The Company They Kept Lara Putnam, 2003-11-03 In the late nineteenth century migrants from Jamaica Colombia Barbados and beyond poured into Caribbean Central America building railroads digging canals selling meals and farming homesteads On the rain forested shores of Costa Rica U S entrepreneurs and others established vast banana plantations Over the next half century short lived export booms drew tens of thousands of migrants to the region In Port Limón birthplace of the United Fruit Company a single building might house a Russian seamstress a Martinican madam a Cuban doctor and a Chinese barkeep together with stevedores laundresses and laborers from across the Caribbean Tracing the changing contours of gender kinship and community in Costa Rica's plantation region Lara Putnam explores new questions about the work of caring for children and men and how it fit into the export economy the role of kinship as well as cash in structuring labor the social networks that shaped migrants lives and the impact of ideas about race and sex on the exercise of power Based on sources that range from handwritten autobiographies to judicial transcripts and addressing topics from intimacy between prostitutes to insults between neighbors the book illuminates the connections between political economy popular culture and everyday life

Economic Ethics and Chinese Culture Xuanmeng Yu,1997

Gender, Catholicism, and Morality in Brazil M.

Mayblin,2010-03-29 Through the ethnography of a Catholic community in Northeast Brazil Maya Mayblin offers a vivid and provocative rethink of gendered portrayals of Catholic life For the residents of Santa Lucia life is conceptualized as a series of moral tradeoffs between the sinful and productive world against an idealized state of innocence conceived with reference to local Catholic teachings As marriage marks the beginning of a productive life in the world it also marks a phase in which moral personhood comes most actively and poignantly to the fore This book offers lucid observations on how men and women as husbands and wives fathers and mothers negotiate this challenge As well as making an important contribution to the ethnographic literature on morality Christianity and Latin America the book offers a compelling alternative to received portrayals of gender polarity as symbolically all encompassing throughout the Catholic world

Promoting Young

People's Sexual Health Roger Ingham,Peter Aggleton,2006-09-27 Valuable contributions on different aspects of sexual and reproductive health among young people are presented in this book with a focus on developing country contexts Key discussions on issues relating to young people and their sexual activities are brought together in one volume exploring how these issues are affected by the wider contexts in which they live The interdisciplinary team of contributors examine the practical and ideological barriers that inhibit progress in the development of educational and service level improvement of young people's sexual health as well as presenting examples of efforts made to overcome such difficulties Promoting Young People's Sexual Health looks to the future proposing ways forward in terms of policy and legislative changes necessary for long term improvements in young people's sexual health

The Archaeology of Identities

Timothy Insoll,2007-01-24 The Archaeology of Identities brings together seventeen seminal articles from this exciting new discipline in one indispensable volume for the first time Editor Timothy Insoll expertly selects a cross section of contributions by leading authorities to form a comprehensive and balanced representation of approaches and interests Issues covered include gender and sexuality ethnicity nationalism and caste age ideology disability Chapters are thematically arranged and are contextualized with lucid summaries and an introductory chapter providing an accessible introduction to the varied selection of case studies included and archaeological materials considered from global sources The study of identity is increasingly recognized as a fundamental division of archaeological enquiry and has recently become the focus of a variety of new and challenging developments. As such, this volume will fast become the definitive sourcebook in archaeology of identities, making it essential reading for students, lecturers and researchers in the field.

Mobility, Markets and Indigenous Socialities Cecilie Vindal Ødegaard, 2016-04-15 Exploring how people from Andean communities seek progress and social mobility by moving to the cities, Cecilie Ødegaard demonstrates the changing significance of kinship reciprocity and ritual in an urban context. Through a focus on people's involvement in land occupations and local associations, labour and trade, Ødegaard examines the dialectics between popular practices and neoliberal state policies in processes of urbanization. The making and unmaking of notions of the Indigenous communal work and gender is central in this analysis and is discussed against the historical backdrop of the land occupations in Peruvian cities since the 1930s. Through its close ethnographic description of everyday life in a new urban neighbourhood, this book reveals how social and spatial categories and boundaries are continually negotiated in people's quest for mobility and progress. Cecilie Ødegaard argues that conventional meanings of prosperity and progress are significantly altered in interaction with Andean understandings of reciprocity. By combining a unique ethnographic account with original theoretical arguments, the book provides new insight into the cultural, cosmological and political dimensions of mobility, progress and market participation.

Media and Violence Karen Boyle, 2004-11-16 Media and Violence pays equal attention to the production, content and reception involved in any representation of violence. This book offers a framework for understanding how violence is represented and consumed. It examines the relationship of media, gender and real-world violence. Representations of violence in screen entertainment: The effects of violent media on consumers. The ethics and gender politics of the production processes of screen violence. The discussions are illustrated with topical and well-known examples, enabling the reader to critically engage with the debates. The book includes chapter outlines, key questions for discussion, further reading lists, glossary, appendix of summaries of criminal cases discussed. It will be relevant for students of Media and Cultural Studies, Criminology, Gender Studies and Psychology.

The Corner of the Living Miguel La Serna, 2012-03-12 Peru's indigenous peoples played a key role in the tortured tale of Shining Path guerrillas from the 1960s through the first decade of the twenty-first century. The villagers of Chuschi and Huaychao high in the mountains of the department of Ayacucho have an iconic place in this violent history. Emphasizing the years leading up to the peak period of violence from 1980 to 2000, when 69,000 people lost their lives, Miguel La Serna asks why some Andean peasants chose to embrace Shining Path ideology and others did not. Drawing on archival materials and ethnographic fieldwork, La Serna argues that historically rooted and locally specific power relations, social conflicts and cultural understandings shaped the responses of indigenous peasants to the insurgency. In Chuschi, the guerrillas found indigenous support for the movement and dreamed of sparking a worldwide Maoist revolution. In Huaychao, by contrast, villagers rose up against Shining Path forces precipitating more violence and feeding an international uproar that took on political significance for Peru during the Cold War The Corner of the Living illuminates both the stark realities of life for the rural poor everywhere and why they may or may not choose to mobilize around a revolutionary cause
