La Faim et la Sant? World Food Programme,2012-05-31 First published in 2008 La Faim et la Sant is a valuable contribution to the field of Environment and Sustainability Global Trade, Smuggling, and the Making of Economic Liberalism Felicia Gottmann,2016-05-19 Imported from India China the Levant and Persia and appreciated for their diversity designs fast bright colours and fine weave Asian textiles became so popular in France that in 1686 the state banned their import consumption and imitation A fateful decision This book tells the story of smuggling on a vast scale savvy retailers and rebellious consumers It also reveals how reformers in the French administration itself sponsored a global effort to acquire the technological know how necessary to produce such textiles and how the vitriolic debates surrounding the eventual abolition of the ban were one of the decisive moments in the development of Enlightenment economic liberalism

Hunger and Health United Nations World Food Programme,2012-08-21 Hunger and Health explores the multiple relationships between hunger and poor health and how they affect the growth of individuals physiologically and psychologically constraining the development of nations both socially and economically Examining the profound effect that hunger has on health including disease prevention and treatment it gives special attention to access to quality food and healthcare in particular for the marginalized and poor It also identifies critical junctures in the human life cycle when the benefits of reducing hunger and improving poor health have a profound impact It demonstrates how aligning of hunger and health interventions can offer proven solutions that reach those most in need and contains compelling evidence which confirms that hunger and poor health are solvable problems today It encourages those involved in policy programming and advocacy to take action to address some of the most urgent hunger and health problems Essential reading for anyone concerned about eliminating hunger Published with the UN World Food Programme Progressive Hollywood Ed

Rampell,2005-01-01 With an introduction by Greg Palast author of bestseller The Best Democracy Money Can Buy Progressive Hollywood features Rampell s interviews and interactions with Hollywood luminaries such as producers Jerry Bruckheimer and Robert Greenwald actors Jack Nicholson Rob Reiner Mike Farrell Ed Asner Martin Sheen David Clennon Gore Vidal and Dennis Hopper directors Michael Moore Spike Lee Oliver Stone and Lionel Chetwynd blacklisted screenwriters Bernie Gordon who initiated the 1999 protests against Elia Kazan s lifetime achievement Oscar Bobby Lees who injected dialectical materialism into Abbott and Costello comedies and Norma Barzman author of 2003 s The Red and the Blacklist Women in the Piast Dynasty Grzegorz Pac,2022-03-07 This book analyses the role of women in the Polish Piast dynasty from c 965 to c 1144 It discusses gender expectations and the literary topoi employed to describe rulers wives and daughters as well as showing their importance in religious donations the creation of dynastic memory and naming patterns as well as examining Piast women s involvement in female monasticism Pac takes a comparative approach to these themes analysing Polish sources alongside sources from other areas of early and high medieval Europe El Hambre Y la

Salud Programa Mundial de Alimentos,2008 El hambre y la salud es el resultado del enorme caudal de experiencias prácticas adquiridas durante décadas en la mitigación de los efectos de las emergencias alimentarias y en la búsqueda de soluciones que consigan romper el círculo vicioso de la pobreza y la enfermedad En el informe se ofrecen tanto a los gobiernos como a las organizaciones responsables de las normativas internacionales que deseen alcanzar los objetivos de desarrollo del Milenio recomendaciones bien fundamentadas para la formulación de políticas Estaremos siempre en deuda con los autores de El hambre y la salud y co The End of Desertification? Roy H. Behnke,Michael Mortimore,2016-04-12 The question in the title of this book draws attention to the shortcomings of a concept that has become a political tool of global importance even as the scientific basis for its use grows weaker The concept of desertification it can be argued has ceased to be analytically useful and distorts our understanding of social environmental systems and their resiliency particularly in poor countries with variable rainfall and persistent poverty For better policy and governance we need to reconsider the scientific justification for international attempts to combat desertification Our exploration of these issues begins in the Sahel of West Africa where a series of severe droughts at the end of the 20th century led to the global institutionalization of the idea of desertification It now seems incontrovertible that these droughts were not caused primarily by local land use mismanagement effectively terminating a long standing policy and scientific debate There is now an opportunity to treat this episode as an object lesson in the relationship between science the formation of public opinion and international policy making Looking beyond the Sahel the chapters in this book provide case studies from around the world that examine the use and relevance of the desertification concept Despite an increasingly sophisticated understanding of dryland environments and societies the uses now being made of the desertification concept in parts of Asia exhibit many of the shortcomings of earlier work done in Africa It took scientists more than three decades to transform a perceived desertification crisis in the Sahel into a non event This book is an effort to critically examine that experience and accelerate the learning process in other parts of the world

