Hollywood's Melodramatic Imagination Geoff Mayer, 2021-12-22

Melodrama is the foundation of American cinema. It is however a poorly understood term. While it is a pervasive and persuasive dramatic mode, it is not tied to any specific moral or ideological system. It is not a singular genre; rather, it operates as a genre-generating machine capable of determining the aesthetics and structure of the drama within many genres. Melodrama centers the conflict around the clash between good and evil and provides a sense of poetic justice, but the specific values embedded in notions of good and evil are determined by the culture and they shift from nation to nation, region to region, and period to period. This book explores the populist westerns of the 1930s, the propaganda films that followed the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, and the popularity of Sax Rohmer's master villain Fu Manchu. Melodramas of passion and film noir also offer a challenge to melodrama with its seemingly alienated protagonists and downbeat endings. Yet with few exceptions, Hollywood was able to assimilate these genres within its melodramatic imagination.

The Birth of Death and Other Comedies Tom Whalen, 2011. Russell H. Greenan's It Happened in Boston is one of the most radical narratives to appear in the late 1960s; this is a book that encompasses everything, as David L. Ulin noted in Bookforum. Yet due in large part to the difficulty of classifying Greenan's fiction, many readers are unaware of his other novels. In The Birth of Death and Other Comedies: The Novels of Russell H. Greenan, Tom Whalen, drawing widely from the American literary tradition, locates Greenan's lineage in the work of Hawthorne and Poe, where allegory and dream mingle with and illuminate realism, as well as in the fiction of Twain, West, Hammett, Cain, and Thompson. Examining Greenan's characteristic themes and strategies, Whalen provides perceptive readings of the dark comedies of this criminally neglected American master and, in a coda, reflects on Greenan's career and the reception of his work.

Revolution in 35mm Andrew Nette, Sam Deighan, 2024-09-24. Revolution in 35mm: Political Violence and Resistance in Cinema from the Arthouse to the Grindhouse, 1960-1990 examines how political violence and resistance was represented in arthouse and cult films from 1960 to 1990. This historical period spans the Algerian war of independence and the early wave of post-colonial struggles that reshaped the Global South through the collapse of Soviet Communism in the late 80s. It focuses on films related to the rise of protest movements by students, workers, and leftist groups, as well as broader countercultural movements: Black Power, the rise of feminism, and so on. The book also includes films that explore the splinter groups that engaged in violent urban guerrilla struggles throughout the 1970s and 1980s, as the promise of widespread radical social transformation failed to materialize: the Weathermen, the Black Liberation Army, and the Symbionese Liberation Army in the United States; the Red Army Faction in West Germany; and Japan and Italy's Red Brigades. Many of these movements were deeply connected with and expressed their values through art, literature, popular culture, and of course, cinema. Twelve authors, including academics and well-known film critics, deliver a diverse examination of how filmmakers around the world reacted to the political violence and resistance movements of the period and how this was expressed on screen This includes looking at the financing distribution and screening of these films audience and critical reaction the attempted censorship or suppression of much of this work and how directors and producers eluded these restrictions Including over two hundred illustrations the book examines filmmaking movements like the French Japanese German and Yugoslavian New Waves subgenres like spaghetti westerns Italian poliziotteschi Blaxploitation and mondo movies and films that reflect the values of specific movements like feminists Vietnam War protesters and Black militants The work of influential and well known political filmmakers such as Costa Gavras Gillo Pontecorvo and Glauber Rocha is examined side by side with grindhouse cinema and lesser known titles by a host of all but forgotten filmmakers including many from the Global South that are deserving of rediscovery

Monsters in the Closet Harry M. Benshoff, 1997-11-15 Monster in the Closet is a history of the horror film that explores the genre's relationship to the social and cultural history of homosexuality in America Drawing on a wide variety of films and primary source materials including censorship files critical reviews promotional materials fanzines men's magazines and popular news weeklies the book examines the historical figure of the movie monster in relation to various medical psychological religious and social models of homosexuality While recent work within gay and lesbian studies has explored how the genetic tropes of the horror film intersect with popular culture's understanding of queerness this is the first book to examine how the concept of the monster queer has evolved from era to era From the gay and lesbian sensibilities encoded into the form and content of the classical Hollywood horror film to recent films which play upon AIDS related fears Monster in the Closet examines how the horror film started and continues to demonize or quite literally monsterize queer sexuality and what the pleasures and costs of such representations might be both for individual spectators and culture at large
