The Oxford Handbook of Police and Policing Michael Dean Reisig, Robert J. Kane, 2014 The police are perhaps the most visible representation of government They are charged with what has been characterized as an impossible mandate control and prevent crime keep the peace provide public services and do so within the constraints of democratic principles The police are trusted to use deadly force when it is called for and are allowed access to our homes in cases of emergency In fact police departments are one of the few government agencies that can be mobilized by a simple phone call 24 hours a day 7 days a week They are ubiquitous within our society but their actions are often not well understood Racialized Policing Elizabeth Comack, 2012-03-01T00:00:00Z Policing is a controversial subject generating considerable debate One issue of concern has been racial profiling by police that is the alleged practice of targeting individuals and groups on the basis of race Racialized Policing argues that the debate has been limited by its individualized frame As well the concentration on police relations with people of colour means that Aboriginal people's encounters with police receive far less scrutiny Going beyond the interpersonal level and broadening our gaze to explore how race and racism play out in institutional practices and systemic processes this book exposes the ways in which policing is racialized Situating the police in their role as reproducers of order Elizabeth Comack draws on the historical record and contemporary cases of Aboriginal police relations the shooting of J J Harper by a Winnipeg police officer in 1988 the Starlight Tours in Saskatoon and the shooting of Matthew Dumas by a Winnipeg police officer in 2005 as well as interviews conducted with Aboriginal people in Winnipeg's inner city communities to explore how race and racism inform the routine practices of police officers and define the cultural frames of reference that officers adopt in their encounters with Aboriginal people In short having defined Aboriginal people as troublesome police respond with troublesome practices of their own Arguing that resolution requires a fundamental transformation in the structure and organization of policing Racialized Policing makes suggestions for re framing the role of police and the order they reproduce Commerce, Justice, Science, and Related Agencies Appropriations for 2015 United States. Police Power and Race Riots Cathy Lisa Schneider, 2014-07-17 Three weeks after Lyndon Johnson signed the Civil Rights Act of 1964 a New York City police officer shot and killed a fifteen year old black youth inciting the first of almost a decade of black and Latino riots throughout the United States In October 2005 French police chased three black and Arab teenagers into an electrical substation outside Paris culminating in the fatal electrocution of two of them Fires blazed in Parisian suburbs and housing projects throughout France for three consecutive weeks Cathy Lisa Schneider explores the political legal and economic conditions that led to violent confrontations in neighborhoods on opposite sides of the Atlantic half a century apart Police Power and Race Riots traces the history of urban upheaval in New York and greater Paris focusing on the interaction between police and minority youth Schneider shows that riots erupted when elites activated racial boundaries police engaged in racialized violence and racial minorities lacked alternative avenues of redress She also demonstrates how local activists who cut their teeth on the American race riots painstakingly constructed social movement organizations with standard nonviolent repertoires for dealing with police violence These efforts along with the opening of access to courts of law for ethnic and racial minorities have made riots a far less common response to police violence in the United States today Rich in historical and ethnographic detail Police Power and Race Riots offers a compelling account of the processes that fan the flames of urban unrest and the dynamics that subsequently quell the fires The Changing Environment for Policing, 1985-2008 David H. Bayley, 2010 Our thesis is that policing in the mid 1980s was perceived to be in crisis and there was a strong sense that fundamental changes were needed in the way it was delivered In contrast police are considered to be performing well 20 years later by both practitioners and outside observers Crime has been falling for almost 18 years and any new challenges including terrorism appear to be manageable without the invention of new strategies for the delivery of police services Past experience contains the lessons needed for the future In our view this assessment may be mistaken not because existing policies are defective in controlling crime but because the institutions that provide public safety are changing in profound ways that are not being recognized
