Krishna Moorthi, A. Abdul Raheem, 2012 Rural Development is not a gift given by our administrators to the people It was to be seen as a major transformation of rural society which not only ensures that everybody has basic necessities of life but that decision making process in society is generally participatory The impact of Mass Media on socio economic development has therefore not received as much attention among social scientists as other means of development Mass Media have been considered as potential agencies for the development of people Further television and radio have the power to overcome the literacy barrier and hence their interaction with the illiterates may be higher Consequently Mass Media are very suitable instruments for the rapid development of underdeveloped countries like India where material resources are in short supply and education of people low
