Settlement Ecology The Social And Spatial Organization Of Kofyar Agriculture

Rodrigo Liendo Stuardo

Settlement Ecology The Social And Spatial Organization Of Kofyar Agriculture:

Settlement Ecology Glenn Davis Stone,1996-11 What determines agrarian settlement patterns Glenn Davis Stone addresses this question by analyzing the spatial aspects of agrarian ecology the relationship between how farmers farm and where they settle and how farming and settlement change as population density rises Crosscutting the fields of cultural anthropology archaeology geography and agricultural economics Settlement Ecology presents a new perspective on the process of agricultural intensification and explores the relationships between intensification and settlement decision making Stone insists that paleotechnic traditional agriculture must be seen as a social process with the social organization of agricultural work playing a key role in shaping settlement characteristics These relationships are demonstrated in a richly documented case study of the Kofyar who have been settling a frontier in the Nigerian savanna The history of agricultural change and the development of the settlement pattern are reconstructed through ethnography archival research and aerial photos and are analyzed using innovative graphical methods Stone also reflects on the limits of ecological determination of settlement comparing the farming and settlement trajectories of the Kofyar and Tiv on the same frontier

Settlement Ecology of the Ancient Americas Lucas C. Kellett,Eric Jones,2016-10-04 In this exciting new volume several leading researchers use settlement ecology an emerging approach to the study of archaeological settlements to examine the spatial arrangement of prehistoric settlement patterns across the Americas Positioned at the intersection of geography human ecology anthropology economics and archaeology this diverse collection showcases successful applications of the settlement ecology approach in archaeological studies and also discusses associated techniques such as GIS remote sensing and statistical and modeling applications Using these methodological advancements the contributors investigate the specific social cultural and environmental factors which mediated the placement and arrangement of different sites Of particular relevance to scholars of landscape and settlement archaeology Settlement Ecology of the Ancient Americas provides fresh insights not only into past societies but also present and future populations in a rapidly changing world Island, River, and Field John H. Walker, 2018-05 John H Walker's innovative study of the Bolivian Amazon examines the agricultural landscape and analyzes the earthworks from an archaeological perspective The Organization of Agricultural Production at a Classic Maya Center Rodrigo Liendo Stuardo, 2002 A detailed analysis of the economic foundations of the prehispanic Maya city of Palenque Full information on extensive ridged field systems in Palenque's immediate hinterland and on the rural settlement associated with them The study concludes that initially the construction and use of these ridged fields systems was strongly controlled and managed by elites residing in the city itself Later in the sequence there is a substantial decrease in central administrative control Detailed data are available electronically Complete text in English and Spanish The Biodemography of Subsistence Farming James W. Wood, 2020-04-23 Viewing the subsistence farm as primarily a demographic enterprise to create and support a family this book offers an integrated view of the demography and ecology of preindustrial farming Taking an interdisciplinary perspective it examines how traditional farming practices interact with demographic processes such as childbearing death and family formation It includes topics such as household nutrition physiological work capacity health and resistance to infectious diseases as well as reproductive performance and mortality The book argues that the farming household is the most informative scale at which to study the biodemography and physiological ecology of preindustrial non commercial agriculture It offers a balanced appraisal of the farming system considering its strengths and limitations as well as the implications of viewing it as a demographic enterprise rather than an economic one A valuable resource for graduate students and researchers in biological and physical anthropology cultural anthropology natural resource management agriculture and ecology Seeking a Richer Harvest Tina Thurston, Christopher T Fisher, 2006-11-25 Subsistence intensification innovation and change have long figured prominently in explanations for the development of social complexity among foragers and horticulturalists and the rise of chiefly societies and archaic states yet there is considerable debate over the actual mechanisms that promote these processes Traditional approaches to the intensification question emphasize population pressure climate change bureaucratic management or even land degradation as prerequisites for the onset of new or changing strategies or the construction and maintenance of agricultural landscapes Most often these factors are modeled as external forces outside the realm of human decision making but recent archaeological research presents an alternative to this suggesting that subsistence intensification is the result of human driven strategies for power prestige and status stemming from internal conditions within a group When responding to environmental adversity human groups were less frequently the victims as they have been repeatedly portrayed Instead human groups were often vigorous actors responding with resilience ingenuity and planning to flourish or survive within dynamic and sometimes unpredictable social and natural milieus Water Histories and Spatial Archaeology Michael J. Population Circulation and the Transformation of Ancient Zuni Communities Gregson Schachner, 2012-04-01 Because nearly all aspects of culture depend on the movement of bodies objects and ideas mobility has been a primary topic during the past forty years of archaeological research on small scale societies Most studies have concentrated either on local moves related to subsistence within geographically bounded communities or on migrations between regions resulting from pan regional social and environmental changes Gregson Schachner however contends that a critical aspect of mobility is the transfer of people goods and information within regions This type of movement which geographers term population circulation is vitally important in defining how both regional social systems and local communities are constituted maintained and most important changed Schachner analyzes a population shift in the Zuni region of west central New Mexico during the thirteenth century AD that led to the inception of major demographic changes the founding of numerous settlements in frontier zones and the initiation of radical transformations of community organization Schachner argues that intraregional population circulation played a vital role in shaping social transformation in the region and that many notable changes during this period arose directly out of peoples attempts to create new social mechanisms for coping with frequent and geographically extensive residential mobility By examining multiple aspects of population circulation and comparing areas that were newly settled in the thirteenth century to some that had been continuously occupied for hundreds of years Schachner illustrates the role of population circulation in the formation of social groups and the creation of contexts conducive to social change

