Expanding American Anthropology, 1945-1980 Alice Beck Kehoe, Paul L. Doughty, 2012-01-06 This book examines American anthropology's participation in the expansion of the social sciences after World War II Anthropology itself expanded into diverse subfields at this time on the initiative of individuals The Association of Senior Anthropologists of the American Anthropological Association AAA asks some of these individuals to give accounts of their personal innovations in this discipline which provides primary source material on the history of American anthropology

The Archaeology of Events Zackary I. Gilmore, Jason M. O'Donoghue, 2015-03-31 These perspectives are applied to a broad range of archaeological contexts stretching across the Southeast and spanning more than 7 000 years of the region's pre Columbian history New data suggest that several of this region's most pivotal historical developments such as the founding of Cahokia the transformation of Moundville from urban center to vacated necropolis and the construction of Poverty Point's Mound A were not protracted incremental processes but rather watershed moments that significantly altered the long term trajectories of indigenous Southeastern societies In addition to exceptional occurrences that impacted entire communities or peoples Southeastern archaeologists are increasingly recognizing the historical importance of localized everyday events such as building a house crafting a pot or depositing shell

Regnier, Scott W. Hammerstedt, Sheila Bobalik Savage, 2019-08-27 Revisits and updates WPA funded archaeological research on key Oklahoma mound sites As part of Great Depression relief projects started in the 1930s the Works Progress Administration WPA sponsored massive archaeological projects across Oklahoma The WPA crews excavated eight mound sites and dozens of nonmound residential sites in the Arkansas River Valley that date between AD 1000 and 1450 These sites are considered the westernmost representations of Mississippian culture in the Southeast The results of these excavations were documented in field journals and photographs prepared by the field supervisors and submitted in a series of quarterly reports to WPA headquarters These reports contain a wealth of unpublished information summarizing excavations at the mound sites and residential sites including mound profiles burial descriptions house maps artifact tables and artifact sketches Of the excavated mound sites results from only one Spiro have been extensively studied and synthesized in academic literature The seven additional WPA excavated mound sites Norman Hughes Brackett Eufaula Skidgel Reed and Lillie Creek are known to archaeologists outside of Oklahoma only as unlabeled points on maps of mound sites in the Southeast The Ritual Landscape of Late Precontact Eastern Oklahoma curates and contextualizes the results of the WPA excavations showing how they inform archaeological understanding of Mississippian occupation in the Arkansas Valley Regnier Hammerstedt and Savage also relate the history and experiences of practicing archaeology in the 1930s incorporating colorful excerpts from field journals of the young inexperienced archaeologists Finally the authors update current knowledge of mound and nonmound sites in the region providing an excellent example of historical archaeology Killarney Bay David S. Brose, Patrick Julig, John M. O'Shea, 2021-11-16 The archaeological site at Killarney Bay on the northeast side of Georgian Bay in Ontario Canada has attracted and mystified archaeologists for decades The quantities of copper artifacts exotic cherts and long distance trade goods all highlight the importance of the site during its time of occupation Yet researchers have struggled to date the site or assign it to a particular cultural tradition since the artifacts and mortuary components do not precisely match those of other sites and assemblages in the Upper Great Lakes The history of archaeological investigation at Killarney Bay stretches across parts of three centuries and involves field schools from universities in two countries Laurentian University in Canada and the University of Michigan in the United States This volume pulls together the results from all prior research at the site and represents the first comprehensive report ever published on the excavations and finds at Killarney Bay Heavily illustrated Mississippi Archaeology, 2001 Measuring Time with Artifacts R. Ford, James B. Griffin, 2003-10-08 Documents prehistoric human occupation along the lower reaches of the Mississippi River A Dan Josselyn Memorial Publication The Lower Mississippi Survey was initiated in 1939 as a joint undertaking of three institutions the School of Geology at Louisiana State University the Museum of Anthropology at the University of Michigan and the Peabody Museum at Harvard Fieldwork began in 1940 but was halted during the war years When fieldwork resumed in 1946 James Ford had joined the American Museum of Natural History which assumed co sponsorship from LSU The purpose of the Lower Mississippi Survey LMS a term used to identify both the fieldwork and the resultant volume was to investigate the northern two thirds of the alluvial valley of the lower Mississippi River roughly from the mouth of the Ohio River to Vicksburg This area covers about 350 miles and had been long regarded as one of the principal hot spots in eastern North American archaeology Phillips Ford and Griffin surveyed over 12 000 square miles identified 382 archaeological sites and analyzed over 350 000 potsherds in order to define ceramic typologies and establish a number of cultural periods The commitment of these scholars to developing a coherent understanding of the archaeology of the area as well as their mutual respect for one another enabled the publication of what is now commonly considered the bible of southeastern archaeology
