Accelerating Learning Recovery for All Students Margaret Vaughn, Seth A. Parsons, 2023-06-13 Meeting a tremendous need for K-8 schools and educators, this timely book outlines core principles for counteracting the disruptions of the pandemic and recovering from learning loss. The authors present a holistic approach to responsive literacy instruction to support all students' academic and social-emotional growth now and in the years to come. Fundamental areas of learning recovery are addressed: developing schoolwide action plans, partnering with families and communities, building collaborative literacy leadership, assessing for differentiated instruction, planning targeted interventions, and implementing supplemental learning programs. Every chapter includes relevant research findings, clear examples of principles in action, and reflection questions that help educators apply the concepts they have learned.

Sense-Making and Shared Meaning in Language and Literacy Education Sharon Murphy, 2020-07-15 This textbook provides a framework for teaching children's language and literacy and introduces research-based tactics for teachers to use in designing their literacy programs for children. Exploring how sense-making occurs in contemporary literacy practice, Murphy comprehensively covers major topics in literacy, including contemporary multimodal literacy practices, classroom discourse, literacy assessment, language and culture, and teacher knowledge. Organized around themes of talk, reading, and composing, this book comprehensively invites educators to make sense of their own teaching practices while demonstrating the complexities of how children make sense of and represent meaning in today's world. Grounded in research, this text features a wealth of real-world multimodal examples, effective strategies, and teaching tactics to apply to any classroom context. Ideal for literacy courses, preservice teachers, teacher educators, and literacy scholars, this book illustrates how children become literate in contemporary society and how teachers can create the conditions for children to broaden and deepen their sense-making and expressive efforts.

Mackey,Trudi E. Jacobson,2014-04-08 This cutting edge approach to information literacy will help your students grasp an understanding of the critical thinking and reflection required to engage in technology spaces as savvy producers collaborators and sharers Writing Every Day Kellie Buis,Kat Mototsune,2004 Many of today s schools struggle with large class sizes a continually evolving curriculum and a wide diversity in the ability and background of their students How best to build an effective literacy community in this constantly changing environment is an increasingly difficult challenge for teachers new and experienced alike InWriting Every DayKellie Buis demonstrates that sharing stories is a fun and engaging way to motivate children and encourage cooperative learning in K 8 classrooms It proposes students writing letters every day as an efficient effective engaging and fun teaching strategy for organizing language instruction Children s personal stories become the catalyst for language experiences that involve reading writing and all forms of communication Teachers will find novel ways to bridge the gap between the important principles of sharing stories and practical ideas on how these understandings can be translated into classroom practice empower students to deepen and enrich their language skills by sharing their ideas feelings and experiences show students how to begin to make sense of themselves each other and the world create a strong partnership between school and home give children the ability to express themselves and to be heard by others in their community Student samples throughout the book illustrate the power of using their own life experiences to engage children in authentic reading and writing Writing daily letters gives children a stronger voice and engenders feelings of self worth self respect and competence This strategy reaps benefits beyond the language arts curriculum and helps students make connections and recognize patterns in everything that they read write and learn Storytelling in a Culturally Responsive Classroom Laura A. Mitchell,2018-11-02 The authentic storytelling process gives students the opportunity to include their heritage language and culture into the learning process at school Often students separate their heritage language and culture from the school culture They do this in order to survive the complexity of living in dual worlds or perspectives Belenky et al 1986 When teachers integrate the heritage language such as storytelling into the authentic literacy processes students find that their heritage language and culture has value They discover that their teachers encourage the traditional storytelling of their own heritage stories in the classrooms among their classmates This brings the dual perspective of living in two distinct worlds together The culturally responsive teachers help to merge both the home and school culture together through authentic literacy This book describes how culturally responsive teachers learn to navigate between the heritage languages of their students and the dominant language of their curriculum and instruction. They know to ask questions such as "Who are the storytellers in your home and what stories do they tell you?" This form of questioning opens up the thinking process that shows literacy comes in more forms and processes than just a book. As culturally responsive teachers invite different forms of literacy to be shared in the classroom, they bring the authentic lives of storytellers into their classroom. The students can retell the stories that they were told by their storytellers. Through this storytelling process, both the culturally responsive teachers and the students inform them about who they are, how they connect with others, and how they are interdependent on others. Students tell stories that inform them about who they are and how they are connected with others, so they will know that they are human. They can live in a world of possibilities where they are interconnected with literacy and interdependent with each other in order to be human. They are describing what Greene (1995) described as looking into each other's eyes in order to encourage them to tell their stories about who they are and who they hope to be.

Invitations to Literacy, 1997 Collaborative Cross-Cultural Narrative Inquiry Cathy Raymond, 2024-12-26 Collaborative Cross Cultural Narrative Inquiry invites readers to participate in the experience of engaging in and reflecting on the author's collaborative cross-cultural narrative research online with Parvana, an Afghan woman living in Afghanistan until August 2021. Storied reflections along with excerpts from interviews, storied data, doctoral assignments, peer feedback, analytic memos, and more illustrate how ethical practice, vulnerability, and care informed the collaborative exploration of Parvana's life story and her daily multiple literacy practices for navigating Afghan society as an Afghan woman. Each chapter of this book offers reflections on individual elements of our cross-cultural narrative research to give readers an evocative account of our collaborative journey. At the end of each chapter, reflective prompts invite readers to engage in focused practice and explorations as they develop their own meaningful and mindful narrative studies. With its emphasis on research and relationship ethics, self-reflective practice, cultural humility, and creative approaches to analysis and representation, the cross-cultural narrative study at the heart of this textbook also offers readers insights into developing mindful and meaningful cross-cultural narrative research rooted in curiosity, humility, and the imagination. This textbook is suitable for qualitative researchers, professors, students, and others from a wide variety of fields who are interested in teaching, researching, or learning more about designing and engaging in narrative research.
