Jinnealogy Anand Vivek Taneja, 2017-11-21 In the ruins of a medieval palace in Delhi a unique phenomenon occurs Indians of all castes and creeds meet to socialize and ask the spirits for help The spirits they entreat are Islamic jinns and they write out requests as if petitioning the state At a time when a Hindu right wing government in India is committed to normalizing a view of the past that paints Muslims as oppressors Anand Vivek Taneja's Jinnealogy provides a fresh vision of religion identity and sacrality that runs counter to state sanctioned history The ruin Firoz Shah Kotla is an unusually democratic religious space characterized by freewheeling theological conversations DIY rituals and the sanctification of animals Taneja observes the visitors who come mainly from the Muslim and Dalit neighborhoods of Delhi and uses their conversations and letters to the jinns as an archive of voices so often silenced He finds that their veneration of the jinns recalls pre modern religious traditions in which spiritual experience was inextricably tied to ecological surroundings In this enchanted space Taneja encounters a form of popular Islam that is not a relic of bygone days but a vibrant form of resistance to state repression and post colonial visions of India

Islam and China's Hong Kong Wai-Yip Ho, 2013-06-07 Hong Kong is a global city state under the sovereignty of the People's Republic of China and is home to around 250 000 Muslims practicing Islam However existing studies of the Muslim majority communities in Asia and the Northwest China largely ignore the Muslim community in Hong Kong Islam and China's Hong Kong skillfully fills this gap and investigates how ethnic and Chinese speaking Muslims negotiate their identities and the increasing public attention to Islam in Hong Kong Examining a range of issues and challenges facing Muslims in Hong Kong this book focuses on the three different diasporic Muslim communities and reveals the city state's triple Islamic heritage and distinctive Islamic culture It begins with the transition from the colonial to the post colonial era and explores how this has impacted on the experiences of the Muslim diaspora and the ways this shift has compelled the community to adapt to Chinese nationalism whilst forging greater links with the Gulf Then with reference to the rise of new media and technology the book examines the heightened presence of Islam in the Chinese public sphere alongside the emergence of Chinese Islamic websites which have sought to balance transnational Muslim solidarity and sensitivity towards Chinese government's concern of external extremism Finally it concludes by investigating Hong Kong's growing awareness of the Muslim minorities demands for Islamic religious education and how this links with the city state's aspiration to become the new gateway for Islamic finance Indeed Wai Yip Ho posits that Hong Kong is now shifting from its role as the broker that bridged East and West during the Cold War to that of a new mediator between China and the Middle East Drawing on extensive ethnographic research this book thoughtfully charts a new area of inquiry and as such will be welcomed by students and scholars of Chinese studies Islamic studies Asian studies and ethnicity studies
