Implementation of Article 12 of the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (CRPD) Maciej

Domański,Bogusław Lackoroński,2023-11-30 This book examines the implications of Article 12 of the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities CRPD its resulting standard of protection for persons with disabilities and the way it is understood and implemented in its diverse signatory states Its overarching theme is to assess the impact of CRPD Article 12 on the private law concept of legal capacity and its limitations the significance of which carries over into the realm of penal law regulations Its impact is analysed primarily from the legal point of view but with due regard for its psychological and psychiatric ramifications Recognising the importance of these disciplines is important when implementing CRPD Article 12 into domestic law as they contribute to the determinants in creating a qualificatory legal framework for all persons with disabilities in particular to exercise their rights to legal capacity without let or hindrance As active legal capacity is a notion rooted in and coming from private law this forms the main research perspective The first section discusses the foundational concepts constituting the CRPD Article 12 standard from domestic private law and international law perspectives The work shows that the concepts adopted in private law interact with the protection of persons with disabilities as victims provided for in criminal law In addition where relevant authors also look at public law institutions that are connected with the private law solutions The volume will be an essential reference for academics researchers and policy makers working in the areas of private law criminal law mental health law human rights discrimination law as well as psychology and psychiatry

Psychological and Behavioral Aspects of Physical Disability James E. Lindemann,2012-12-06 A relationship between the disciplines of psychology and medicine is evident in writings from the beginnings of recorded history This inter action was characterized in some epochs by mutual interest and support only to be followed by periods of relative disinterest During the past century there have been several formal attempts to acknowledge this interdependence and to revive and codify on a more permanent basis the working relationships between practitioners and scientists from both psychology and medicine These twentieth century waves of interest which have also come and gone have been identified by such names as psychosomatic medicine and rehabilitation psychology For a variety of reasons notably the lack of a sufficient knowledge base in either discipline the desired partnership has not come to full flower This state of affairs seems to be changing as we enter the last two decades of the twentieth century In the American Psychologist in September 1980 I reviewed recent developments in psychology and in medicine and in federal and private funding patterns which give evidence of revitalizing this partnership between these two disciplines and their relevant subspecialties For example after six decades of spectacular biomedical scientific advances which have all but eradicated such life threatening diseases as polio myelitis and tuberculosis leaders in medicine the behavioral sciences and other segments of society reached a consensus during the 1970s that the behavior of the individual is one of today's unexplored frontiers for modern medical practice and related good health care

The Health and Social Needs of Young Adults with Physical Disabilities Andrew Thomas, Martin Bax, Diane Smyth, 1989 This book addresses a topic that has received surprisingly little attention to date the health and social needs of young adults with physical disabilities Following an extensive review of the contemporary literature on the subject the authors report an in depth study on a large sample of physically disabled 18 to 25 year olds living in two survey areas one urban and one semirural The study which included pediatric examinations and interviews by a social psychologist found that a large proportion of subjects face social and medical problems for instance They have serious health needs that are not being met by the statutory services they left school with less than adequate skills to enable them to lead an independent adult life they are without a daytime occupation or attend day centers that are described as unstimulating places they do not receive all the financial benefits to which they are entitled they are isolated from their peers and lack the social skills to interact with others in a positive and successful way Parents and guardians were also found to receive little physical or emotional support These findings underline the need for a better system of providing and coordinating services for this client group and the authors call for the formation within each local health authority area of an Adult Disability Service that would have a clinical and planning role in terms of health care and that would act as a linchpin in the coordination of health educational social and voluntary services Although this work relates specifically to service provision in the United Kingdom it is felt that the conclusions and recommendations are also broadly applicable to the situation in other countries

Encyclopedia of Adolescence Roger J.R. Levesque, 2014-07-08 The Encyclopedia of Adolescence breaks new ground as an important central resource for the study of adolescence Comprehensive in breath and textbook in depth the Encyclopedia of Adolescence with entries presented in easy to access A to Z format serves as a reference repository of knowledge in the field as well as a frequently updated conduit of new knowledge long before such information trickles down from research to standard textbooks By making full use of Springer's print and online flexibility the Encyclopedia is at the forefront of efforts to advance the field by pushing and creating new boundaries and areas of study that further our understanding of adolescents and their place in society Substantively the Encyclopedia draws from four major areas of research relating to adolescence The first broad area includes research relating to Self Identity and Development in Adolescence This area covers research relating to identity from early adolescence through emerging adulthood basic aspects of development e.g biological cognitive social and foundational developmental theories In addition this area focuses on various types of identity gender sexual civic moral political racial spiritual religious and so forth The second broad area centers on Adolescents Social and Personal Relationships This area of research examines the nature and influence of a variety of important relationships including family peer friends sexual and romantic as well as significant nonparental adults The third area examines

Adolescents in Social Institutions This area of research centers on the influence and nature of important institutions that serve as the socializing contexts for adolescents These major institutions include schools religious groups justice systems medical fields cultural contexts media legal systems economic structures and youth organizations Adolescent Mental Health constitutes the last major area of research This broad area of research focuses on the wide variety of human thoughts actions and behaviors relating to mental health from psychopathology to thriving Major topic examples include deviance violence crime pathology DSM normalcy risk victimization disabilities flow and positive youth development Health Operations

