Pipes that Won't Smoke, Coal that Won't Burn Carol Sheehan, Glenbow Museum, 1981      The Early Years of Native American Art History Janet Catherine Berlo, 1992 This collection of essays deals with the development of Native American art history as a discipline rather than with particular art works or artists It focuses on the early anthropologists museum curators dealers and collectors and on the multiple levels of understanding and misunderstanding a      Captured Heritage Douglas Cole, 2011-11-01 The heyday of anthropological collecting on the Northwest Coast took place between 1875 and the Great Depression The scramble for skulls and skeletons poles canoes baskets feast bowls and masks went on until it seemed that almost everything not nailed down or hidden was gone The period of most intense collecting on the coast coincided with the growth of anthropological museums which reflected the realization that time was running out and that civilization was pushing the indigenous people to the wall destroying their material culture and even extinguishing the native stock itself Douglas Cole examines the process of collecting in the context of the development of museums and anthropology The main North American museums with Northwest Coast collections the Smithsonian Institution the American Museum of Natural History Chicago s Field Museum of Natural History the Royal British Columbia Museum and the Canadian Museum of Civilization in Ottawa were intense rivals in the race against time For the new edition of Captured Heritage Douglas Cole has written a preface in which he outlines developments since the book s first publication in 1985 Since that time for example the Kwagiulth Museum and Cultural Center on Quadra Island and the U Mista Museum and Cultural Center at Alert Bay have been successful in having some of their artifacts repatriated      Art, Observation, and an Anthropology of Illustration Max Carocci, Stephanie Pratt, 2022-06-02 Art Observation and an Anthropology of Illustration examines the role of sketches drawings and other artworks in our understanding of human cultures of the past Bringing together art historians and anthropologists it presents a selection of detailed case studies of various bodies of work produced by non Western and Western artists from different world regions and from different time periods from Native North America Cameroon and Nepal to Italy Solomon Islands and Mexico to explore the contemporary relevance and challenges implicit in artistic renditions of past peoples and places In an age when identities are partially constructed on the basis of existing visual records the book asks important questions about the nature of observation and the inclusion of culturally relevant information in artistic representations How reliable are watercolours paintings or sketches for the understanding of past ways of life How do old images of bygone peoples relate to art historical and anthropological canons How have these images and technologies of representation been used to describe illustrate or explain unknown realities The book is an essential tool for art historians anthropologists and anyone who wants to understand how the observation of different realities has impacted upon the production of art and visual cultures Incorporating current methodological and theoretical tools the 10 chapters collected here expand the area of connection between the disciplines of art history and anthropology bringing into sharp focus the multiple intersections of objectivity evidence and artistic licence      The Arts of the North American Indian Philbrook Art Center, 1986 Fourteen authorities explore sociology anthropology art history of Native American creativity      Wilson Duff Robin Fisher, 2022-05-28 The fascinating origin story of Wilson Duff the pioneering BC anthropologist and museologist remembered for his contributions to research on First Nations cultures of the Northwest Coast Wilson Duff was born in 1925 in the city of Vancouver and his turbulent early years were shaped by the Great Depression and the Second World War An intelligent child he quickly progressed in school After one year at the University of British Columbia he signed up for the Air Force An analytic thinker Duff excelled as a navigator on a Liberator bomber based in India However these years carried their own traumas the omnipresent terror of war and the specter of death On his return from India Duff recommenced his studies at UBC There he began a love affair with anthropology and museum studies As provincial anthropologist at the BC Provincial Museum from 1950 to 1965 and then at the University of British Columbia he helped to shape Canadian and British Columbian understanding of First Nations cultures Forging relationships with Indigenous Peoples during field work Duff was particularly interested in the Northwest Coast cultures and art and authored important books including Arts of the Raven Masterworks by the Northwest Coast Indian and Images Stone B C Thirty Centuries of Northwest Coast Indian Sculpture Hundreds of students left his classes with a greater understanding of Indigenous cultures and the consequences of settler colonialism in British Columbia He devoted his life to understanding Indigenous people and cultures and communicating that understanding to newcomers a subject of continued relevance today Duff struggled with depression for much of his life and died by suicide at age 51 In the end he claimed he did not fear death because the end is the beginning He believed in reincarnation that he would be coming back In tracing the story of Wilson Duff biographer Robin Fisher reveals the evolution of anthropological studies the history of a time and place Vancouver during the Great Depression and war years and the more recent changes taking place in museum and anthropology studies Told with insight and attention to the controversies and complexities of Duff's life this story will fascinate anyone engaged in BC history      Proud Raven, Panting Wolf Emily L. Moore, 2018-11-20 Among Southeast Alaska's best known tourist attractions are its totem parks showcases for monumental wood sculptures by Tlingit and Haida artists Although the art form is centuries old the parks date back only to the waning years of the Great Depression when the US government reversed its policy of suppressing Native practices and began to pay Tlingit and Haida communities to restore older totem poles and move them from ancestral villages into parks designed for tourists Dramatically altering the patronage and display of historic Tlingit and Haida crests this New Deal restoration project had two key aims to provide economic aid to Native people during the Depression and to recast their traditional art as part of America's heritage Less evident is why Haida and Tlingit people agreed to lend their crest monuments to tourist attractions at a time when they were battling the US Forest Service for control of their traditional lands and resources Drawing on interviews and government records as well as on the histories represented by the totem poles themselves Emily Moore shows how Tlingit and Haida leaders were able to channel the New Deal promotion of Native art as national art into an assertion of their cultural and political rights Just as they had for centuries the poles affirmed the ancestral ties of Haida and Tlingit lineages to their lands Supported by the Jill and Joseph McKinstry Book Fund Art History Publication Initiative For more information visit http://arthistorypi.org/books/proud\_raven\_panting\_wolf

