Perception Charles Travis, 2013-06-13 Charles Travis presents a series of connected essays on current topics in philosophy of perception. The book is informed throughout by a number of central insights of Gottlob Frege's notably about some intrinsic differences between objects of thought and objects of perception and about the essential publicity of thought and hence of its objects. Travis addresses a number of key questions including how perception can make the world bear for the perceiver on the thing for him to do or think what it might be for there to be perceptual experiences indistinguishable from ones of perceiving hence from experiences of one's surroundings what it might be for things to look a certain way to the experiencer where this is not for things to look that way what the upshot of sub personal perceptual processing might be what sorts of capacities are drawn on in representing something as being something. Besides Frege the essays owe much to J L Austin something to J M Hinton and more than a little to John McDowell and to Thompson Clarke. They engage critically with McDowell and with Clarke as well as with such philosophers as Christopher Peacocke Tyler Burge Jerry Fodor Elisabeth Anscombe A J Ayer and H A Prichard.

Every Step in Canning: The Cold-Pack Method Grace Viall Gray, 2019-11-25 In Every Step in Canning: The Cold Pack Method Grace Viall Gray combines practical guidance with an accessible literary style to explore the nuances of food preservation. Through detailed instructions and illustrative anecdotes this foundational text delves into the cold pack canning method emphasizing its significance in the context of early 20th century domestic practices. Gray's meticulous approach not only addresses the technical aspects of canning but also situates the practice within a burgeoning movement toward self sufficiency and home economics that resonated with readers of her era. Grace Viall Gray an influential figure in 20th century domestic science dedicated her life to educating homemakers on the art of preservation and nutrition. Drawing upon her extensive experience in both cooking and community education Gray aspired to demystify the canning process empowering women in an age marked by shifts in food sourcing and household management. Her work reflects a deep commitment to culinary innovation and the importance of tradition in food preparation. This book is a vital resource for anyone interested in home canning whether novice or experienced. Gray's expert tips coupled with her clear engaging writing style make Every Step in Canning an essential addition to both culinary libraries and the sustainable cooking practices of today.
