Pionus Parrots for Novices Wolter Jessi, 2020-08-22

Pionus parrots are all roughly between 10 and 12 inches in length and are basically the same shape with a short square tail like Amazon parrots. They all have a bare fleshy eye ring circling the entire eye, and they all have red feathers at the vent underneath the tail. Those are the only physical characteristics Pionus share; they differ so vastly in color it can be puzzling why the field biologists put them all in the same species. This beginners guide provides vital information on the origin, physical attributes, how to buy, temperament, health problems, feeding, and socialization of this wonderful pet. Get your copy