Turning Point Robert Daniel Tschirgi,2007-08-30 The danger raised by the terrorist threat is real existential and vital to the United States But the attacks on 9 11 have been broadly misunderstood In assessing the meaning and significance of the war on terror Tschirgi raises many issues related to the Middle East and American policy toward that area For example he debunks the entire exceptionalist approach to the Arab world the presumption that Arab societies fail to be fathomed by Western social science While Tschirgi stresses the need for resolving the war on terrorism favorably he also suggests two broad policy recommendations First he argues that while the United States should maintain its firm commitment to Israel's preservation as a Jewish state it has no corresponding duty to support Israeli expansionism U S Israeli relations should proceed on this basis and should be informed by a greater American reliance on principles of international law Second Tschirgi concludes that an American withdrawal from Iraq must be effected as early as possible Tschirgi's provocative thesis is that the attacks of 9 11 were not as unique an event as we commonly believe Rather they were understandable though deplorable human reactions to a combination of factors that fueled the Arab world's marginalization and led to a generalized feeling among the people of that region that the West and particularly the United States posed a mortal threat to their identity. Employing three case studies of marginalized violent conflict: Mexico's Zapatista conflict, Egypt's struggle against the Gama al Islamiyya in Upper Egypt, and Nigeria's fight against the Ogoni people in the Niger Delta, Tschirgi demonstrates the dynamics through which traditional peoples have in modern times opted to wage hopeless struggle against objectively more powerful states. The parallels between the dynamics that informed each of these situations and those marking the international Muslim insurgency against the West are striking, as are the significant differences between the two phenomena. The parallels are found in the mechanics of marginalization and resistance. The differences lie first in the Muslim insurgency's identification of the West as a total enemy and the struggle with it as having a zero-sum nature, and second in the modern terrorists' potential access to lethal means of mass destruction. Both the parallels and differences that mark the two phenomena help deepen a real understanding of the meaning of 9/11.

Liberating Hellenism from the Ottoman Empire Gonda Van Steen, 2010-04-26. Liberating Hellenism from the Ottoman Empire explores two key historical episodes that have generally escaped the notice of modern Greece, the Near East, and their observers alike. In the midst of the highly charged context of West-East confrontation and with fundamental cultural and political issues at stake, these episodes prove to be exciting and important platforms from which to reexamine the age-old conflict. This book reaches beyond the standard sources to dig into the archives for important events that have fallen through the cracks of the study of emerging modern Greece and the Ottoman Empire. These events, in which French travel writing, literary fiction, antiquarianism, and nineteenth-century western and eastern geopolitics merge, invite us to redraw the outlines of mutually dependent Hellenism and Orientalism.

The School Food Revolution Kevin Morgan, Roberta Sonnino, 2013-06-17. The School Food Revolution is an important book that deserves success. Journal of Organic Systems: A great new book that describes how the humble school meal can be considered as a litmus test of government's political commitment to sustainable development. Peter Riggs, Director, Forum on Democracy Trade. The School Food Revolution should be an inspiration for policy makers and for school heads and school canteen operators. Tom Vaclavik, President, Organic Retailers Association. School food suddenly finds itself at the forefront of contemporary debates about healthy eating, social inclusion, ecological sustainability, and local economic development. All around the world, it is becoming clear to experts, parents, educators, practitioners, and policy makers that the school food service has the potential to deliver multiple dividends that would significantly advance the sustainable development agenda at global, national, and local levels. Drawing on new empirical data collected in urban and rural areas of Europe, North America, and Africa, this book offers a timely and original contribution to the school food debate by highlighting the potential of creative public procurement, the power of purchase. The book takes a critical look at the alleged benefits of school food reform, such as lower food miles, the creation of markets for local producers, and new food education initiatives.

