Sharks and People Thomas P. Peschak, 2014-02-27 At once feared and revered sharks have captivated people since our earliest human encounters Children and adults alike stand awed before aquarium shark tanks fascinated by the giant teeth and unnerving eyes And no swim in the ocean is undertaken without a slight shiver of anxiety about the very real and very cinematic dangers of shark bites But our interactions with sharks are not entirely one sided the threats we pose to sharks through fisheries organized hunts and gill nets on coastlines are more deadly and far reaching than any bite In Sharks and People acclaimed wildlife photographer Thomas Peschak presents stunning photographs that capture the relationship between people and sharks around the globe A contributing photographer to National Geographic Peschak is best known for his unusual photographs of sharks his iconic image of a great white shark following a researcher in a small yellow kayak is one of the most recognizable shark photographs in the world The other images gathered here are no less riveting bringing us as close as possible to sharks in the wild Alongside the photographs Sharks and People tells the compelling story of the natural history of sharks Sharks have roamed the oceans for more than four hundred million years and in this time they have never stopped adapting to the ever changing world their unique cartilage skeletons and array of super senses mark them as one of the most evolved groups of animals Scientists have recently discovered that sharks play an important role in balancing the ocean including maintaining the health of coral reefs Yet tens of millions of sharks are killed every year just to fill the demand for shark fin soup alone Today more than sixty species of sharks including hammerhead mako and oceanic white tip sharks are listed as vulnerable or in danger of extinction The need to understand the significant part sharks play in the oceanic ecosystem has never been so urgent and Peschak's photographs bear witness to the thrilling strength and unique attraction of sharks They are certain to enthrall and inspire modern real or imaginary have always been with us and will probably remain with us forever They appear not only in movies and literature but in countless permutations of size shape and materials permeating our daily lives with their silent menace

In a sense humans live in a world replete with sharks not vice versa Thus Richard Ellis sets about chronicling and debunking the myths of sharks throughout history From 18th century art to the phenomena of JAWS the shark has remained the indomitable aggressor of the deep the last demon of humankind The image of the shark and the fear it inspires infiltrates our daily lives with its mythical power and strength But it is not man who should fear the shark Our need to dominate these predators is destroying them and their habitat Through hundreds of full color images Ellis proves the necessity of preserving these majestic creatures As curator of the Ft Lauderdale Museum of Art s exhibition entitled Shark debuting May 2012 Ellis adeptly turns these sleek efficient hunters from monsters of the deep into rare beautiful forces of nature Sharks - are People Too! Leigh Rubin,1982 Oceaning Adam Fish,2024-01-19 Drones are revolutionizing ocean conservation By flying closer and seeing more drones enhance intimate contact between ocean scientists and activists and marine life In the process new dependencies between nature technology and humans emerge and a paradox becomes apparent Can we have a wild ocean whose survival is reliant upon technology In Oceaning Adam Fish answers this question through eight stories of piloting drones to stop the killing of porpoises sharks and seabirds and to check the vitality of whales seals turtles and coral reefs Drone conservation is not the end of nature Instead drone conservation results in an ocean whose flourishing both depends upon and escapes the control of technologies Faulty technology oceanic and atmospheric turbulence political corruption and the inadequacies of basic science serve to foil governance over nature Fish contends that what emerges is an ocean culture a flourishing ocean that is distinct from but exists alongside humanity
