What Do We Owe Other Animals? Bob Fischer, Anja Jauernig, 2023-12-22 Philosophers Bob Fischer and Anja Jauernig agree that human society often treats animals in indefensible ways and that all animals morally matter they disagree on whether humans and animals morally matter equally In What Do We Owe Other Animals A Debate Fischer and Jauernig square off over this central question in animal ethics Jauernig defends the view that all living beings morally matter equally and are owed compassion on account of which we are also obligated to adopt a vegan diet Fischer denies that we have an obligation to become vegans and argues for the position that humans morally matter more than all other living creatures The two authors each offer a clear well developed opening statement a direct response to the other s statement and then a response to the other s response Along the way they explore central questions like What kind of beings matter morally What kind of obligations do we have towards other animals How demanding can we reasonably expect these obligations to be Do our individual consumer choices such as the choice to purchase factory farmed animal products make a difference to the wellbeing of animals The debate is helpfully framed by introductions and conclusions to each of the major parts and by smaller introductions to each of the sub sections A Foreword by Dustin Crummett sets the context for the debate within a larger discussion of sentience moral standing reason guided compassion and the larger field of animal ethics Key Features Showcases the presentation and defense of two points of view on the moral worth of non human animals Provides frequent summaries of previously covered material Includes a topically organized list of Further Readings and a Glossary of all specialized vocabulary Guardians of the Planet Clive Gifford,2020-11-10 Encourage children to engage with environmental problems and inspire them to take care of our planet This book will help readers gain love and appreciation for our home and all who live here It offers information on pollution extinction climate change and ways to help and feel hopeful Parents teachers and gift givers will find the perfect book for Earth Day a perfect choice for kids who love nature books great homeschool material Kids can learn how to become keepers of the coasts friends of the forests home heroes and much more through a mix of compelling facts creative activities and proactive tips Key environmental topics are clearly explained and the easy to follow projects and suggestions help to put the issues in an everyday context From recycling and composting food to reducing water waste and giving wildlife a helping hand