So Much More Than Art Jack Davy, 2021-10-01 Miniature canoes houses and totems and human figurines have been produced on the Northwest Coast since at least the sixteenth century What has motivated Indigenous artists to produce these tiny artworks Are they curios toys art or something else So Much More Than Art is a highly original exploration of this intricate cultural pursuit Through case studies and conversations with contemporary Indigenous artists Jack Davy uncovers the ways in which miniatures have functioned as crucial components of satirical opposition to colonial government preservation of traditional techniques and political and legal negotiation This nuanced study of a hitherto misunderstood practice demonstrates the importance of miniaturization as a technique for communicating complex cultural ideas between generations and communities and across the divide that separates Indigenous and settler societies Most of all So Much More Than Art is a testament to the cultural resilience of the Indigenous peoples of the Northwest Coast Art Et Architecture Au Canada

Franz Boas, 2015-09-14 Although Franz Boas one of the most influential anthropologists of the twentieth century is best known for his voluminous writings on cultural physical and linguistic anthropology he is also recognized for breaking new ground in the study of so called primitive art His writings on art have major historical value because they embody a profound change in art history Nineteenth century scholars assumed that all art lay on a continuum from primitive to advanced artworks of all nonliterate peoples were therefore examples of early stages of development But Boas s case studies from his own fieldwork in the Pacific Northwest demonstrated different tenets the variety of history the influence of diffusion the symbolic and stylistic variation in art styles found among groups and sometimes within one group and the role of imagination and creativity on the part of the artist This volume presents Boas s most significant writings on art dated 1889 1916 many originally published in obscure sources now difficult to locate The original illustrations and an extensive combined bibliography are included Aldona Jonaitis s careful compilation of articles and the thorough historical and theoretical framework in which she casts them in her introductory and concluding essays make this volume a valuable reference for students of art history and Northwest anthropology and a special delight for admirers of Boas

Around and about Marius Barbeau Gordon E Smith, Lynda Jessup, Andrew Nurse, 2007-01-01 Marius Barbeau 1883 1969 played a vital role in shaping Canadian culture in the twentieth century Rooted in the premise that his cultural work in anthropology fine arts music film folklore studies fiction historiography cannot be read uni dimensionally the sixteen articles that comprise this book demonstrate that by merging disciplinary perspectives about Barbeau evaluations and understandings of the situation around Barbeau can be deepened Published in English This Is Our Life Cara Krmpotich, Laura Lynn Peers, 2013-11-01 In September 2009 twenty one members of the Haida Nation went to the Pitt Rivers Museum and the British Museum to work with several hundred heritage treasures Featuring contributions from all the participants and a rich selection of illustrations This Is Our Life details the remarkable story of the Haida Project from the planning to the encounter and through the years that followed A fascinating look at the meaning behind objects the value of repatriation and the impact of historical trajectories like colonialism this is also a story of the understanding that grew between the Haida people and museum staff Otter Skins, Boston Ships and China Goods James R. Gibson, 1999 James Gibson's thoroughly researched and highly detailed study is the first comprehensive account of the maritime fur trade on the Northwest Coast of North America The Magic Leaves Peter L. Macnair, Alan L. Hoover, 1984 Conservation Concerns Konstanze Bachmann, 2012-01-11 Written in accessible nontechnical language this book's twenty three essays provide invaluable conservation guidelines for a variety of materials and media Focusing also on proper storage techniques and environmental control contributors offer information on emergency planning disaster management and identifying damages that may require professional treatment From Maps to Metaphors Robin Fisher, Hugh Johnston, 2011-11-01 During the summers of 1792-94 George Vancouver and the crew of the British naval ships Discovery and Chatham mapped the northwest coast of North America from Baja California to Alaska Vancouver's voyage was the last and longest of the great Pacific voyages of the late eighteenth century Taking the art and technique of distant voyaging to a new level Vancouver eliminated the possibility of a northwest passage and his remarkably precise surveys completed the outline of the Pacific But to map an area is to appropriate it to begin to bring it under control and Vancouver's charts of the northwest coast were part of a process of economic exploitation and cultural disruption Although he and the other great navigators of his age exercised no control over the ideas and enterprises spawned by their voyages their names have come to symbolize the consequences of European expansion good or bad From Maps to Metaphors grew out of the Vancouver Conference on Exploration and Discovery held to observe the bicentennial of Vancouver's arrival on the Pacific northwest coast It brings to light much of the new research on the discovery of the Pacific and illuminates the European and Native experience The chapters are written from a variety of perspectives and provide new insights on many aspects of Vancouver's voyages from the technology employed to the complex political and power relationships among European explorers and the Native leadership While it is no longer possible to celebrate the arrival to the northwest coast of explorers such as Vancouver their achievements cannot be overlooked The charts log books journals and specimens from these voyages are important sources of information and essential for the reconstruction of an image of the Pacific region and its people in the eighteenth century Bollettino del Centro camuno di studi preistorici Centro camuno di studi preistorici, 1986 Handbook of North American Indians:
