Leila Berg known for her work in children's literature believes that the enjoyment of books and the acquisition of reading and writing is not primarily an academic or a technical skill but grows from a warmly physical and emotional base of shared enjoyment with another human being This book traces the varied ways that babies learn to communicate and discusses the place of books in the lives of different groups in the community It examines the types of books used in school and demonstrates that in many cases books themselves provide the major inhibition to the development of reading through their stilted and often formalistic vocabulary The author's aim is that all children's first experience of reading should be a loving and sensuous one so that they can come to discover the power of books themselves The Idler Jerome Klapka
