Pitman Painters:

The Pitmen Painters Lee Hall, 2008 In 1934 a group of Ashington miners and a dental mechanic hired a professor from Newcastle University to teach an Art Appreciation evening class Unable to understand each other they embarked on one of the most unusual experiments in British art as the pitmen learned to become painters Within a few years the most avant garde artists became their friends their work was taken for prestigious collections and they were celebrated throughout the British art world but every day they worked as before down the mine The Pitmen Painters premiered at Live Theatre Newcastle upon Tyne in September 2007 before transferring to the National Theatre in 2008 About the play Pitmen Painters William Feaver, 1988 The story of the Ashington Group who used art as a means of self discovery and self help a group of Northumberland pitmen who started to paint to learn something of how pictures were made and in so doing produced an account of a community in painting and sculpture which is considered to be without equal or rival They depicted such subjects as clocking in work on the coalface the pithead baths Saturday night at the club the corner shop race track pigeon crees and football games William Feaver the author is trustee of their work and establishes this unprofessional painting in the context of mining life and art history illustrating the book with paintings drawings prints and sculpture by the Group as well as with archive photographs The Mass Observers James Hinton, 2013-03-14 The first full scale history of Mass Observation the independent social research organisation which set out to document the attitudes opinions and every day lives of British people between 1937 and 1949 Corrects and revises much of our existing knowledge of M O and opens up new and important perspectives on the organisation itself The Popular lecturer [afterw.] Pitman's Popular lecturer (and reader), ed. by H. Pitman Henry Pitman, Dictionary of American Painters, Sculptors and Engravers Mantle Fielding, 1926 Mass-Observation and Visual Culture Lucy D. Curzon, 2017-07-05 Mass Observation and Visual Culture Depicting Everyday Lives in Britain critically analyses the role that visual culture played in the early development of Mass Observation the innovative British anthropological research group founded in 1937 The group's production and use of painting collage photography and other media illustrates not only the broad scope of Mass Observation's efforts to document everyday life but also more specifically the centrality of visual elements to its efforts at understanding national identity in the 1930s Although much interest has previously focused on Mass Observation's use of written reports and opinion surveys as well as diaries that were kept by hundreds of volunteer observers this book is the first full length study of the group's engagement with visual culture Exploring the paintings of Graham Bell and William Coldstream the photographs of Humphrey Spender the paintings collages and photographs of Julian Trevelyan and Humphrey Spender's photographs and widely recognized Mass Observation film Spare Time among other sources Mass Observation and Visual Culture Depicting Everyday Lives in Britain positions these works as key sources of information with regard to illuminating the complex character of British identity during the Depression era Reading Ranciere Paul Bowman, Richard Stamp, 2011-06-02 Over the past 40 years Jacques Rancière's work has defined itself through a remarkable set of philosophical differences in relation to other key figures working in the fields of politics philosophy and aesthetics There have been significant philosophical theoretical and aesthetic disagreements with influential figures in contemporary thought including Althusser Bourdieu Derrida Agamben Deleuze Foucault Habermas and Badiou Through these differences Rancière has emerged as one of the world's leading contemporary theorists Whilst Rancière has long been a well known force in francophone contexts the translation of his works into English has generated a lot of excitement and catapulted him to the forefront of attention in several putatively distinct but interconnected fields philosophy politics critical theory aesthetics and film Reading Rancière intervenes in this ongoing discourse by assembling an eminent collection of critical assessments of the significance of Rancière's diverse impact and growing influence This book offers a sustained critically balanced response to the work of this major contemporary theorist as well as a new interview and a key text published here for the first time Pitman's Journal of Commercial Education, 1893 Crossroads in Literature and Culture Jacek Fabiszak, Ewa Urbaniak-Rybicka, Bartosz Wolski, 2012-11-05 The book contains a selection of papers focusing on the idea of crossing boundaries in literary and cultural texts composed in English The authors come from different methodological schools and analyse texts coming from different periods and cultures trying to find common ground the theme of the volume between the apparently generically and temporarily varied works and phenomena In this way a plethora of perspectives is offered perspectives which represent a high standard both in terms of theoretical reflection and in depth analysis of selected texts Consequently the volume is addressed to a wide scope of both scholars and students working in the field of English and American literary and cultural studies furthermore it will be of interest also to students interested in theoretical issues linked with investigations into literature and culture Interrogating the New Economy Norene Pupo, Mark Preston Thomas, 2010-01-01 Interrogating the New Economy is a collection of original essays investigating the New Economy and how changes ascribed to it have impacted labour relations access to work and more generally the social and cultural experiences of work in Canada Based on years of participatory research sector specific studies and quantitative and qualitative data collection the work accounts for the ways in which the contemporary workplace has changed but also the extent to which older forms of work organization still remain The collection begins with an overview of the key social and economic transformations that define the New Economy It then illustrates these transformations through examples including essays on wine tourism the regeneration of mining communities the place of student workers and changes in the public service workplace It also addresses unions and their responses to the restructuring of work as well as other forms of resistance Industrial Organic Chemicals Harold A. Nine Wartime Lives James Hinton, 2010-01-14 James Hinton uses diaries kept by nine ordinary people in wartime Britain to re evaluate the social history of the Second World War and to reflect on the twentieth century making of the modern self These diaries were written by some of the unusually self reflective and public spirited people who agreed to write intimate journals about their daily activity for the social research organisation Mass Observation One of the nine diarists discussed is Nella Last whose published diaries have been a source of delight and fascination for many thousands of readers Alongside her there are chapters on eight other Mass Observers each in their own way as vivid interesting and surprising as Nella herself A central insight underpins the book in seeking to make the best of our own lives each of us makes selective use of the resources of our shared culture in a unique way and in so doing we contribute however modestly to molecular processes of historical change Placing individuals at the centre of his analysis James Hinton probes the impact of war on attitudes to citizenship the changing relationships between men and women and the search for meanings in life that could transcend the wartime context of limitless violence Consistently sensitive thoughtful and often moving this beautifully written book resists nostalgic contrasts between the presumed dutiful citizenship of wartime Britain and contemporary anti social individualism pointing instead to longer run processes of change rooted as much in struggles for personal autonomy in the private sphere as in the politics of active citizenship in public life Redefining English for the More Able Ian

