Gabor Agoston s book contributes to an emerging strand of military history that examines organised violence as a challenge to early modern states their societies and economies His is the first to examine the weapons technology and armaments industries of the Ottoman Empire the only Islamic empire that threatened Europe on its own territory in the age of the Gunpowder Revolution Based on extensive research in the Turkish archives the book affords much insight regarding the early success and subsequent failure of an Islamic empire against European adversaries It demonstrates Ottoman flexibility and the existence of an early modern arms market and information exchange across the cultural divide as well as Ottoman self sufficiency in weapons and arms production well into the eighteenth century Challenging the sweeping statements of Eurocentric and Orientalist scholarship the book disputes the notion of Islamic conservatism the Ottomans supposed technological inferiority and the alleged insufficiencies in production capacity This is a provocative intelligent and penetrating analysis which successfully contends traditional perceptions of Ottoman and Islamic history

Gunpowder, Explosives and the State Brenda J. Buchanan, 2016-12-05 Gunpowder studies are still in their infancy despite the long standing civil and military importance of this explosive since its discovery in China in the mid ninth century AD In this second volume by contributors who meet regularly at symposia of the International Committee for the History of Technology ICOHTEC the research is again rooted in the investigation of the technology of explosives manufacture but the fact that the chapters range in scope from the Old World to the New from sources of raw materials in south east Asia to the complications of manufacture in the West shows that the story is more than the simple one of how an intriguing product was made This volume is the first to develop the implications of the subject not just in the sense of relating it to changing military technologies but in that of seeing the securing of gunpowder supplies as fundamental to the power of the state and imperial pretensions The search for saltpetre for example an essential ingredient of gunpowder became a powerful engine of sea going European trade from the early seventeenth century Smaller states like Venice were unable to form these distant connections and so to sustain a gunpowder army Stronger states like France and Britain were able to do so and became even more powerful as the demand for improved explosives fostered national strengths leading to a development of the sciences especially chemistry in the former case and of manufacturing techniques in the latter

Weapons Law in Western Europe, 1550-2020 Gunner Lind, 2024-12-09 This book is a transnational history of European weapons law that utilizes the law and primary sources to trace the development from early portable firearms to modern day weapons Challenging many conventional assumptions this book establishes that weapons control in the current sense is a new phenomenon Control with possession only became dominant between 1918 and 1939 thereby establishing a high degree of uniformity for the first time Weapons law is old in Western Europe but only as a palette of possible solutions Possession control triumphed as a tool against Communist and Fascist attacks on democracy and remained as an instrument against crime and accidents It is argued that previously the laws on possession furthered rather than hindered ownership For centuries governments sought security by encouraging trusted men to arm themselves rather than disarming the suspect Legislators used a range of carrying restrictions sometimes many but mostly few as a tool against armed crime The author examines attitudes and policies towards power law violence social hierarchy national defence and civic freedom This volume offers historians and social scientists a new perspective on the long term development of Western European states and societies and it will be of value to undergraduate and postgraduate students of history sociology and
