Schools In The Middle Developing A Middle Level Orientation:

Schools in the Middle Jack A. McKay, 1995-03-06 This handbook was designed to help school administrators teachers and community members make a successful transition from a junior high school to a middle school The focus is on the process rather than content Chapter 1 provides an example of how one junior high school faculty and administration made the shift to a middle school Chapter 2 reviews the history and current research of middle school reform Principles of change and the dynamics of conflict are reviewed in the third chapter which also presents strategies for responding to the inevitable conflict that change brings Leadership skills and vision building are examined in the fourth chapter and information about monitoring progress and recommendations for sustaining the transition process are presented in chapter 5 Two tables planning guides and worksheets are included Contains a 24 item bibliography and 21 references LMI Jsl Vol 14-N3 JOURNAL OF SCHOOL LEADERSHIP, 2004-05-27 The Journal of School Leadership is broadening the conversation about schools and leadership and is currently accepting manuscripts We welcome manuscripts based on cutting edge research from a wide variety of theoretical perspectives and methodological orientations The editorial team is particularly interested in working with international authors authors from traditionally marginalized populations and in work that is relevant to practitioners around the world Growing numbers of educators and professors look to the six bimonthly issues to deal with problems directly related to contemporary school leadership practice teach courses on school leadership and policy use as a quality reference in writing articles about school leadership and improvement A National Study of Leadership in Middle Level Schools. Volume I Jerry W. Valentine, Donald C. Clark, Donald G. Hackmann, Vicki N. Petzko, 2002 As U S education embarks on a new century and new millennium a middle level of education is firmly entrenched in the organizational and programmatic operations of school systems across the country This study purposefully conducted at the turn of the millennium provides important insights about the progress of middle level education particularly in the last decade The introduction gives a historical perspective on middle schools in the U S the study design a description of the study population and respondents and the organization of the report Chapter 1 provides the context and describes the environment of middle level schooling Chapter 2 lays out the different aspects of leadership and leaders of middle level schools Chapter 3 brings to light the educational programs and instructional practices Chapter 4 gives comprehensive school improvement practices professional development practices and Turning Points recommendations Chapter 5 presents profiles and trends of middle level schools and school leaders An appendix contains the Phase One survey instrument for a national study of leadership in middle level schools Contains 110 references RT Tutorial Distance Learning Alfred Bork, Sigrun Gunnarsdottir, 2012-12-06 Learning is a critical worldwide problem for humans essential to create a peaceful and happy world We have serious problems in learning in both wealthy and poor areas New approaches to learning are needed as the current system may not rise to the new challenges This book proposes a new strategy for learning worldwide and for all ages of students Computer based distance learning would be the major delivery mechanism with very large numbers of students The very frequent interactions between the student and the computer would be like that with a skilled human teacher These interactions would take place in the student s native language in both directions A typical interaction would be a question to a student and a free form student response Both voice and keyboard student input would be possible The learning programs would work with each student until mastery is achieved adapting to the needs of each Students would be active learners The book begins with the problems and goals of learning It considers possible forms of distance learning looking at the variables involved current examples of distance learning and possible future forms including examples from science fiction It then investigates student interactions considering both frequency of interactions and the quality of each interaction Programs developed in the Educational Technology Center at the University of California Irvine illustrate the critical idea of tutorial learning with computers Production of tutorial learning material and costs for a student hour of learning is discussed The book ends with suggestions for future progress Current hardware and software is fully adequate for the tasks described Development of all required learning units is a major activity After this development both better quality of learning and lower costs are very likely Further experimental work is essential to understand the possibilities
