Nursing And Human Rights:

The Human Rights Act Rosie Wilkinson, Helen Caulfield, 2000-11-08 The Human Rights Act came into effect on 2nd October 2000 giving every citizen a clear statement of their rights and responsibilities For public authorities such as the NHS the Act makes it a legal duty to respect and foster the rights of citizens as set out in the European Convention on Human Rights This timely book has been written by nursing related professionals who are nationally recognised for their experience in nursing and its relation to ethics and the law Intended to be of practical use for nurses in their day to day relationships with patients and clients this guide explores the impact of The Human Rights Act on key areas such as health law and ethics patient rights and non discrimination Particular emphasis is placed on the role of the nurse in safeguarding patients rights and several case studies are included to illustrate issues raised by the Act Written for nurses and other healthcare professionals this guide provides an informed overview of the Human Rights Act and its ramifications for healthcare services in the twenty first century

Ethics in Health Care Silvia Angelina Pera, Susara Van Tonder, 2005 Dealing primarily with nursing in South Africa and the particular challenges that the country's nurses encounter this book looks at the ethical questions confronting nurses as well as the moral philosophy behind those considerations Ubuntu the African notion that everyone in a community is responsible for the welfare of its members plays a large part in the moral deliberations of the book as do problems particular to South Africa This second edition is updated with new case studies on the AIDS pandemic as well as new ethical questions stemming from the legalization of abortion in South Africa and the rise in the power of health worker unions

Advocacy and Human Rights Philip Plowden, Kevin Kerrigan, 2002 The Human Rights Act 1998 was fully implemented in October 2000 and since then it has become clear how fundamentally the Act will challenge all aspects of our legal system As Sir Stephen Sedley said in his 2000 Eldon lecture the courts are going to be dependent as never before on the advocates who come before them for knowledgeable and balanced argument about the Convention This book provides advocates with a guide to the preparation and presentation of Convention based arguments before domestic courts and tribunals It analyses recent domestic and Strasbourg case law and sets out points for advocates covering the different issues which may need to be addressed in each area The book shows advocates how to provide courts with structured and effective guidance on the application of the Human Rights Act ensuring that they are able to identify and to promote human rights arguments in advancing their clients case

Patients' Rights, Law and Ethics for Nurses, Second Edition Paul Buka, 2014-07-14 The second edition of this acclaimed text integrates health care law and ethics in relation to patients rights and in the context of everyday nursing and health care practice Focusing on principles of law and including clear outlines of the essential legal precedent the author lays a solid foundation for understanding the intersection of law ethics and the rights of the patient Comprehensive yet pocket sized this is essential reading for nurses midwives and allied health professionals Provides a clear understanding not only of basic legal provisions in health care but also of wider issues relating to human rights Covers topics such as ethical decision making confidentiality laws concerning older people fraud and abuse and employment regulations Uses an easy to read style that conveys key principles in an accessible way Includes thinking points case studies and relevant case law to help link theory to practice Civil Rights for Institutionalized Persons United States. Congress. House. Committee on the Judiciary. Subcommittee on Courts, Civil Liberties, and the Administration of Justice,1977 Civil Rights of Institutionalized Persons United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on the Judiciary. Subcommittee on the Constitution,1977 Towards Human Rights in Residential Care for Older Persons Helen Meenan,Nicola Rees,Israel Doron,2015-07-30 People are leading significantly longer lives than previous generations did and the proportion of older people in the population is growing Residential care for older people will become increasingly necessary as our society ages and we will require more of it At this moment in time the rights of older people receive attention at international and regional levels with the United Nations the Organization of American States and the African Union exploring the possibility of establishing new conventions for the rights of older persons This book explores the rights of older people and their quality of care once they are living in a care home and considers how we can commence the journey towards a human rights framework to ensure decent and dignified care for older people The book takes a comparative approach to present and future challenges facing the care home sector for older people in Africa Kenya the Arab world Egypt Australia China England Israel Japan and the USA An international panel of experts have contributed chapters identifying how their particular society cares for its older and oldest people the extent to which demographic and economic change has placed their system under pressure and the role that residential elder care homes play in their culture The book also explores the extent to which constitutional or other rights form a foundation to the regulatory and legislative structures to residential elder care and it examines the important concept of dignity As a multi regional study of the care of older person from a human rights perspective this book will be of excellent use and interest in particular to students and researchers of family and welfare law long term care social policy social work human rights and elder law Board of Trustees of Southern Illinois University V.
