would you know how to re create an internal combustion engine put together a microscope get metals out of rock or even how to produce food for yourself Lewis Dartnell proposes that the key to preserving civilization in an apocalyptic scenario is to provide a quickstart guide adapted to cataclysmic circumstances The Knowledge describes many of the modern technologies we employ but first it explains the fundamentals upon which they are built Every piece of technology rests on an enormous support network of other technologies all interlinked and mutually dependent You can t hope to build a radio for example without understanding how to acquire the raw materials it requires as well as generate the electricity needed to run it But Dartnell doesn t just provide specific information for starting over he also reveals the greatest invention of them all the phenomenal knowledge generating machine that is the scientific method itself The Knowledge is a brilliantly original guide to the fundamentals of science and how it built our modern world A Companion to Contemporary Design since 1945

Contemporary Fiction and Christianity Andrew Tate,2010-10-12 This book provides a detailed exploration of the spiritual and religious contexts and subtexts of contemporary fiction The Global Remapping of American Literature Paul Giles,2018-06-12 This book charts how the cartographies of American literature as an institutional category have varied radically across different times and places Arguing that American literature was consolidated as a distinctively nationalist entity only in the wake of the U S Civil War Paul Giles identifies this formation as extending until the beginning of the Reagan presidency in 1981 He contrasts this with the more amorphous boundaries of American culture in the eighteenth century and with ways in which conditions of globalization at the turn of the twenty first century have reconfigured the parameters of the subject In light of these fluctuating conceptions of space Giles suggests new ways of understanding the shifting territory of American literary history ranging from Cotton Mather to David Foster Wallace and from Henry Wadsworth Longfellow to Zora Neale Hurston. Giles considers why European medievalism and Native American prehistory were crucial to classic nineteenth century authors such as Emerson, Hawthorne, and Melville. He discusses how twentieth century technological innovations such as air travel affected representations of the national domain in the texts of F. Scott Fitzgerald and Gertrude Stein. And he analyzes how regional projections of the South and the Pacific Northwest helped to shape the work of writers such as William Gilmore Simms, Jos. Mart, Elizabeth Bishop, and William Gibson. Bringing together literary analysis, political history, and cultural geography, The Global Remapping of American Literature reorients the subject for the transnational era.
