Michael Barber, Duncan Graham, The Practice and Theory of School Improvement David Hopkins, 2008-05-13 ANDY HARGREAVES Department of Teacher Education Curriculum and Instruction Lynch School of Education Boston College MA U S A ANN LIEBERMAN Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching Stanford CA U S A MICHAEL FULLAN Ontario Institute for Studies in Education University of Toronto Canada DAVID HOPKINS Department for Education and Skills London U K This set of four volumes on Educational Change brings together evidence and insights on educational change issues from leading writers and researchers in the field from across the world Many of these writers whose chapters have been specially written for these books have been investigating helping initiate and implementing educational change for most or all of their lengthy careers Others are working on the cutting edge of theory and practice in educational change taking the field in new or even more challenging directions And some are more skeptical about the literature of educational change and the assumptions on which it rests They help us to approach projects of understanding or initiating educational change more deeply reflectively and realistically Educational change and reform have rarely had so much prominence within public policy in so many different places Educational change is ubiquitous It figures large in Presidential and Prime Ministerial speeches It is at or near the top of many National policy agendas Everywhere educational change is not only a policy priority but also major public news Yet action to bring about educational change usually exceeds people s understanding of how to do so effectively Cross Curricular Contexts, Themes And Dimensions In Primary Schools Gajendra K. Verma,2005-06-21 The final volume of four the authors consider how the concerns of ethnic groups may be addressed within the framework of the National Curriculum Despite the indecision surrounding primary school curriculum it remains that the multicultural nature of the population and of schools will develop A Century of Change in Music Education Stephanie Pitts,2019-01-04 Published in 2000 Education in our schools is a constant feature of media headlines often blamed for many of society s ills Perceived throughout the ages as civilizing force music has a fundamental role to play in education yet the last twenty years have seen a consistent erosion of the time and money made available to music teachers in our schools This book is a timely reminder of how we have arrived at the current debates and challenges of music education Stephanie Pitts charts the history of music teaching in British secondary schools over the course of the twentieth century Each chapter looks at a significant period of music education history in which the ideas and practices of a generation were established and refined The main educational publications of each decade are examined from the early by MacPherson Somervell and Yorke Trotter to the more recent thinking of Paynter and Swanwick The shifting perceptions of music in the school curriculum are nowhere better highlighted than in the changing focus on children s engagement with music from the musical appreciation lessons of the 1920 s and 1930 s to the post war concentration on performance and the 1970 s emphasis on improvisation and composition There and many other trends are discussed in the book allowing today s music educators to see their own practice in its historical context National and Transnational Elite Influences on Education Romuald Normand,Leif Moos,Luís Miguel Carvalho,2025-06-28 This collection focuses on transformations in the governance of education paying attention to the transnationalisation of educational policies and the emergence of new actors in education It focuses on the knowledge and instruments of government that shape education systems at different scales of governance The book is a contribution to this field of research focusing on the new roles and responsibilities of elites inside and outside the education state It offers in depth case studies based on an international comparison examining the dynamics at work in the production and circulation of knowledge the interplay of interests and power and the ability of elites to define and lead public action programmes The research and reflections presented in this book will help students researchers practitioners and policy makers to better understand the transformations in decision making at a time of globalisation and nationalism in education Science Education James F Donnelly,Edgar W Jenkins,2001-01-26 Who wants to change school science education and why What mechanisms exist to effect change What implications do they have for teachers professionalism These are the principal questions explored in this book The authors focus on strategies for effecting change including decentralized and statutory mechanisms and the use of systems of assessment The authors question the effectiveness of centralized programmes in improving the quality of students science education They suggest that this arises from a failure to acknowledge the contribution that the science teaching profession must make to reform They argue that sustained and effective change embodying improvements in standards depends upon promoting the initiative
