Place Called Home Writings On The Mi:

A Place Called Home Richard O. Davies, David R. Pichaske, Joseph Anthony Amato, 2003 2004 Minnesota Book Award Winner The Midwestern small town has long held an iconic place in American culture from the imaginings of Sinclair Lewis's Main Street and Sherwood Anderson's Winesburg, Ohio to Garrison Keillor's Lake Wobegon. But the reality is much more complex as the small town has been a study in transition from its very inception. In A Place Called Home editors Richard O. Davies, Joseph A. Amato, and David R. Pichaske offer the first comprehensive examination of the Midwestern small town and its evolving nature from the 1800s to the present. This rich collection gleaned from the best writings of historians, novelists, social scientists, poets, and journalists features not only such well-known authors as Sherwood Anderson, Carol Bly, Willa Cather, Hamlin Garland, Langston Hughes, Garrison Keillor, William Kloefkorn, Sinclair Lewis, Susan Allen Toth, and Mark Twain, but also many lesser-known and exceptionally talented writers. Five chronological sections trace the founding, growth, and decline of the Midwestern town, and introductory comments illuminate its ever-changing face. The result is a wide-ranging collection of writings on the community at the heart of America.

Designing a Place Called Home James Wentling, 2016-12-28 This insightful volume shares design ideas to help builders, planners, and architects create mass-produced, affordable housing that pushes suburban development in more sustainable, liveable directions. The author argues that improving the quality of design in our new homes and communities for greater resiliency, sustainability, and equality, we can build neighborhoods and communities where residents feel more connected to their homes and to one another. Through text, photographs, and illustrations, the book reviews prototypical American housing design, then suggests ways to both learn from the past as well as adapt for new environmental imperatives, demographic changes, and lifestyle needs. Written by a practicing architect with 25 years of experience optimizing residential design, this pioneering approach to suburban building will inspire readers to view mass-produced housing through a new, modern lens.

Orange City Doug Anderson, Tim Schlak, Greta Grond, Sarah Kaltenbach, 2014-04-14 Orange City was founded in 1869/1870 as a colony of Dutch Americans from Pella. Led by Henry Hospers, the colonists made Orange City the center of Dutch agricultural expansion in northwestern Iowa, and farther west. By 1874, the town had railroad connections, was the seat of Sioux County, and had a Dutch language weekly newspaper that was read in the Netherlands as well as around North America. Hospers, along with others, founded an academy in 1882 to train young people in the classics and the Reformed faith. By the 1930s, the academy was maturing into what is now Northwestern College. The town's populace has never been exclusively Dutch; nevertheless, the Dutch heritage of the settlement has remained central to Orange City's identity. A tulip festival held in 1936 became an annual event that continues to draw tens of thousands of visitors each May. In 1986, a Dutch front initiative was launched that has transformed much of the town with a distinctive Dutch look.

No Pockets in a Shroud Maxine E. Thompson, 1997 A story of family secrets and taboos No Pockets in a Shroud unfolds like a Chinese box a story within a story The core story involves two brothers in love with the same woman In the first generation the mother Miss Magg loved the younger brother Tigter Godbolt However an insecure orphan Miss Magg wound up marrying the older staid brother Reverend Godbolt for security Ironically years later the daughter Nefertiti also marries the brother who was her parents' pick as the original love triangle is mirrored in the next generation

Finding a New Midwestern History Jon K. Lauck, Gleaves Whitney, Joseph Hogan, 2018-11-01 In comparison to such regions as the South the far West and New England the Midwest and its culture have been neglected both by scholars and by the popular press Historians as well as literary and art critics tend not to examine the Midwest in depth in their academic work And in the popular imagination the Midwest has never really ascended to the level of the proud literary South the cultured democratic Northeast or the hip innovative West Coast Finding a New Midwestern History revives and identifies anew the Midwest as a field of study by promoting a diversity of viewpoints and lending legitimacy to a more in depth rigorous scholarly assessment of a large region of the United States that has largely been overlooked by scholars The essays discuss facets of midwestern life worth examining more deeply including history religion geography art race culture and politics and are written by well known scholars in the field such as Michael Allen Jon Butler and Nicole Etcheson

Returning Home Jerry M.

Burger,2011-03-16 Each year millions of American adults visit a childhood home Few can anticipate the effect it will have on them Often serving several important psychological needs these trips are not intended as visits with people from their past Rather those returning to their homes have a strong desire to visit the places that comprised the landscape of their childhood Approximately one third of American adults over the age of thirty have visited a childhood home This book describes some of their experiences and the psychology behind the journeys Most people who visit a childhood home are motivated by a desire to connect with their past Seeing the buildings schools parks and playgrounds from their youth helps to establish the psychological and emotional link between the child in the black and white photographs and the person they are today Many people use the trip to get in touch with the values and principles they were taught as children often as a means to get their lives back on track Others use that journey to strengthen emotional bonds between themselves and loved ones Still others return to former homes to work through psychological issues left over from sad or traumatic childhoods No matter the reason there are few experiences in one s life that can move a person as deeply and unpredictably as returning home

Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com/books/e/9781003036159> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license. This book examines a variety of subjective spatial experiences and knowledge production practices in order to shed new light on the specifics of contemporary socio-spatial change driven as it is by inter alia digitalization, transnationalization and migration. Considering the ways in which emerging spatial phenomena are conditioned by an increasing interconnectedness, this book asks how spaces are changing as a result of mediatization, increased mobility, globalization and social dislocation. With attention to questions surrounding the negotiation and visual communication of space, it explores the arrangements, spatialities and materialities that underpin the processes of spatial refiguration by which these changes come about. Bringing together the work of leading scholars from across diverse range disciplines to address questions of socio-spatial transformation, this volume will appeal to sociologists and geographers as well as scholars and practitioners of urban planning and architecture.