Gargiulo,2014-07-09 Grounded in research and expanding on current trends and contemporary issues the new edition of Gargiulo s text provides an easy to read introduction to special education Special Education in Contemporary Society, 4e □ Media Edition Richard M. Gargiulo,2011-08-26 In the Fourth Edition Media Update of Special Education in Contemporary Society author Richard Gargiulo provides a highly readable and research based introduction to special education This book is based on the author s belief that teachers need more than just academic knowledge about exceptionality they need an awareness and understanding of the human side of students with special needs and their families The Fourth Edition Media Update can be packaged with an Interactive eBook that offers new video clips of educators parents and individuals with special needs talking about their experiences Icons appear throughout the Media Update linking the book to the interactive eBook features Handbook of Neurological Rehabilitation Richard J. Greenwood,Thomas M. McMillan,Michael P. Barnes,Christopher D. Ward,2005-08-16 Changes in the focus of neurological practice worldwide have led to the need for new standard texts that reflect the current state of this expanding area of clinical expertise The second edition of the Handbook of Neurological Rehabilitation is a major reference source that fulfils this need providing an invaluable resource for all professions that work with patients suffering from neurological disorders It brings restorative neurology to the bedside and shows how a reiterative goal oriented problem solving training programme can benefit patients sometimes on a scale not achieved by pharmacological or surgical interventions The book is divided into three sections all of which have been updated Section One explores the clinical and biological principles underpinning rehabilitation practice in the context of neurological disablement Section Two describes the assessment treatment and management of the major physical cognitive and behavioural impairments and the resulting functional deficits that may follow or accompany neurological disease The final section explores in more detail these problems and their management in relation to the more common specific disorders of the nervous system The text emphasises the fact that rehabilitation is an ongoing process involving multidisciplinary problem solving goal setting and education in which organised care is more effective than unorganised care and the breakdown of professional barriers within rehabilitation to facilitate the use of combined treatment techniques improves outcome It describes the contribution made by neural reorganisation and compensatory mechanisms to recovery of function focuses on the avoidance of secondary deficit and explores the physical cognitive affective and behavioural problems that may occur after neurological damage At a time when new medical technologies threaten to fragment the integrity of medical care at individual and societal levels it is crucial that all those involved in the management of chronic neurological disease have a working knowledge of the contents of this book Their perspective on clinical practice will then be truly integrated and holistic and their patients will benefit accordingly Traumatic Brain Injury Farid Sadaka, 2014-02-19 Traumatic brain injury is a major source of death and severe disability worldwide This book provides an excellent and detailed overview of the management of patients with traumatic brain injury in a stepwise approach from the intensive care unit through to discharge from the hospital rehabilitation recovery and assimilation in family and society This book also discusses mechanisms of pathophysiology pertaining to traumatic brain injury and provides grounds for future research in traumatic brain injury especially pertaining to pathophysiology imaging neuroprognostication rehabilitation recovery and outcomes Early Therapeutic, Social and Vocational Problems in the Rehabilitation of Persons with Spinal Cord Injuries Marian Weiss, 2013-06-29 Dr Marian Weiss textbook reviewing the etiology pathophysiology philosophy and conservative vs surgical management of spinal and spinal cord injury is a significant contribution to the world literature The remarks which follow are intended to serve the reader as a surgeon's thumb nail sketch of the text's contents along with brief comments on areas of agreement or mild variance of the opinions expressed Dr Weiss' statement that the average surgical team often becomes more emotionally involved with the good or doubtful prognosis case at the expense of the victim with a hopeless prognosis is totally valid The percentage number of surgical spinal cases are insignificant when compared with the number of surgical admissions As a result little appropriate knowledge is amassed by the average surgeon to allow for competence or confidence in the management of the spinal injured patient's total problems The opinion is correct that spinal trauma should be managed in Spinal Injury Centers where access to the entire array of specialists required by quadriplegic or paraplegic victims is available Such comprehensive programs are most appropriately affiliated with University Medical Centers Chronic Physical Illness: Self-Management And Behavioural Interventions Newman, Stanton, Steed, Elizabeth, Mulligan, Kathleen, 2008-12-01 Nursing Special Education in Contemporary Society Richard M. Gargiulo - Professor Emeritus, Emily C. Bouck, 2020-01-07 Special Education in Contemporary Society An Introduction to Exceptionality offers a comprehensive engaging and readable introduction to the dynamic field of special education Grounded in research and updated to reflect the most current thinking and standards of the field this book provides students with the knowledge skills attitudes and beliefs that are crucial to constructing learning environments that allow all students to reach their full potential Authors Richard M

Gargiulo and Emily C Bouck encourage a deep awareness and understanding of the human side of special education providing students with a look into the lives of exceptional students and their families as well as the teachers that work with exceptional persons throughout their lives The Seventh Edition maintains the broad context and research focus for which the book is known while expanding on current trends and contemporary issues to better serve both pre service and in service teachers of exceptional individuals This title is accompanied by a complete teaching and learning package Uneasy Transitions Jenny Corbett, 2017-09-14 Originally published in 1990 this title offers a range of perspectives from practitioners administrators and researchers examining personal experiences of disaffection in students and staff within the context of national political social and economic change The transitions include moves into employment training of continued education Expressions of unease and disquiet are set clearly within the political context of marginalized status for minority groups highlighting issues relating to disability gender class and race in which the process of transition has been impeded through discriminating practices The book includes reflections from practitioners offering coping strategies and flexible approaches and responses from administrators indicating their awareness of the need to support practitioners during the process of change
