Romance

Barbara Fuchs, 2004-09-09 Often derided as an inferior form of literature romance as a literary mode or genre defies satisfactory definition dividing critics scholars and readers alike This useful guidebook traces the myriad transformations of romance from medieval courtly love to Mills and Boon and claims that its elusive and complex nature serves as a touchstone for larger questions of literary and cultural theory such as How does the history of romance as a category force us to rethink the historicization of literary genres What definitions can we provide for our own time to help us recognize and analyze new forms of romance To what extent is the resistance to romance a resistance to the imaginative force of literature The case for romance as a concept is presented clearly and imaginatively arguing that its usefulness to contemporary critics can be maintained if it is regarded as a literary strategy rather than a fixed genre In encouraging the reader to consider the fluidity of literature Romance will be of equal value to all students of historical and comparative literatures and of modern literary forms

Renaissance Romance Dr Nandini Das, 2013-05-28 Romance was criticized for its perceived immorality throughout the Renaissance and even enthusiasts were often forced to acknowledge the shortcomings of its dated narrative conventions Yet despite that general condemnation the striking growth in English fiction in the late sixteenth and early seventeenth centuries is marked by writers who persisted in using this much maligned narrative form In Renaissance Romance Nandini Das examines why the fears and expectations surrounding the old genre of romance resonated with successive new generations at this particular historical juncture Across a range of texts in which romance was adopted by the court by popular print and by women Das shows how the process of realignment and transformation through which the new prose fiction took shape was driven by a generational consciousness that was always inherent in romance In the fiction produced by writers such as Sir Philip Sidney Robert Greene and Lady Mary Wroth the transformative interaction of romance with other emergent forms from the court masque to cartography was determined by specific configurations of social groups drawn along the lines of generational difference What emerged as a result of that interaction radically changed the possibilities of fiction in the period
