The Classical Hollywood Reader Steve Neale,2012-11-12 The Classical Hollywood Reader brings together essential readings to provide a history of Hollywood from the 1910s to the mid 1960s Following on from a Prologue that discusses the aesthetic characteristics of Classical Hollywood films Part 1 covers the period between the 1910s and the mid to late 1920s It deals with the advent of feature length films in the US and the growing national and international dominance of the companies responsible for their production distribution and exhibition In doing so it also deals with film making practices aspects of style the changing roles played by women in an increasingly business oriented environment and the different audiences in the US for which Hollywood sought to cater Part 2 covers the period between the coming of sound in the mid 1920s and the beginnings of the demise of the studio system in late 1940s In doing so it deals with the impact of sound on films and film production in the US and Europe the subsequent impact of the Depression and World War II on the industry and its audiences the growth of unions and the roles played by production managers and film stars at the height of the studio era Part 3 deals with aspects of style censorship technology and film production It includes articles on the Production Code music and sound cinematography and the often neglected topic of animation Part 4 covers the period between 1946 and 1966 It deals with the demise of the studio system and the advent of independent production In an era of demographic and social change it looks at the growth of drive in theatres the impact of television the advent of new technologies the increasing importance of international markets the Hollywood blacklist the rise in art house imports and in overseas production and the eventual demise of the Production Code Designed especially for courses on Hollywood Cinema the Reader includes a number of newly researched and written chapters and a series of introductions to each of its parts It concludes with an epilogue a list of resources for further research and an extensive bibliography

Significant Others Richard Handler,2004-06-15 Anthropology is by definition about others but in this volume the phrase refers not to members of observed cultures but to significant others spouses lovers and others with whom anthropologists have deep relationships that are both personal and professional The essays in this volume look at the roles of these spouses and partners of anthropologists over the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries especially their work as they accompanied the anthropologists in the field Other relationships discussed include those between anthropologists and informants mentors and students cohorts and partners and parents and children The book closes with a look at gender roles in the field demonstrated by the marriage in the late nineteenth century of the male Anthropological Society of Washington to the Women s Anthropological Society of America Revealing relationships that were simultaneously deeply personal and professionally important these essays bring a new depth of insight to the history of anthropology as a social science and human endeavor

Inga Scott Farris,2016-10-30 Inga Arvad was the great love of President John F Kennedy s life and also

Adolf Hitler's special guest at the 1936 Berlin Olympics. She was an actress, a foreign correspondent, a popular Washington columnist, an explorer who lived among a tribe of headhunters, one of Hollywood's most influential gossip columnists, and a suspected Nazi spy. The latter nearly got Kennedy cashiered out of the Navy but instead set in motion the chain of events that led to him becoming a war hero. Inga lived where gossip intersects with history, and her story as told by author Scott Farris in Inga is a rollicking story that demonstrates how private lives influence public events. It is also a Hitchcockian tale of how difficult it can be to prove innocence when unjustly accused and how, as Inga phrased it, what was once a halo can slip down and become a hangman's noose. In addition to her romance with Kennedy and the attention of Hitler, Arvad married three times: to an Egyptian diplomat who insisted they never had divorced the brilliant filmmaker Paul Fejos (whom Charlie Chaplin considered a genius) and the famed cowboy movie star Tim McCoy. She also had affairs with noted surgeon Dr. William Cahan, the prolific writer John Gunther, and Winston Churchill's right-hand man, Baron Robert Boothby. She was pursued by Wall Street financier Bernard Baruch and Swedish industrialist Axel Wenner-Gren, reputedly the richest man in the world at the time, who offered her 1 million to have his child. Inga was Miss Denmark of 1931, but by all accounts, her admirers among the European and American elite loved Inga not for her physical beauty alone but for her joie de vivre. She was a genius with people; she was daring and adventurous, and she was their equal in intellect. Like Isak Dinesen and Clare Boothe Luce, Inga Arvad led a life that both sheds light on and defies the stereotypes of women of her time.

The Most Typical Avant-Garde
David E. James, 2005-05-30. Los Angeles has nourished a dazzling array of independent cinemas: avant-garde and art cinema, ethnic and industrial films. This panoramic history of film production outside the commercial studio system reconfigures Los Angeles rather than New York as the true centre of avant-garde cinema in the US.

Hollywood Destinies Graham Petrie, 2002. Originally published in 1986, Hollywood Destinies was the first full-length detailed study of the careers of major European filmmakers including Ernst Lubitsch, F.W. Murnau, Victor Sjöström, and Mauritz Stiller, all of whom left their native countries to work in Hollywood during the 1920s. This edition contains recent scholarship on the reception of foreign films and directors in America in the 1920s, analyzes films that were not previously available, and includes a revised and updated bibliography.
