Reading Women's Lives PCP Editorial Staff, Women's Studies Department Staff, 2000-07-18 Reading Women's Lives is an on demand database publishing program consisting of a wide variety of material on women's studies. The articles and readings included in this database were selected by the Department of Women's Studies at The Ohio State University.

Reading Women's Lives Pearson Custom Publishing, 1998-01-01 Reading women's lives Women's Studies Department Ohio State University, 1999 Includes essays and articles that examine women's roles in society Women and Fitness in American Culture Sarah Hentges, 2013-11-19 This book explores common representations and experiences of American fitness. It takes women's experiences as the center of inquiry toward an understanding of the function of fitness in our lives and in our culture at large. Ranging from 1968 to the present from Jane Fonda to WiiFit from revolution to institutionalization from personal to political and beyond this book considers a broad range of topics from an interdisciplinary perspective: generations, cultural appropriation, community development, choreography, methodology, healing, and social justice. Drawing on her experience as a cultural theorist, educator, and fitness instructor, the author offers critical and creative approaches that reveal the limitations and possibilities of fitness. The book enables readers to think about their own relationship to fitness as well as the more abstract meanings of the term and suggests the idea that fitness has some potential to transform our worlds if we're willing to do the work out. Transnational Women Writers in the Wilmot Coterie, 1798-1840 DR ALEXIS.

WOLF, 2024-10-29 Highlights the centrality of non-canonical middle-ranking women writers to the production of literature and culture in Britain, Ireland, Europe, and Russia in the late eighteenth century. The Irish writers and editors Katherine 1773-1824 and Martha Wilmot 1775-1873 left a unique record of middle-ranking women's literary practices and experiences of travel in the late eighteenth and early nineteenth century. Their manuscripts are notable for their vivid portrayal of the era's political conflicts, capturing a flight from Ireland during the Irish Rebellion 1798, time spent in Paris during the Peace of Amiens 1801-03, and extended residences in Russia during the Napoleonic Wars. However, in their accounts of these key European events, the Wilmots' manuscripts and published work showcase their participation in a startling range of self-educating activities, including travel, writing, biography, antiquarianism, early ethnographic observation, language acquisition, translation practices, and editorial work. Taking an interdisciplinary approach, this book explores the collaborative relationships formed by women participating in cosmopolitan networks beyond the typical locations of the Grand Tour. Across their travels, the sisters met, engaged with, and learned from numerous key women of the time, including Princess Ekaterina Dashkova, Margaret King, Lady Mount Cashell, and Helen Maria Williams. In this first full-length study to focus on the literary and cultural exchanges surrounding the Wilmot sisters, Wolf showcases how manuscript circulation, coterie engagement, and transnational travel provided avenues for women to engage with the intellectual discourses from which they were often excluded. Domesticity and Design in American Women's Lives and Literature Caroline Hellman, 2011-06-06 This book considers the ways Cather Stowe Wharton and Alcott inhabited domestic space and portrayed it in their work Exploring authors who had intriguing and autonomous relationships with home Hellman undertakes a dual treatment of domesticity synthesizing a more complete understanding of the relationships between social history and literary accomplishment

Auto/biography in Canada Julie Rak, 2009-08-02 Auto biography in Canada Critical Directions widens the field of auto biography studies with its sophisticated multidisciplinary perspectives on the theory criticism and practice of self community and representation Rather than considering autobiography and biography as discrete genres with definable properties and rather than focusing on critical approaches the essays explore auto biography as a discourse about identity and representation in the context of numerous disciplinary shifts Auto biography in Canada looks at how life narratives are made in Canada Originating from literary studies history and social work the essays in this collection cover topics that range from queer Canadian autobiography autobiography and autism and newspaper death notices as biography to Canadian autobiography and the Holocaust Grey Owl and authenticity France Thoret and autofiction and a new reading of Stolen Life the collaborative text by Yvonne Johnson and Rudy Wiebe Julie Rak's useful big picture introduction traces the history of auto biography studies in Canada While the contributors chart disciplinary shifts taking place in auto biography studies their essays are also part of the ongoing scholarship that is remaking ways to understand Canada

Introducing a Hermeneutics of Suspicion Jo Henderson-Merrygold, 2024-06-13 A hermeneutics of suspicion challenges cisnormative presuppositions that shape and at times occlude the variations in gender and sex exhibited by key characters in the ancestral narrative of Genesis 12-50 It charts the progression from Paul Ricoeur's hermeneutics of suspicion through liberation feminist and queer approaches Focusing on Derrida's queer and trans hermeneutics Henderson Merrygold then offers a new strategy for reading against fixed binary gender assumptions where a character's sex always matches that assigned at birth The initial case study addresses Sarah who is the proto matriarch of the ancestral narratives in Genesis Masculinities contrast with femininities and Sarah's own agency makes the picture of a consistent gender hard to identify By closely reading the text different facets of Sarah's story emerge to emphasise how much the narrative directs the reader towards a cisnormative reading. However, Henderson Merrygold shows it is not only the images of Sarah as feminine woman and mother that remain visible. The subject of the second case study, Esau, is regularly judged to be a hypermasculine character due to his bodily appearance but repeatedly fails to fulfil the expectations related to that appearance. Though often condemned as a poor example of hypermasculinity, a cispositive reading identifies a richer and more nuanced figure. Attending to Esau's actions, his rejection of the gendered expectations appears intentional, allowing him to settle more comfortably into his own identity. This project advocates for and demonstrates the value of creative interpretations of biblical texts that challenge both malestream and feminist gender assumptions.

Teaching Introduction to Women's Studies Carolyn DiPalma, Barbara S. Winkler, 1999-10-30

This edited collection addresses the institutional context and social issues in which teaching the women's studies introductory course is embedded and provides readers with practical classroom strategies to meet the challenges raised. The collection serves as a resource and preparatory text for all teachers of the course, including experienced teachers, less experienced teachers, new faculty, and graduate student teaching assistants. The collection will also be of interest to educational scholars of feminist and progressive pedagogies and all teachers interested in innovative practices. The contributors discuss the larger political context in which the course has become a central representative of women's studies to a growing, although less feminist-identified, population. Increased enrollments and changes in student population are noted as a result, in part, of the popularity of Introduction to Women's Studies courses in fulfilling GED and diversity requirements. New forms of student resistance in a climate of backlash and changes in course content in response to internal and external challenges are also discussed. Evidence is provided for an emerging paradigm in the conceptualization of the introductory course as a result of challenges to racism, heterosexism, and classism in women's studies voiced by women of color and others in the 1980s and 1990s. Sensationalist charges that women's studies teachers, including those who teach the Introduction to Women's Studies course, are the academic shock troops of a monolithic feminism are challenged and refuted by the collection's contributors who share their struggles to make possible classrooms in which informed dialogue and disagreement are valued.
