutions and real economic constraints are the source of new economic ideas The history of economic ideas both those that are fairly recent and those that are considerably older may provide a fertile ground for new approaches to Latin American and Caribbean economic development However the history of economic ideas and their intricate relation to economic policies remains a relatively unexplored field in Latin American and Caribbean studies This book is a valuable new contribution to this emerging literature Assessing Prospective Trade Policy Oliver Morrissey,2010-09-30 This volume assesses economic partnership agreements between the EU and Africa the Caribbean and the Pacific focusing on specific concerns such as legal commitments adjustment costs impacts on poverty and food security and regulatory reforms Food Aid After Fifty Years Christopher B. Barrett, Dan Maxwell, 2007-05-07 This book analyzes the impact food aid programmes have had over the past fifty years assessing the current situation as well as future prospects Issues such as political expediency the impact of international trade and exchange rates are put under the microscope to provide the reader with a greater understanding of this important subject matter This book will prove vital to students of development economics and development studies and those working in the field Small-scale Fisheries Management Robert S. Pomeroy, Neil Andrew, 2011 This book contains 12 chapters on the development management marketing effects of climatic change and poverty reduction in small scale fisheries in developing countries and rural areas The IMF, World Bank and Policy Reform Alberto Paloni, Maurizio Zanardi, 2012-10-12 Features top contributors including Graham Bird Oliver Morrissey and Tony Killick Previous books on this topic have sold well almost without exception A huge range of countries are studied with equal weight given to Asia Latin America and Africa Social Protection in Africa Frank Ellis, Stephen Devereux, Philip White, 2009-01-01 This timely book makes accessible to a broad audience the ideas principles and practicalities of establishing effective social protection in Africa It focuses on the major shift in strategy for tackling hunger and vulnerability from emergency responses mainly in the form of food transfers to predictable cash transfers to the chronically poorest social groups The first part of the book comprises nine theme chapters covering vulnerability targeting delivery coordination cost effectiveness market impacts and asset effects while the second part consists of fifteen social protection case studies The continuous interplay between these two parts makes for a unique contribution to the contemporary literature on social protection The book takes a positive and forward looking view regarding the feasibility of achieving successful social transfers to the poorest in Africa nevertheless a critical stance is taken where appropriate and unresolved strategic issues regarding the targeting coverage and scale of social transfers are highlighted Social Protection in Africa is an essential read for personnel advisors and consultants working for aid donors United Nations agencies NGOs and governments on social transfer programmes in sub Saharan African countries In addition the book represents a valuable resource for training courses on social protection and will be vital reading for Masters level students and researchers studying emergency relief social protection vulnerability and poverty reduction in low income countries Living in the Shadow of the Large Dams Dzodzi Tsikata, 2006-05-01 Studies of populations affected by Large Dams are usually about physically displaced and resettled communities This book on the Volta River Project breaks with the mould and tackles the long term environmental and socio economic impacts of the Akosombo and Kpong Dams and livelihood responses of two neglected groups downstream and lakeside communities In a detailed study which takes a gendered political economy of livelihoods approach the book considers the contribution of factors such as the environmental restructuring of the Lower Volta the exodus of its most economically active population to the Volta Lake the State s neglect of affected communities the changing socio economic context of Ghana and social relations of class gender
