Travels in the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan. With ... [photographs] by the Author [and an Endpaper Map.] Michael Langley, 1950 No Woman's Country Michael Langley, 1951 Khartoum at Night Marie Grace Brown, 2017-08-22 In the first half of the twentieth century a pioneering generation of young women exited their homes and entered public space marking a new era for women's civic participation in northern Sudan. A provocative new public presence women's civic engagement was at its core a bodily experience. Amid the socio-political upheavals of imperial rule female students, medical workers and activists used a careful choreography of body movements and fashion to adapt to imperial mores, claim opportunities for political agency and shape a new standard of modern mobile womanhood. Khartoum at Night is the first English language history of these women's lives examining how their experiences of the British Empire from 1900-1956 were expressed on and through their bodies. Central to this story is the tobe, a popular modest form of dress that wrapped around a woman's head and body. Marie Grace Brown shows how northern Sudanese women manipulated the tucks, folds and social messages of the tobe to deftly negotiate the competing pulls of modernization and cultural authenticity that defined much of the imperial experience. Her analysis weaves together the threads of women's education and activism, medical midwifery, urban life, consumption and new behaviors of dress and beauty to reconstruct the worlds of politics and pleasure in which early twentieth century Sudanese women lived. Thomas, 2003-08-20 In Thomas's skilled hands and in her unabashed love of story telling, intimate events in Kenya help us think more clearly and more critically about Africa in the twentieth century. The politics of the womb are at the core of the colonial experience and of colonial politics. Africans struggled amongst themselves over the regulation of reproduction and these layers of intimate strife and the policies and protests emanating from London and mission hospitals and African homesteads give us something we haven't had before: a gendered and transnational colonial history.
