Shooting Up Vanda Felbab-Brown, 2009-12-01 Most policymakers see counterinsurgency and counternarcotics policy as two sides of the same coin Stop the flow of drug money the logic goes and the insurgency will wither away But the conventional wisdom is dangerously wrongheaded as Vanda Felbab Brown argues in Shooting Up Counternarcotics campaigns particularly those focused on eradication typically fail to bankrupt belligerent groups that rely on the drug trade for financing Worse they actually strengthen insurgents by increasing their legitimacy and popular support Felbab Brown a leading expert on drug interdiction efforts and counterinsurgency draws on interviews and fieldwork in some of the world's most dangerous regions to explain how belligerent groups have become involved in drug trafficking and related activities including kidnapping extortion and smuggling Shooting Up shows vividly how powerful guerrilla and terrorist organizations including Peru's Shining Path the FARC and the paramilitaries in Colombia and the Taliban in Afghanistan have learned to exploit illicit markets In addition the author explores the interaction between insurgent groups and illicit economies in frequently overlooked settings such as Northern Ireland Turkey and Burma While aggressive efforts to suppress the drug trade typically backfire Shooting Up shows that a laissez faire policy toward illicit crop cultivation can reduce support for the belligerents and critically increase cooperation with government intelligence gathering When combined with interdiction targeting major traffickers this strategy gives policymakers a better chance of winning both the war against the insurgents and the war on drugs Contemporary Documentary Daniel Marcus, Selmin Kara, 2015-10-05 Contemporary Documentary offers a rich survey of the rapidly expanding landscape of documentary film television video and new media The collection of original essays addresses the emerging forms popular genres and innovative approaches of the digital era The anthology highlights geographically and thematically diverse examples of documentaries that have expanded the scope and impact of non fiction cinema and captured the attention of global audiences over the past three decades It also explores the experience of documentary today with its changing dynamics of production collaboration distribution and exhibition and its renewed political and cultural relevance The twelve chapters featuring engaging case studies and written from a wide range of perspectives including film theory social theory ethics new media and experience design invite students to think critically about documentary as a vibrant field unrestricted in its imagination and quick in its response to new forms of filmmaking Offering a methodical exploration of the expansive reach of documentary as a creative force in the media and society of the twenty first century Contemporary Documentary is an ideal collection for students of film media and communication who are studying documentary film
