Dhritiman Chakraborty,Sanchayita Paul Chakraborty,Mukunda Mishra,2024-12-18 This book contains selected papers presented at the international conference titled In Search of Creative Commons Crisis Catastrophe and Responsive Literature in India held at the Abid Ali Khan Centre for Digital Archive and Translation of Cultures Gour Mahavidyalaya College from 31 August to 2 September 2023 in collaboration with the Department of English Dr Meghnad Saha College The conference was funded by the Indian Council of Social Science Research ICSSR In this book three basic questions are considered First as humans try to live in and through catastrophes and exceptional situations in the contemporary world what new perspective can literature as a creative form offer for healing and restorative purposes Second what new idioms and narrative styles massive crises such as famine partition migration the decimation of forests rivers and the disappearance of villages held up in creative articulations in colonial and postcolonial times in India Can these representations be called responsive literature Further and this is the third major contention of this book how can responsive literature be thought of as a conceptual category What new transdisciplinary optic should be adopted to go beyond the limits of the literary and eventually include the non literary The objective of these discussions was to contribute to the larger discursive literature on disaster studies which we believe has been excessively hegemonized by concepts from the West By bringing in indigenous ideas from Bhasa Sahitya language and literature the images of samaj society samata equity and ahimsa non violence the existing literature on catastrophe and crisis studies can finally be decolonized

Third World Film Making and the West

Roy Armes,1987-07-29 This volume is the first fully comprehensive account of film production in the Third World Although they are usually ignored or marginalized in histories of world cinema Third World countries now produce well over half of the world s films Roy Armes sets out initially to place this huge output in a wider context examining the forces of tradition and colonialism that have shaped the Third World defined as those countries that have emerged from Western control but have not fully developed their economic potential or rejected the capitalist system in favor of some socialist alternative He then considers the paradoxes of social structure and cultural life in the post independence world where even such basic concepts as nation national culture and language are problematic The first experience of cinema for such countries has invariably been that of imported Western films which created the audience and in most cases still dominate the market today Thus Third World film makers have had to assert their identity against formidable outside pressures The later sections of the book look at their output from a number of angles in terms of the stages of overall growth and corresponding stages of cinematic development from the point of view of regional evolution in Asia Africa and Latin America and through a detailed examination of the work of some of the Third World s most striking film innovators In addition to charting the broad outlines of filmic developments too little known in Europe and the United States the book calls into question many of the assumptions that shape conventional film history It stresses the role of distribution in defining and limiting production queries simplistic notions of independent national cinemas and points to the need to take social and economic factors into account when considering authorship in cinema Above all the book celebrates the achievements of a mass of largely unknown film makers who in difficult circumstances have distinctively expanded our definitions of the art of cinema Roy Armes who lives in London has written nine books on film his most recent being French Cinema He spent more than three years researching this volume

Reading Contemporary South Asian Literature Bidhu Chand Murmu, Somjeeta Pandey, 2022-04-12 As a school of criticism the central argument in Postcolonial studies revolves around dismantling the dominant narrative of colonial or imperial history A colonization process not only captures the native people and culture but their lands too Proper reading of postcolonial theory would be by understanding the epistemology of colonized environment or vice versa Even after decolonization the ideology of imperialism is persistent in native memory and thought An embeddedness in native psyche not only nurtures imperialism but manifests them with the footprints of colonial masters In postcolonial countries the discourse of social and economic justice is deeply rooted in ecology As a consequence environmental activists from postcolonial nations tend to see any modern policy as a disguised form of neocolonialism or imperial dominance globalization and modernization Since the shocks of imperialism and globalization are most strongly felt in the third world countries most of them being former colonies this edited volume intends to explore texts by South Asian writers examining how these writers and their characters cope with the destruction of the environment This edited volume plans to seek out the writings of epistemological understanding of our environment Moreover the volume would also see a critical entanglement of race class gender culture modernization globalization nation and trans nation etc Furthermore this book will attempt to show how different genres of literature ranging from fiction to non-fiction can bring out inimitable insights into varied understanding of postcolonial and ecocritical studies