that empower consumers by nurturing their capacity to eat healthily To assess the potential of these claims the book compares a variety of sites involved in the school food revolution from rural communities committed to the values of the local to global cities such as London New York and Rome that feed millions of ethnically diverse young people daily The book also examines the UN's new school feeding programme the Home Grown Programme which sees nutritious food as an end in itself as well as a means to meeting the Millennium Development Goals Overall the book examines the theory policy and practice of public food provisioning offering a comparative perspective on the design and delivery of sustainable school food systems The cover illustration is by a Roman child The authors would like to thank the City of Rome Department for School and Educational Policies for permission to reproduce it

Routledge Handbook of Wetlands Alan Dixon, Ian Maddock, 2025-08-29 This handbook provides a comprehensive and interdisciplinary overview of the place value and significance of wetlands presenting perspectives from across the environmental and social sciences Recent decades have witnessed unprecedented global interest in wetlands and the critical role they play in supporting biodiversity and ecosystem services such as carbon storage flood mitigation as well as their direct benefits for people and society that include the provision of food clean water and a range of cultural services This Routledge Handbook of Wetlands brings together a wide range of perspectives from social and environmental disciplines and voices from different wetland stakeholders from the global north and south to present an assessment of our current understanding of wetlands their environmental significance and their place in society and policy A recurring theme of the book is an exploration of how our current knowledge of wetlands that is often fragmented along traditional disciplinary lines can be brought together to enable a more integrated interdisciplinary and social ecological conceptualisation that aligns more closely with real world complex challenges and which offers new directions in wetland management for sustainable development This handbook will be essential reading for students and scholars of wetland management environmental science water resource management conservation ecology environmental humanities and sustainable development

Samuel Beckett's Theatre Katharine Worth, 2001 In this uniquely personal account of Samuel Beckett's theatre Katharine Worth draws on a wealth of remarkable material her own work producing and directing productions of Beckett's plays often with leading actors such as Patrick Magee but also with students the experience of watching other productions her successful adaptation of Beckett's novella Company for the stage and conversations and correspondence with Beckett himself The book focuses on the power that Beckett's theatre has to fascinate us with the ordinary small experiences of life as well as its great mysteries The strange life journeys taken on his stage are seen to be the universal journey the endless story telling about it a process we all engage in The critical discussion highlights the unique fusion on Beckett's stage of cosmic scenery and humorous individualism It takes in at one end influential forerunners such as Maeterlinck Yeats and Dickens and at the other the lively contemporary performances sometimes controversial that testify to the enduring human appeal and magnetism of Beckett's plays and stage fiction the development of insect resistant cultivars of rice maize sorghum and millet cotton rapeseed legumes and fruit crops and highlights strategies for management of insect biotypes that limit the success and durability of insect resistant cultivators in the field. Arthropod pests act as major constraints in the agro ecosystem. It has been estimated that arthropod pests may be destroying around one fifth of the global agricultural production potential every year. Further the losses are considerably higher in the developing tropics of Asia and Africa which are already battling severe food shortage. Integrated pest management (IPM) has emerged as the dominant paradigm for minimizing damage by the insects and non insect pests over the last 50 years. Pest resistant cultivars represent one of the most environmentally benign, economically viable and ecologically sustainable options for utilization in IPM programs. Hundreds of insect resistant cultivars of rice, wheat, maize, sorghum, cotton, sugarcane and other crops have been developed worldwide and are extensively grown for increasing and/or stabilizing crop productivity. The annual economic value of arthropod resistance genes developed in global agriculture has been estimated to be greater than US 2 billion. Despite the impressive achievements and even greater potential in minimizing pest related losses, only a handful of books have been published on the topic of host plant resistance to insects. This book fills this wide gap in the literature on breeding insect resistant crops. It is aimed at plant breeders, entomologists, plant biotechnologists and IPM experts as well as those working on sustainable agriculture and food security.
