the narrative of horror comics as inherently and necessarily subversive and explores instead the ways in which these texts manifest white male fears over America's changing sociological landscape. It examines two eras: the pre CCA period of the 1940s up to 1954 and the post CCA era to 1975. The book examines each of these periods through the lenses of war, gender, and race, demonstrating that horror comics at this time were centered on white male victimhood and the monstrosity of the gendered and/or racialised other. It is of interest to scholars of horror comics studies and American history. Catalog of

Copyright Entries. Third Series Library of Congress. Copyright Office, 1975 USS Pampanito Gregory F

Michno, 2016-01-12 Most World War II submarine stories are glorifications of war written by submarine captains about their own boats. But the USS Pampanito was not a typical submarine. The sub and its crew caused plenty of destruction but they found the pinnacle of their honor and fame in a dramatic sea rescue. Gregory F Michno relates the experiences of the crewmen, both enlisted men and officers who served on the USS Pampanito. The Pampanito story begins with the boat's construction in 1943, continues through its six combat missions, and concludes with its decommissioning after the war in 1945. The heart of the book is the September 12, 1944 attack on a Japanese convoy carrying English and Australian POWs from the Burma Siam Railway of Bridge on the River Kwai fame to prison camps in Japan. The Pampanito helped sink two of the prison ships, unwittingly killing hundreds of Allied soldiers but then returned to rescue the survivors. The crew picked a record seventy-three men from the sea. The Gender and Consumer Culture Reader Jennifer Scanlon, 2000-08 In this consumer culture studies anthology, 23 reprinted essays (1934-98) consider both the empowering and disempowering elements of consumerism. In her introduction, Scanlon (women's studies, Plattsburgh State U of New York) views consumer culture as a collaborative process, not simply a matter of perpetrators and victims. The themes the essays address are stretching the boundaries of the domestic sphere; you are what you buy; the message makers; and sexuality, pleasure, and resistance in consumer culture. The book features b/w illustrations promoting the cults of domesticity and identity through proper consumption. It lacks an index. c. Book News Inc. Gender, Race, and Class in Media Gail Dines, 2003 Gender, Race, and Class in Media examines the mass media as economic and cultural institutions that shape our social identities. Through analyses of popular mass media entertainment genres such as talk shows, soap operas, television sitcoms, advertising, and pornography, students are invited to engage in critical mass media scholarship. A comprehensive introductory section outlines the book's integrated approach to media studies, which incorporates three distinct but related areas of investigation: the political economy of production, textual analysis, and audience response. The readings include a dozen new original essays edited for maximum accessibility. The book provides a comprehensive critical introduction to Media Studies. An analysis of race that is integrated into all chapters. Articles on Cultural Studies that are accessible to undergraduates. An extensive bibliography and section on media resources. Expanded coverage of queer representations in mass media. A new section on the violence debates. A new section on the Internet. Together with new section introductions, these provide a comprehensive critical
