The World Summit on Sustainable Development L. Hens,Bhaskar Nath,2006-02-28 The Johannesburg Earth Summit which took place in the summer of 2002 confirmed the irreversible nature of the process that is founded upon the concept of Sustainable Development initially given form at Rio de Janeiro ten years earlier This process is to be welcomed while at the same time recognising the tremendous work that has taken place in converting this concept into a more concrete vision The Sustainable Development concept relates to every human activity covering the social economic and ecological dimensions which are often in conflict Consequently it is most important to include in research programmes some thought of the way people behave In theory the general elements of this inclusion are relatively easily defined However assessing the effects of one or another decision on all the interactions between the social economic and ecological dimensions involves significant difficulties All the more since we have to recognise in all modesty that humanity has not always excelled in the art of forward studies In fact the Precautionary Principle was introduced partly as a reaction to the sometimes blind confidence in technology and logic even if it is sometimes invoked in an exaggerated manner Nevertheless the duty to act for the sake of present and future generations is pressing Throughout history mankind has had to adapt and to innovate Now at the beginning of the 21 century the urgent need for such adaptations is obvious

Spangenberg,2019-03-14 Globalization and telecoupling are enhancing the complexity of the coupled socio ecological system constituted by the interaction between the global ecosphere and the anthroposphere As a result the demand for tools to identify transformative innovations assess future risks and support precautionary decisions for sustainability is growing by the day in business and politics. Scenarios are a means of simplification reducing the real world complexity to a limited number of essential factors to analyze their interactions and support policy formulation with indicators as communication and monitoring tools. In particular in a time of fake news and alternative truths a critical reflection amongst producers and users of scenarios and indicators is overdue. The capability for critical self reflection is what distinguishes science from pseudo science and is a condition of trust. The authors of this book test established measurement and modeling approaches against new challenges, assess the weaknesses of prevailing innovation theories and the political ideological embedment of archetypical scenarios, highlight deficits in taking the physical basics into account and the need to understand global interaction and the stepwise process of energy transitions. They point out technical as well as conceptual weaknesses in data collection, harmonization and indicator generation, always with a view to solving problems.
