William Shakespeare Harold Bloom, Sterling Professor of Humanities Harold Bloom,2009 Presents a collection of critical essays on the comedic works of William Shakespeare The Aesthetics of Service in Early Modern England

Elizabeth Rivlin, 2012 In The Aesthetics of Service in Early Modern England Elizabeth Rivlin explores the ways in which servant master relationships reshaped literature The early modern servant is enjoined to obey his or her master out of dutiful love but the servant's duty actually amounts to standing in for the master a move that opens the possibility of becoming master Rivlin shows that service is fundamentally a representational practice in which the servant who acts for a master merges with the servant who acts as a master Rivlin argues that in the early modern period servants found new positions as subjects and authors found new forms of literature Representations of servants and masters became a site of contact between pressing material concerns and evolving aesthetic ones Offering readings of dramas by Shakespeare Jonson and Thomas Dekker and prose fictions by Thomas Deloney and Thomas Nashe Rivlin suggests that these authors discovered their own exciting and unstable projects in the servants they created within Shakespeare Studies presentist scholarship is presented alongside more historically focused studies for example and phenomenological studies of material culture are included along with close readings of texts What the contributors have in common is a refusal to read the work of Shakespeare and his contemporaries either psychologically or materially instead these essays address a willingness to study early modern phenomena like the Elizabethan stage as manifesting an early modern belief in the embodiment of cognition