The Organization of Ancient Economies Kenneth Hirth, 2020-09-17 In this book Kenneth Hirth provides a comparative view of the organization of ancient and premodern society and economy Hirth establishes that humans adapted to their environments not as individuals but in the social groups where they lived and worked out the details of their livelihoods He explores the variation in economic organization used by simple and complex societies to procure produce and distribute resources required by both individual households and the social and political institutions that they supported Drawing on a wealth of archaeological historic and ethnographic information he develops and applies an analytical framework for studying ancient societies that range from the hunting and gathering groups of native North America to the large state societies of both the New and Old Worlds Hirth demonstrates that despite differences in transportation and communication technologies the economic organization of ancient and modern societies are not as different as we sometimes think

Process and Meaning in Spatial Archaeology Eric Jones, John Creese, 2017-01-21 Process and Meaning in Spatial Archaeology examines Northern Iroquoian archaeology through various lenses at multiple spatial levels including individual households village constructions relationships between villages in a local region and relationships between various Iroquoian nations and their territorial homelands The volume includes scholars and scholarship from both sides of the US Canadian border presenting a contextualized analysis of settlement and landscape for a broad range of past Northern Iroquoian societies The research in this volume represents a new wave of spatial research exploring beyond settlement patterning to the process and the meaning behind spatial arrangement of past communities and people and describes new approaches being used for better understanding of past Northern Iroquoian societies Addressing topics ranging from household task scapes and gender relations to bioarchaeology and social network analysis Process and Meaning in Spatial Archaeology demonstrates the vitality of current archaeological research into ancestral Northern Iroquoian societies and its growing contribution to wider debates in North American archaeology This cutting edge research will be of interest to archaeologists globally as well as academics and graduate students studying Northern Iroquoian societies and cultures geography and spatial analysis Contributors Kathleen M S Allen Jennifer A Birch William Engelbrecht Crystal Forrest John P Hart Sandra Katz Robert H Pihl Aleksandra Pradzynski Erin C Rodriguez Dean R Snow Ronald F Williamson Rob Wojtowicz

Pastoralist Landscapes and Social Interaction in Bronze Age Eurasia Michael David Frachetti, 2009-01-05 Offering a fresh archaeological interpretation this work reconceptualizes the Bronze Age prehistory of the vast Eurasian steppe during one of the most formative and innovative periods of human history Michael D Frachetti combines an analysis of newly documented archaeological sites in the Koksu River valley of eastern Kazakhstan with detailed paleoecological and ethnohistorical data to illustrate patterns in land use settlement burial and rock art His investigation illuminates the practical effect of nomadic strategies on the broader geography of social interaction and suggests a new model of local and regional interconnection in the third and second millennia B C E Frachetti further argues that these early nomadic communities played a pivotal role in shaping enduring networks of exchange across Eurasia Classic Maya Polities of the Southern Lowlands Damien B. Marken, James L. Fitzsimmons, 2015-11-02 Classic Maya Polities of the Southern Lowlands investigates Maya political and social structure in the southern lowlands assessing comparing and interpreting the wide variation in Classic period Maya polity and city composition development and integration Traditionally discussions of Classic Maya political organization have been dominated by the debate over whether Maya polities were centralized or decentralized With new largely unpublished data from several recent archaeological projects this book examines the premises strengths and weaknesses of these two perspectives before moving beyond this long standing debate and into different territory The volume examines the articulations of the various social and spatial components of Maya polity the relationships strategies and practices that bound households communities institutions and dynasties into enduring or short lived political entities By emphasizing the internal negotiation of polity the contributions provide an important foundation for a more holistic understanding of how political organization functioned in the Classic period The Cambridge World History: Volume 2, A World with Agriculture, 12,000 BCE-500 CE Graeme Barker, Candice Goucher, 2015-04-16 The development of agriculture has often been described as the most important change in all of human history Volume 2 of the Cambridge World History series explores the origins and impact of agriculture and agricultural communities and also discusses issues associated with pastoralism and hunter fisher gatherer economies To capture the patterns of this key change across the globe the volume uses an expanded timeframe from 12 000 BCE 500 CE beginning with the Neolithic and continuing into later periods Scholars from a range of disciplines including archaeology historical linguistics biology anthropology and history trace common developments in the more complex social structures and cultural forms that agriculture enabled such as sedentary villages and more elaborate foodways and then present a series of regional overviews accompanied by detailed case studies from many different parts of the world including Southwest Asia South Asia China Japan Southeast Asia and the Pacific sub Saharan Africa the Americas and Europe