Warwick,Ray Speakman,2018-04-20 Redefining English for the More Able is a practical guide offering English teachers a range of strategies to stretch and challenge their students Written by Ian Warwick founder of London Gifted and Talented and Ray Speakman this book provides a fresh perspective on the purpose of English teaching and the benefits it can offer all students Drawing on an array of ideas and examples from different genres of literature the book discusses how threshold concepts can be used to frame English teaching and push the boundaries of students learning The chapters provide example lesson plans targeted at different age groups from Key Stages 2 5 and address different aspects of English including short stories poetry film drama and science fiction Warwick and Speakman examine how the requirements for teaching more able students have received more recent focus under Ofsted and offer specific examples of activities and reflective questions that can engage students more deeply in their appreciation of English This well researched and accessible guide will be an invaluable tool for English teachers teaching assistants and school leaders wishing to reflect on new ways of motivating and teaching the more able in order to develop the intellectual curiosity of all their students Worktown David

Hall,2015-08-13 In the late 1930s the Lancashire town of Bolton witnessed a ground breaking social experiment Over three years a team of ninety observers recorded in painstaking detail the everyday lives of ordinary working people at work and play in the pub dance hall factory and on holiday Their aim was to create an anthropology of ourselves The first of its kind it later grew into the Mass Observation movement that proved so crucial to our understanding of public opinion in future generations The project attracted a cast of larger than life characters not least its founders the charismatic and unconventional anthropologist Tom Harrisson and the surrealist intellectuals Charles Madge and Humphrey Jennings They were joined by a disparate band of men and women students artists writers and photographers unemployed workers and local volunteers who worked tirelessly to turn the idle pleasure of people watching into a science Drawing on their vivid reports photographs and first hand sources David Hall relates the extraordinary story of this eccentric short lived but hugely influential project Along the way he creates a richly detailed fascinating portrait of a lost chapter of British social history and of the life of an industrial northern town before the world changed for ever Your Voice Speaks Volumes Jane

Setter,2019-10-24 Why do we speak the way we do and what do our voices tell others about us What is the truth behind the myths that surround how we speak Jane Setter explores these and other fascinating questions in this engaging introduction to the power and the science of the voice The book first takes us on a tour of the sounds in our language and how we produce them as well as how and why those sounds vary in different varieties of English The origins of our vast range of accents are explained along with the prejudices associated with them why do we feel such loyalty to our own accent and what s behind our attitudes to others We learn that much of what we believe about how we speak may not be true is it really the case for instance that only young people use uptalk or that only women use vocal fry Our voices can also be used as criminal evidence and to help us wear different social and professional hats Throughout the book Professor Setter draws on examples from the media and from her own professional and personal experience from her work on the provenance of the terrorist Jihadi John to why the Rolling Stones sounded American

The Ecologies of Amateur Theatre Helen Nicholson, Nadine Holdsworth, Jane Milling, 2018-10-26 This book is the first major study of amateur theatre offering new perspectives on its place in the cultural and social life of communities Historically informed it traces how amateur theatre has impacted national repertoires contributed to diverse creative economies and responded to changing patterns of labour Based on extensive archival and ethnographic research it traces the importance of amateur theatre to crafting places and the ways in which it sustains the creativity of amateur theatre over a lifetime It asks how does amateur theatre making contribute to the twenty first century amateur turn

Digging the Seam Ian W. Macdonald, Simon Popple, 2012-11-15 The 1984 5 Miners Strike was one of the most important political events in British history It was a bitter dispute that polarised public opinion divided nation and families alike and the results in terms of the destruction of centuries of industrial and cultural tradition are still keenly felt The social and political consequences of this dispute which have resonated for the past quarter century have been subject to detailed analysis and reflection The consequences for the arts and popular culture are less clearly mapped This book attempts to begin to redress this imbalance and signal the importance of popular cultural activity both during and after the strike The essays that appear in this book represent diverse and multidisciplinary responses to the questions raised by the strike and its relationships to a broad range of cultural forms which include literature film photography music theatre television drama and documentary painting public art and heritage interventions These responses are organised around four themes that map the interrelatedness between cultural representation cultural intervention and historical memory The first deals with the idea of mining culture and pre strike representations in popular sentiment film and literature The second examines the role cultural forms played directly in the context of the strike as a means of political commentary activism and fund raising The third looks at subsequent cultural renderings or reconstructions of the strike and the final section looks at the current process of memorialisation and commemoration The book draws together a range of voices from academia heritage cultural and mining backgrounds and offers both a historical perspective on the range of cultural activities in the course of the dispute and subsequent readings and re readings It aims both to provide a record of cultural intervention and stimulate new dialogues and perspectives
