Reading Today And Tomorrow:

Reading and the Reader Philip Davis, 2013-10-03 The Literary Agenda is a series of short polemical monographs about the importance of literature and of reading in the wider world and about the state of literary education inside schools and universities The category of the literary has always been contentious What is clear however is how increasingly it is dismissed or is unrecognised as a way of thinking or an arena for thought It is sceptically challenged from within for example by the sometimes rival claims of cultural history contextualized explanation or media studies It is shaken from without by even greater pressures by economic exigency and the severe social attitudes that can follow from it by technological change that may leave the traditional forms of serious human communication looking merely antiquated For just these reasons this is the right time for renewal to start reinvigorated work into the meaning and value of literary reading Reading and the Reader offers a defence of reading serious literature where reading offers a place for inner contemplation emotion imagination and thought experiment through the energising booster rocket of literature It is argued that literature creates a holding ground in which a dense sense of experience is registered Such a place is vital to human well being in the following respects in sustaining the ability to use and not just suffer one's experience to be able to think one's thoughts even those that are customarily unadmitted or felt as anomalous or unworthy to find room for a realm of speculation in between religions and secularization in between literature and life Reading and the Reader one of the first volumes in the Literary Agenda series exists to defend the value of reading to narrow the gaps between the way writers and readers think to bring literary thinking into the ordinary thinking of the world especially at a time when the arts and humanities are under some threat Literature is useful in terms of deep human needs It offers a form of time travel across ages countries different minds that provides alternatives to any conventional worldview