The Archaeology of Household Activities Penelope Allison, 2013-05-13 This pioneering collection engages with recent research in different areas of the archaeological discipline to bring together case studies of the household material culture from later prehistoric and classical periods The book provides a comprehensive and accessible study for students into the material records of past households aiding wider understanding of our own domestic development

Housework Kenneth G. Hirth, 2010-02-15 Households are without question the most important social units in human society They are interactive social units whose primary concern is the day to day well being of their kith and kin Households reproduce themselves and provide their members with the economic psychological and social resources necessary to live their lives Although households vary enormously in size and organization they are the fundamental social settings in which families are defined and cultural values are transmitted through a range of domestic activities and rituals Despite their many functions it is the range and productivity of their economic activities that determine the success survival and well being of their members Households are the primary production and consumption units in society and provide the vehicle through which resources are pooled stored and distributed to their members Survival and reproduction is their business and the work they do determines their success

Africa Tony Binns, Etienne Nel, Alan Dixon, 2012-01-11 For many Africa is regarded as a place of mystery and negative images where reports of natural disasters and civil strife dominate media attention with relatively little publicity given to any of the continent's more positive attributes Africa has at last begun to receive the depth of interest it has long deserved in the shape of debates about trade aid and debt the Make Poverty History campaign and the UK's Commission on Africa But behind the superficial media facade Africa is a diverse complex and dynamic place with a rich history and a colonial engagement that although short lived was fundamental in determining the long term future of the continent At the start of the second decade of the twenty first century when the world is engulfed in a major financial crisis Africa has the dubious distinction of being the world's poorest continent This book introduces and demystifies Africa's diversity and dynamism and considers how its peoples and environments have interacted through time and space The background and diversity of Africa's social cultural economic political and environmental systems is examined as well as key development issues which have affected Africa in the past and are likely to be significant in shaping the future of the continent These include the impact of HIV AIDS sources of conflict and post conflict reconstruction the state and governance the nature of African economies in a global context and future development trajectories Africa Diversity and Development is a refreshing interdisciplinary text which enhances understanding of the background to Africa's current position and clarifies possible future scenarios It is richly illustrated throughout with diagrams and plates and contains a wealth of detailed case studies and current data

Legacies of Space and Intangible Heritage Fernando

Armstrong-Fumero, Julio Hoil Gutierrez, 2017-03-01 Legacies of Space and Intangible Heritage is an interdisciplinary exploration of the intersections between the study and management of physical sites and the reproduction of intangible cultural legacies The volume provides nine case studies that explore different ways in which place is mediated by social political and ecological processes that have deep historical roots and that continue to affect the politics of heritage management Spaces of human habitation are both historical records of the past and key elements in reproducing the knowledge and values that define lives in the present Practices knowledge and skills that communities recognize as part of their culture and that a range of legal statutes define as protected intangible heritages are threatened by increased migration the displacement of indigenous peoples and limits on access to culturally or historically significant sites This volume addresses how different physical environments contribute to the reproduction of cultural forms even in the wake of these processes of displacement and change Case studies from North and South America reveal a pattern of abandonment and reestablishment of settlements and show how collective memory drives people back to culturally meaningful sites This tendency for communities to return to the sites that shaped their collective histories along with the growing importance granted to intangible heritage challenges archaeologists and other heritage workers to find new ways of incorporating the cultural legacies that link societies to place into the work of research and stewardship By examining the politics of cultural continuity through the lenses of archaeology and ethnohistory Legacies of Space and Intangible Heritage demonstrates this complex relationship between a people's heritage and the landscape that affects the making of place Contributors Rani Alexander Hannah Becker Minette Church Bonnie Clark Chip Colwell Winifred Creamer Emiliana Cruz T J Ferguson Julio Hoil Gutierrez Jonathan Haas Saul Hedquist Maren Hopkins Stuart B Koyiyumptewa Christine Kray Henry Marcelo Castillo Anna Roosevelt Jason Yaeger Keiko Yoneda

Grounding Education in Environmental Humanities Lucas Johnston, Dave Aftandilian, 2018-11-05 This edited volume draws together educators and scholars to engage with the difficulties and benefits of teaching place based education in a distinctive culture laden area in North America the United States South Despite problematic past visions of cultural homogeneity the South has always been a culturally diverse region with many historical layers of inhabitation and migration each with their own set of religious and secular relationships to the land Through site specific narratives this volume offers a blueprint for new approaches to place based pedagogy with an emphasis on the intersection between religion and the environment By offering broadly applicable examples of pedagogical methods and practices this book confronts the need to develop more sustainable local communities to address globally significant
