The Pearl Josephine F. Pacheco, 2010-03-15 In the spring of 1848 seventy six slaves from the nation s capital hid aboard a schooner called the Pearl in an attempt to sail down the Potomac River and up the Chesapeake Bay to freedom in Pennsylvania When inclement weather forced them to anchor for the night the fugitive slaves and the ship s crew were captured and returned to Washington Many of the slaves were sold to the Lower South and two men sailing the Pearl were tried and sentenced to prison Recounting this harrowing tale from the preparations for escape through the participants trial Josephine Pacheco provides fresh insight into the lives of enslaved blacks in the District of Columbia putting a human face on the victims of the interstate slave trade whose lives have been overshadowed by larger historical events Pacheco also details the Congressional debates about slavery that resulted from this large scale escape attempt She contends that although the incident itself and the trials and Congressional disputes that followed were not directly responsible for bringing an end to the slave trade in the nation s capital they played a pivotal role in publicizing many of the issues surrounding slavery Eventually President Millard Fillmore pardoned the operators of the Pearl The Stranger's Child Alan Hollinghurst,2011-10-11

Johnson, Edmund (Ned) Searles, 2020-12-16 Reciprocity Rules explores the rich and complicated relationships that develop between anthropologists and research participants over time. Focusing on compensation and the creation of friendship and family relationships contributors discuss what when and how researchers and the people with whom they work give to each other in and beyond fieldwork. Through reflexivity and narrative the contributors to this edited collection who are in various stages in their professional careers and whose research spans three continents and eight countries reflect on the ways in which they have compensated their research participants and given back to host communities as well as the varied responses to their efforts. The contributors consider both material and non material forms of reciprocity stories of successes and failures and the taken for granted notions of compensation friendship and helping. In so doing they address the interpersonal dynamics of power and agency in the field examine cultural misunderstandings and highlight the challenges that anthropologists face as they strive to maintain good relations with their hosts even when separated by time and space. The contributors argue that while learning following openly discussing and writing about the local rules of reciprocity are always challenging they are essential to responsible research practice and ongoing efforts to decolonize anthropology *Catalogue of the Mercantile Library of Boston.
