Science And Theology Questions At The Interface:

Science and Theology Murray Rae, Hilary Regan, John Stenhouse, 2016-10-06 In popular culture science and theology have often been portrayed as antagonistic. Some writers have described the history of the debate in terms of a surrender by theology, a retreat from the field of engagement; theology has abandoned the public arena, leaving all creation to science and has opted instead for the safer ground of ethics, morality and personal or private belief. Science and Theology advocates a constructive dialogue between the two subjects and suggests the topics where they might meet. The essays in this volume were commissioned from leading figures around the world, experts in their own disciplines but enthusiasts for debate at the science and theology interface. They include Norma Emerton, Owen Gingerich, Nancey Murphy, John Polkinghorne, John Puddefoot and Carver T. Yu. They discuss natural theology, the methodologies of science and theology, and theology in the light of scientific discovery. Their themes cover scientism, divine action in the world, the problem of evil, freedom and determinism, reductionism and humanity, the limits of knowledge and chaos theory. Together these essays offer a significant and positive contribution to one of the most exciting areas of modern thought. Describing the Hand of God Robert Brennan, 2016-04-28

The question of divine agency in the world remains one important unresolved underlying obstacle in the dialogue between theology and science. Modern notions of divine agency are shown to have developed out of the interaction of three factors in early modernity. Two are well known: late medieval perfect being theology and the early modern application of the notion of the two books of God's revelation to the understanding of the natural order. It is argued the third is the early modern appropriation of the Augustinian doctrine of inspiration. This assumes the soul's existence and a particular description of divine agency in humans which became more generally applied to divine agency in nature. Whereas Newton explicitly draws the parallel between divine agency in humans and that in nature, Darwin rejects its supposed perfection and Huxley raises serious questions regarding the traditional understanding of the soul. This book offers an alternative incarnational description of divine agency, freeing consideration of divine agency from being dependent on resolving the complex issues of perfect being theology and the existence of the soul. In conversation with Barth's pneumatology, this proposal is shown to remain theologically coherent and plausible while resolving or avoiding a range of known difficulties in the science-theology dialogue.

The Trinity, Creation and Pastoral Ministry Graham Buxton, 2007-01-01 In this book the author proposes a three-way conversation between theology, science and pastoral ministry. His approach draws on a Trinitarian understanding of God as a relational being of love whose life spills over into all created reality, human and nonhuman. By locating human meaning and purpose within God's creation community, this book offers the possibility of a transforming engagement between those in pastoral ministry and the scientific community. The Leviathan Factor Lawrence E. Burkholder, 2017-01-12 The Leviathan Factor tells the incredible story of how Satan created as Lucifer, the morning star, self-transformed into Leviathan, God's serpentine arch-foe. When he tried to achieve immortality by tweaking creation's lowest level laws, a sophisticated computer automaton he created death instead As the serpent he reappeared in the Genesis tree of good and evil where he seduced humans to attempt immortality apart from covenant with God Leviathan is responsible for the false belief that we each have an inner divine spark which when reconnected to our ego awakens our true inherent divinity Unfortunately he and his demonic spirits also impact our minds bodies and environment as psi A few of the many markers of these demonic psi are levitation telepathy telekinesis deja vu emotional oppressions poltergeist activities past lives memories voices and visions near death and out of body experiences and trance channeling Many of these psi phenomena are co factors in mind disorders such as schizophrenia or epilepsy Manifestations in Christian circles include false tongues and holy laughter The Leviathan Factor is not a healing how to It is the first book to place demonic evil into the context of creation s basic structures and laws
