University at Albany State University of New York A Treatise on Social Theory Walter Garrison Runciman, 1997-08-28 In this concluding volume of his trilogy on social theory W G Runciman applies to the case of twentieth century English society the methodology distinguishing reportage explanation description and evaluation and theory of the preceding two volumes Volume III shows how England's capitalist mode of production liberal mode of persuasion and democratic mode of coercion evolved in the aftermath of the First World War from what they had been since the 1880s but then did not in turn evolve significantly following the Second World War The explanation rests on an analysis of the selective pressures favouring some economic ideological and political practices over others in an increasingly complex environment neither predictable nor controllable by policy makers This is supported by a graphic account of the changes themselves and how they were experienced by different segments of English society Voices from Captivity J E Thomas, 2018-07-19 Offering insight into the unseen world of life in prison this book presents a broad range of first hand testimonies of people writing from prisons and concentration camps over a number of centuries and from different countries Organised thematically it covers feelings on being locked up how to deal with staff and sex in captivity Campbell Bunk Jerry White, 2013-01-31 From the 1880s to the Second World War Campbell Road Finsbury Park known as Campbell Bunk had a notorious reputation for violence for breeding thieves and prostitutes and for an enthusiastic disregard for law and order It was the object of reform by church magistrates local authorities and social scientists who left many traces of their attempts to improve what became known as the worst street in North London Jerry White offers insight into the realities of life in a slum community showing how it changed over a 90 year period Using extensive oral history to describe in detail the years between the wars White reveals the complex tensions between the new world opening up and the street's traditional culture of economic individualism crime street theatre and domestic violence
